Working for Victory

By International News Service

Detroit, April 7.—In answer to an appeal from President Roosevelt, delegates to a special meeting of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. tonight voted practically unanimously to abolish double time and time and a half pay for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays when they fall within a 40-hour week.

There were but approximately 75 dissenting votes when the question was put and those that did stand to cast negative votes were booed by the more than 1300 delegates who had voted favorably.

Simultaneously, the delegates approved an executive board ten-point program termed "victory through equality of sacrifice" which reaffirmed a pledge to refrain from strikes and asked limitations on war profits, individual incomes and rigid price fixing.

Earlier, R. J. Thomas, president of the U. A. W.-C. I. O., read a letter from President Roosevelt in which the Chief Executive assured the delegates that the Government would recapture such profits that might be returned to corporations through elimination of double time and emphasized the need for industries to operate seven days a week.

In supporting the President's plea, Thomas said to the delegates:

"We have no better friend in the Government today than President Roosevelt. I want to be able to walk in on labor meetings and say to him, 'The workers have supported you in your demands.'

All in War Effort

"Let me say to our Commander in Chief that we are all bound up in this war effort and we are going along with our Commander in Chief."

Richard Frankensten, U. A. W.-C. I. O. aircraft director, also urged adoption of the President's plea and asked the delegates:

"Are we going to say in our blind folly we are unwilling to work?"

The resolution dealing with the abolishment of premium pay "until the conclusion of the war," calls for all local unions to proceed at once to effect modifications of their existing contracts.

Thus, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays will be treated as ordinary workings days and time and a half

She Is 1942's American Mother

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MRS. WILLIAM BERRY

New York, April 7 (AP).—The Golden Rule Foundation has announced that Mrs. William N. Berry, of Greensboro, N. C., had been selected as "The American Mother of 1942."

Mrs. George W. Stark, of Detroit, was named "Associate American Mother of 1942."

Mrs. Berry, 52, has 3 children and is secretary and treasurer of her husband's coal company. One of her sons is in the Army and two in the Navy.

Mrs. Stark is a poet and lecturer and has three children.

The foundation annually sponsors the selection "of a representative of the best there is in all motherhood," the announcement said, with a committee from the foundation making the choice.

Senate Orders Entirely New Profits Plan

Both 6 Per Cent Limit and Sliding Scale Voted Down

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

The Senate yesterday directed a House and Senate conference committee to devise a completely new plan for limitation of war profits, as the Administration won hands down in a fight to bar rigid percentage limitations from the $19,062,873,260 supplemental war bill.

The House-passed flat limit on profits of 6 per cent of cost was summarily rejected. Later, by a 40-to-21 vote, the Senate defeated a sliding scale formula graduating profit limits from 10 per cent on the first $100,000 of war contracts to 2 per cent on all above 50 million dollars.

Contains Broad Powers

Substituted by a voice vote was the Administration's modified plan. Open to complete revision in conference, this authorizes the Secretaries of War and Navy and the chairman of the Maritime Commission to "withhold from the contractor any amount of the contract price which is deemed . . . to represent excessive profits."

The Government could reopen contracts for renegotiation and sue if necessary for recovery of excess payments. Salaries and bonuses "in excess of a reasonable amount" would not be allowed.

Appropriation Bill Passed

But the Government's war production chiefs plainly favored deferment of the whole complex question of profits regulation for tax bill treatment, and the Senate heard charges that even the flexible Ad-

30,000 Children Drink More Milk Here in March

March was the biggest "penny milk" month since the program benefiting approximately 30,000 Washington public and parochial school children was launched in January, it was revealed yesterday.

Harry M. Gardner, WPA disbursing officer, reported that 735,558 half-pints were distributed last month, compared with 616,712 in February. The bottles cost the children nothing, the District 1 cent each. The difference in cost, about 2 cents a half-pint, was paid by the Agricultural Marketing Administration.

Further Reduction In Gas 'Inevitable'

By the Associated Press

Further curtailment of gasoline supplies for motorists in the East and Pacific Northwest appears inevitable, Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coordinator, said last night.

He declined to discuss the extent of any new curtailment but oil sources indicated that supplies at filling stations would be reduced, probably within a week, by 33 1-3 per cent below normal as compared with the 20 per cent cut now in force.

Jones Denies He Delayed U. S. Rubber

Synthetic Capacity Of 700,000 Tons Will Provide Little For Private Autos

By Windsor Booth
Post Staff Writer

There will be few or no synthetic rubber tires for American automobiles even in 1944 unless the Government's rubber program is stepped up from a projected 700,000-ton capacity, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, told the Truman Defense Investigating Committee yesterday.

Jones, as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and of the RFC-owned Rubber Reserve Co., is boss of the rubber stockpile. Before he left the stand he promised the committee to consider quantity production of butyl rubber, Standard Oil's improved synthetic, which the committee believes can be manufactured quickly and cheaply.

While testifying, Secretary Jones declared the British-Dutch rubber combine had blocked efforts of the United States to build up a larger stockpile of natural rubber, though it sold the product to the Japs up to the time of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Jones also emphatically denied responsibility for delaying the synthetic rubber program, and he indirectly rebuked William L. Batt and Edward R. Stettinius, jr., of the War Production Board, for saying there was a delay.

'Fulfills Their Recommendations'

"Until I read Mr. Batt's testimony before your committee, I thought we were following his and Mr. Stettinius' recommendation in the experimental rubber program," Jones said.

Stettinius suggested a 100,000-ton synthetic rubber pilot program on October 23, 1940, but, Jones said, "there is no magic in the figure of 100,000 tons. That figure could only have been an arbitrary figure fixed by Mr. Batt and Mr. Stettinius for experimental purposes. The program adopted by the rubber reserve company will produce about 70,000 tons and not 10,000 or 40,000. Our original program, together with privately owned facilities, will bring the total capacity to approximately 100,000 tons and fulfills the recommendations of Mr. Stettinius and Mr. Batt.

"Furthermore," Jones said, "neither 70,000 nor 100,000 tons will go very far with the supply of natural rubber cut off. For that reason the total capacity has now been increased to more than 700,000 tons."

Didn't Ask Priorities

The committee questioned Jones closely on what efforts he made to get high priorities on machinery for making synthetic rubber. He said that he had not sought any priorities. The questioning brought out that steel and machinery needed for rubber production remained far down on the priorities list until March 3, 1942, when Senator Truman (Democrat), of Missouri, chairman of the committee, made representations to the War Production Board and synthetic rubber machinery was granted an A-1 priority rating.

Senator Brewster (Republican), of Maine, questioned Jones at some length on a provision in all contracts for artificial rubber production providing that, although the Federal Government is paying for and will own the rubber factories, the contractors, including Standard Oil,

Present Levies Bad Enough

Roosevelt Opposes Sales Tax, Murray Calls It Inflationary

President Roosevelt said yesterday he was still not inclined toward a sales tax to help finance the war.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked at his press conference whether he had figured what his taxes would be under the Treasury's recommendations for $7,809,000,000 in new revenue, to be raised chiefly through increased personal and corporation income levies, excess profits levies and excise taxes.

He replied that he had not figured them for next year, that they were bad enough now.

"Do they incline you toward a sales tax?" he was asked.

No, he responded, in spite of personal hardships.

The President's view on a general sales tax—which has gained favor in some Congressional quarters as a substitute for the Treasury's recommendations—came at about the same time that C. I. O. officials urged a House committee to reject the sales proposal.

Philip Murray, C. I. O. president, in a statement read to the Ways and Means Committee, strongly opposed a sales tax as inflationary and suggested that the corporation excess profits tax computations be revised to "remedy the vicious abuses on war contracts now being exposed by the committees of Congress."

Julius Bemspak, general secretary treasurer of the United Electrical and Machine Workers of America (C. I. O.), proposed that Federal personal income tax rates be placed "at or near" 100 per cent above the level of $100,000 annually.

"That is more than we pay our President," he said. "It is more than we pay our top military personnel; and there can be no sound case for any individual's claiming that he is worth more to the Nation than, say, $100,000 per year."

W. P. Hobby, publisher of the Houston (Texas) Post and former Texas Governor, asked for special

All Industry Set to Make War Goods

Nelson Preparing Orders to Result In All-Out Effort Within Two Months

By Alfred Friendly
Post Staff Writer

The Nation's war effort, already booming at a rate three-fourths of the projected average for this year, will be freed from the competition of civilian industry in less than two months.

By May 31, War Production Boss Donald M. Nelson declared yesterday, all sizable nonwar construction and virtually all metal-using consumer goods manufacture will have been shut down for the duration of the war. "The face of American industry" will have been changed, he said.

Order Expected Shortly

Two new orders, coupled with those already issued and taking effect for the most part at the end of next month, will accomplish the ultimate shift from "business as usual" to "production for victory," Nelson told a press conference.

The first, to be issued this week or next, will confine all new nonmilitary construction to "relatively small projects," defined by Nelson as "chicken coops, barns and porches."

The second will prohibit the use of steel in "hundreds" of specifically listed metal products. Hitherto, priorities have been denied nonessential manufacture, but through "leakage," stored-up inventories and other devices, steel has continued to flow for nonwar uses.

Only Time Will Tell

Nelson described the construction and steel orders as the climax of a curtailment program that began with the closure of the auto industry at the end of January. In the interim, he pointed out, scores of limitation orders have been issued, shaving off production of hundreds of metal-made consumer items and providing for complete cessation of manufacture on dates ranging from the end of January to the end of June.

Obviously aware that the pace of this curtailment has occasioned the

The India Problem

By the United Press

New Delhi, April 7.—The All-India Congress Party's working committee has decided to reject Britain's amended self-government plan, it was reported tonight, as Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru appealed to President Roosevelt to intervene, contending that the Indian problem is of vital import to all the United Nations.

(The London Daily Mail reported that an "eleventh-hour concession to Indian demands on the question of an Indian defense minister" was announced in New Delhi. It hinted that the Indians were willing to except operational control from the powers of a defense minister, leaving that to Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, and said:

("It is unlikely that the war cabinet would agree to such a weakening of Wavell's position in this grave hour.")

Indians Urged to Resist Foe

Nehru, most influential member of the Congress (Nationalist) Party, promised that if the Japanese invade India he will go to the front "and fight them unto the death."

As soon as the working committee reached its decision, it was learned, Nehru hurried to inform Louis Johnson, Mr. Roosevelt's personal envoy here. The decision will not be communicated to Sir Stafford Cripps, the British negotiator, until tomorrow morning.

Without waiting for a settlement with Britain, however, the Congress was reported to have decided to send a message to the Indian people to resist aggression with whatever means were available. They will

Reds Bag 79 German Planes For a Total of 494 in 9 Days

By the Associated Press

Kuibyshev, April 7.—Soviet airmen and ground batteries destroyed 79 German planes yesterday to boost their nine-day total to 494 Nazi craft against 103 Russian losses for this period, the Russians announced officially tonight.

The latest figures given in tonight's Moscow communique indicated a slackening in the furious pace of the aerial warfare which reached a peak over the weekend when the Russians listed 221 Nazi planes destroyed in the air and on the ground in two days. Yesterday's Soviet losses were placed at 19 planes.

Khaki painted German tanks thrown into the fighting against the Russians were singled out today as fresh evidence that continued heavy blows by the Red Army were forcing Hitler to use up materiel he had meant to save for a big spring offensive.

The tanks were manufactured as late as February, when Hitler's factories were going at top speed to equip the new German armies, said Pravda, Communist Party organ, and instead of being painted white for winter fighting bore their summer war paint.

Military dispatches reported the capture of 30 communities and a large railway station on the Central Front.

(The Germans admitted a break in their lines southeast of Lake Ilmen, where the Russians have been trying to destroy the trapped Sixteenth German Army at Staraya Russa for weeks, but claimed that the gap eventually was closed in hand-to-hand battles.)

Red Star, the army organ, reported 119 raids on Murmansk since the start of the war, and a very big attack on March 24, when 200 aircraft fought over the harbor. Red Star said 15 German planes were de-

Irreplaceable Losses

By John G. Norris
Post Staff Writer

Fresh Japanese reserves bulwarked by dive bombers and tanks, beat continuously against Gen. Wainwright's lines on Bataan yesterday, and the hard-pressed defenders grudgingly gave more ground.

As the bloody and crucial battle continued through its fourth day, the War Department reported "some additional progress" by the superior enemy forces and even more ominously: "Heavy" and irreplaceable American - Filipino losses.

There was no indication of a general withdrawal or break-through of Wainwright's lines running across the waist of the narrow Luzon peninsula, but with a deep wedge pushed into his center, the American commander faced an admittedly serious situation.

Enemy Losses Also Severe

In two communiques yesterday, the War Department told of fierce fighting continuing all through Monday and yesterday in the mountains and jungles of Bataan, with wave after wave of Japanese troops assaulting the center of the American-Filipino lines.

Enemy losses were severe, but for the first time the reports told of corresponding casualties among the little defending force.

The American-Filipino artillery, which has taken such heavy toll of the enemy in stopping earlier attacks, is no longer such an important factor in the close-in fighting now going on.

Hospital Bombed Again

Desperately the outnumbered defenders fought back with machine guns, grenades and bayonets, and the Japanese replied with fresh troops and dive bombers, the latter bombing and ground-strafing the front line soldiers.

On Monday, the morning communique reported, the enemy aerial attack was concentrated on the rear areas and the southern coast of

U. S., Mexico Agree on Total Collaboration

Southern Neighbor To Build Cargo Ships, Make Aviation Gas

Mexico and the United States last night agreed on a six-point program of "total" wartime collaboration.

A joint statement by Mexican Foreign Minister Padilla and Acting Secretary of State Welles stressed that arrangements of such magnitude were concluded in a series of whirlwind conferences lasting but one week "only because of the unprecedented friendship between the two nations."

Outstanding because of their immediate contribution to the United States war effort are Mexico's undertakings to participate in the construction of merchant shipping and provide high octane aviation gasoline.

Last night's agreement establishes specifically that the shipbuilding facilities of the Mexican government will begin construction of cargo vessels as soon as the two governments decide what size ships Mexico can best produce and United States material and tools can be rushed to shipyards south of the Rio Grande.

Erection of the plant to produce high octane flying fuel likewise awaits only the shipment of American equipment for refining Mexican oil.

Working on the premise that development of the economic potential of Mexico will greatly speed the war effort of the United States, the two governments last night further agreed:

1. To rush conclusion of a far-reaching commercial accord immediately following the public

Sub Sinkings Drop in Week, Knox Reports

One Tanker Attacked Off Atlantic Coast; Protective Fleet Grows

Secretary Knox said yesterday that there had been a "notable" reduction in Axis U-boat sinkings of Allied merchant ships off the Atlantic Coast during the past week, perhaps due to the growing fleet of American sub chasers and more effective counter-measures.

The Navy chief said there had been but one submarine attack on a tanker in American coastal waters in the last week and that incomplete reports indicate that it may have been only damaged.

Knox qualified his comments on the Atlantic submarine situation by noting that "Germany often attacks in waves" justify and that the present may be a "lull between waves."

Fleet of 600 Subchasers

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt revealed that plans are under way for a greater use of the Atlantic inland waterway as a counter-submarine measure.

Under study, he told reporters, is a plan to build quantities of wooden barges and use them for transportation in the inland waterway.

A fleet of 600 submarine chasers, ranging from 110 to 180-foot craft, is now building, Secretary Knox disclosed, with deliveries of the patrol craft coming along at a "very gratifying rate."

The craft, carrying depth charges, "Y-guns" and deck guns of 3-inch caliber or more, are greatly improved versions of the subchasers built in quantity during the first World War.

Eligible to Be Petty Officers

Navy and Marines to Enlist Negroes for General Service

The Navy announced yesterday that Negroes will be accepted for enlistment for general service in the reserve components of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Volunteers will be accepted, Secretary Knox said, as soon as a suitable base is established for the basic training of all recruits. Heretofore, Negroes have only been accepted in the Navy messman branch.

As soon as recruited and given their basic training, the Negro volunteers will be assigned to special units under white commissioned and petty officers at shore stations. When ready for sea, they will be assigned to small craft.

Eventually, they may form the crews of destroyers and other smaller warships, the Navy Secretary said.

As Negroes gain experience and qualify for higher ratings they will be made petty officers themselves, Knox said, but for the present there is no plan to commission Negro officers.

Negroes will get the same rating and pay as white enlisted men and may be assigned to a variety of duty, including a special Negro outfit in the Marines, employment in navy yards, and work on construction crews, probably small outfits similar in purpose to the Navy's construction battalions.

The District branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People last night denounced the Navy plan as meaning "segregated Negro naval labor units," and called on President Roosevelt to remove Secretary Knox because of what it called a "demonstration of the Nazi attitude."

The Navy announcement made clear that "recruiting of Negroes for service in the messman branch is to continue without change or interruption."

War Sidelights

Dutch Warn Of Attacks On Americas

Balboa, Canal Zone, April 7 (AP).—Two Netherlands colonial governors warned of approaching hostilities for the Dutch possessions in the Western Hemisphere today as United States and Netherlands forces prepared a determined defense for the strategic and economically important West Indies against marauding Axis naval forces.

Gov. G. J. J. Wouters of the Dutch West Indies warned the legislative council at Willemstad, Curacao, of the "serious possibility" that the islands may be involved directly in new hostilities and said the government was taking all possible military measures.

Oil refineries on the island of Aruba were shelled in mid-February by Axis submarines.

Gov. J. C. Kielstra of Dutch Guiana, at the opening session of that colony's legislature, told the legislators that "actual war" is approaching the Netherlands' territories in the Western Hemisphere.

"A heavy responsibility is ours as a remaining free part of the empire. We must guard our liberty with all our strength and means.

Sub Lost, British Admit

London, April 7 (INS).—The British submarine Tempest is overdue and must be considered lost, the admiralty announced tonight.

(The latest edition of Jane's fighting ships does not list the Tempest, indicating the submarine was one of the newest units of the British fleet.)

Earlier today the admiralty announced that the destroyer Havock has been wrecked off the coast of Tunisia. The announcement gave no details and made no mention of casualties. The vessel was completed in 1937. It displaced 1340 tons and had a normal complement of 145.

(A Rome communique said the Havock was set afire and sunk during an attack by Italian naval units.)

Hero's Son Gets Teddy

Melbourne, April 7 (AP).—Arthur MacArthur, 4-year-old son of the United Nations supreme commander, proudly clutched a teddy bear holding Australian and United States flags in its paws today and the general's wife paused from her relief work to thank the clothing supply depot for the gift.

The organization, known as "Woollies Appeal," provided woolen garments to needy small children during peacetime and has extended its wartime service to include refugee families.

Extensive Damage Done in Three Days Of Successive Raids

By the Associated Press

Melbourne, April 7.—For the third successive day Royal Australian air force and American planes smashed at the Japanese in New Guinea areas today, swooping in a low level attack on Lae, where they planted sticks of bombs on grounded aircraft and the airdrome buildings and runways.

Correspondents at Port Moresby, Australian base in New Guinea, said fires were started by the attack and that the damage inflicted in the three successive days of attacks must have been extensive.

The Allied bombers were accompanied by fighting planes which shot down the lone Japanese fighter who tried to interfere with the attack. He crashed into the sea.

Meanwhile, Navy and Munitions Minister J. M. Makin declared that "Australia never stood in a better position than she does today" to repel a Japanese invasion.

Production of munitions and war equipment is mounting rapidly, he declared.

Supply Council Meets

The Allied Supply Council, holding that Supply Minister John Beasley described as its most important meeting yet, adopted a plan today to coordinate supplies and equipment for United States and Australian troops from materiel available here and that arriving from America under the lend-lease program.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Maj. Gen. Richard H. Sutherland and W. S. Wasserman, chief of the United States lend-lease mission in Australia, attended the session and informed the council of the amount of United States equipment in this country and gave an estimate of supplies expected.

Beasley said scope of the supply council has been widened to include control of shipping, land transport and distribution of medical equipment.

Dutch Build Up Air Force

In other war moves, Hubertus J. Van Mook, Netherlands East Indies Lieutenant Governor, anounced that the nucleus of the Dutch air force will remain in Australia, supplies which arrived too late for the Batof Java will be diverted to Australian and American forces, and a number of Dutch officers will be attached to the staff of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the Allied naval command.

Van Mook announced establishment of a four-man commission headed by J. E. Hoogstraten, former East Indies economic affairs director, to handle all nonmilitary affairs from Australia, and the formation of an informaion bureau.

Standley Arrives in Russia

By the Associated Press

Kuibyshev, April 7.—The first United States plane in its war paint to reach Soviet Russia landed United States Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley at the airport here today.

As the big plane with its red, white and blue insignia rolled to a stop, Admiral Standley stepped out into a foot of slush and remarked: "Well, it's good to be here. We've been on the way 19 days."

He was wearing a fedora, a strange-looking hat in this climate. He received the greetings of American Embassy personnel and newspapermen, representatives of the Russian foreign office, Chinese, Polish and Netherlands diplomats, and Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, the British Ambassador.

He said he would present his credentials soon in Moscow, where Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff was receiving the new Japanese Ambassador, Naotake Saito, today.

With the arrival of Admiral Standley, the United States is represented in Russia by an ambassador for the first time since last October when Laurence A. Steinhardt left to take a new post in Turkey.

Jap Slaughter Of Prisoners Under Probe

By the United Press

Melbourne, April 7.—Army Minister Francis M. Forde asked today for a full report of published statements by soldiers who escaped from New Britain Island that Japanese invaders shackled Australian troops, stood them in squads and shot or bayoneted them to death.

Australian newspapers printed reports by troops who took part in the hopeless defense of New Britain Island against overwhelming Japanese forces that enemy landing parties committed widespread atrocities on their captives.

From Townsville on the northeast coast came stories of the "barbaric slaughter" of 60 Australia service men after the occupation of New Britain, island outpost northeast of New Guinea, early in February.

"The Australians, as a result of starvation and lack of arms, were forced to surrender unconditionally to the enemy at one plantation in the Gasmata region," one dispatch said.

All Put to Death

"A landing party from a Japanese destroyer lined them up, tied their hands behind their backs and marched them into the bush. They then put them to death, either by shooting or bayoneting."

Australian soldiers reaching Melbourne told stories of uniform gallantry in hopeless attempts to defend New Britain.

"Little groups of our fellows were living in the hills and jungles when I escaped," an Australian corporal related. "Many certainly still are there, living with the natives in most primitive conditions, waiting to get off and have another chance at the Japs."

An Australian private now in Melbourne told how his group of 110 men stemmed repeated waves of Japanese infantry attacking an airdrome after landing near Mount Vulcan on January 23.

Plastered the Japs

"For two or three hours we plastered the Japs with mortars," he said, "but they poured in reinforcements while their dive-bombers pounded us. As soon as the infantrymen had exhausted their 40 rounds of ammunition, they would withdraw and make way for new waves.

"Finally we withdrew in trucks under constant dive-bombing to Kravat, a large plantation several miles back, where we joined other troops. Five hundred of us trekked nearly 100 miles across the country before finding a rescue schooner.

"Exhaustion, malaria, hunger and dysentery took a heavy toll as we crossed the crocodile-infested swamps, often waist-deep in mud. Finally we found the schooner, which the Japs had sabotaged. Our mechanics repaired it and we sailed to another part of New Britain where we found a larger vessel which returned us to Australia."

Bataan's Defenders Forced Back With Heavy Losses

Bataan in the vicinity of Mariveles.

Yesterday, the Nipponese attacked a field hospital, causing heavy casualties among the wounded soldiers. Three separate flights of heavy bombers smashed the plainly-marked haven, the War Department said.

It was the same hospital bombed by the Japanese last week, an acmand in Manila broadcast an apology. Yesterday's attack, the War Department declared, "tends to prove that both raids were intentional."

Bay Fortresses Shelled

With the full strength of the Japanese air force on Luzon directed against objectives on Bataan, the military establishments on Corregidor and the other harbor forts went unmolested from the air Monday and Tuesday. The island fortresses, however, were shelled at intervals by the enemy siege guns in Cavite Province.

There have been no more attempts to land troops from the sea behind the defenders lines on Bataan such as the one the American-Filipino shore defenses beat off over the weekend. A renewal of the sea assaults may be expected, however, if Wainwright has to weaken the shore defense forces to reinforce his front lines.

These lines still run across Bataan north of the strategic east-to-west road from Bagac to Pilar, though their stability is threatened by the wedge driven by the Japs in the center.

War Deparment Communique 179

"1. Philippine Theater: The enemy continued heavy attacks on the center of our line in Bataan all day April 6, with some success. Casualties were heavy on both sides.

"Aerial bombing of our rear areas and the south coast of Bataan was particularly severe. An enemy amphibian plane was destroyed on the water in Manila Bay by the horizontal fire of one of our antiaircraft batteries.

"Enemy artillery from the Cavite shore shelled Corregidor and Fort Hughes for two hours on the afternoon of April 6. No damage and no casualties were sustained. The guns of our forts laid down a counter-battery fire on enemy mainland artillery emplacements.

"2. Australia: Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, acting head of the government of the Netherlands Indies, conferred at length today with Gen. MacArthur. They discussed the considerable part that the Netherlands forces are expected to play as the war progresses in the southwestern Pacific. Dr. Van Mook informed Gen. MacArthur that resistance to the Japanese invasion continues in Java. Two Netherlands Indies forces of considerable size, one under Gen. Schilling and the other under Gen. Pressman, are fighting fiercely in the interior jungles and mountains of Java. They are well supplied with food and munitions and are engaging a considerable force of the enemy.

"3. There is nothing to report from other areas.

War Dept. Communique No. 180

"1. Philippine theater: Superior enemy forces, supported by tanks and artillery, continue to attack the center of our line in Bataan. The Japanese have thrown fresh reserves into the fighting and have made some additional progress. Heavy losses have been sustained by our forces and by the enemy.

"Japanese dive-bombers are assisting in the attack, dropping bombs and machine-gunning our front-line soldiers.

"The enemy again bombed one of our field hospitals, inflicting heavy casualties among wounded soldiers undergoing treatment. The attack was carried out this morning by three fights of heavy bombers. This same hospital was bombed only a few days ago, after which the Japanese high command broadcast an apology. Today's attack on this plainly marked hospital, following so closely on the first attack, tends to prove that both raids were intentional.

"There was no air attack on Corregidor today, but all of our harbor defenses were shelled intermittently by artillery located in Cavite province.

"3. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Regular Army Fliers Reach Burma to Help A. V. G. Force

By the United Press

New Delhi, April 7.—Arrival of Regular United States Army fliers to join the famed A. V. G. in the defense of bomb-ravaged Mandalay was announced today from the Burma front as Japanese troops, snaking up both banks of the Irrawaddy River, advanced on a new British defense line less than 60 miles from the Burmese oil fields.

The British abandoned Thayetmo, 37 miles north of fallen Prome, after destroying oil and cement installations, and moved farther north to take up new positions in defense of the Minbu oil region, the last important source of oil left to the Allies in the Far East, a Burma communique reported. Minbu is 63 miles north of Thayetmo.

Meanwhile, 80 miles to the east, Japanese and Chinese artillery dueled along the road to Mandalay at a point a few miles above Toungoo, and a Chungking dispatch revealed that the American volunteer group, which has flown for months under the Chinese flag in defense of Burma and the Burma supply road, has now been joined by units of the American Air Force. Together, they will attempt to ward off further assaults on Mandalay, which the Japanese almost destroyed in a raid last Friday that caused 8000 casualities.

The Japanese, at last reports, had not advanced beyond Kama, 17 miles north of Prome on the west bank of the Irrawaddy, and Nyaungbinzeik, 15 miles north of Prome in the east bank.

One Japanese force has veered off northeast, up the Sinjok Valley, however, according to today's communique, and it was believed the Japs would soon be in both Thayetmo and Allanmyo, which lie on opposite sides of the river. The British, also left Allanmyo after carrying out successful demolitions.

Chungking dispatches said a column of 10 Japanese tanks and 100 trucks was pushing up the west bank of the river, which the British have defended only lightly. The British road of retreat probably will lie to the northeast, away from the river.

Failing to advance along the Mandalay road, the Japanese at Toungoo were reported yesterday to have veered east some 30 miles toward the Burma tin mines.

Parley Settles Transport Tie-Up Affecting Jeeps

West Memphis, Ark., April 7 (AP).—The controversy between Arkansas and a transport company which had resulted in tying up transports hauling Army jeeps was settled today on request of Army officials at Washington.

Chief Engineer W. W. Zass of the highway department, who came here to lead negotiations after ten motor transports loaded with jeeps were stopped at a weighing station, said the trucks would be allowed to move within a few hours.

Release of the transports, each loaded with seven new jeeps, was subject to the condition they would not exceed a 35-mile-per-hour speed limit.

Zass said another condition was that future transports, hauling the jeeps from a Toledo, Ohio, factory to the Army's quartermaster depot at Little Rock, observe maximum load regulations.

During negotiations for the settlement 430 other jeeps were held up at the Toledo factory.

Britain Has Proved Its Sincerity in Offer to India, Halifax Says

2 Conditions Are Necessary, Envoy Says

By the United Press

New York, April 7.—The British government has proved its sincerity in offering dominion status to India and if the plan were rejected "the best friends of India would not find it difficult to decide where the responsibility lay," British Ambassador Lord Halifax said tonight.

"I should be reluctant to think leaders of Indian thought would fail to grasp the opportunity now open to them," Halifax said in an address at Town Hall, part of which was broadcast nationally. "If they can reach the necessary measure of agreement the last obstacle to India's full self-government will be gone."

The ambassador, who was viceroy of India for five years, added that "no one any longer will be able to accuse Britain of bad faith in India" as result of submission of the dominion plan to Indian leaders by Lord Privy Seal Sir Stafford Cripps.

"One thing is surely clear," he said, "if the demand of the Indian leaders in the defense field were such as to involve division of responsibility in this vital subject, it would be contrary to all that experience has taught the United Nations in this war.

"If, however, our best efforts fail, the British government would find itself obliged to do its own duty, without the assistance or cooperation of the larger organized Indian parties."

Two Conditions

England's proposal to give India dominion status, Lord Halifax said, "is neither ambiguous nor lacking in courage."

The two conditions—that provinces wishing may retain their present constitutional position and that a treaty be drawn permitting the Indian union to decide in future its relationship to the British commonwealth—are "plainly necessary to the fulfilment of the plan," Lord Halifax said.

"Indian leaders have often said British proposals were vague and not sufficiently precise," he continued. "There is nothing vague about this offer. It lays down a definite plan for satisfaction of India's claim to free management of her own affairs."

To this end, Halifax said, the British government undertakes, immediately upon cessation of hostilities, to set up an Indian constitutional convention, charged with framing a new Indian constitution.

Statements that the British government promised India independence as soon as the first World War was over are not true "neither in fact nor in substance," Lord Halifax said.

"We announced in 1917 that the object of British policy was granting of self-governing institutions with a view to progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the British empire," he said.

In carrying out this promise, he continued, Parliament in 1919 passed an act by which "partial responsible government was introduced in certain important fields," and in 1925 the British government held the imperial conference. Parliament passed the act of 1935 by which government by ministers responsible to elected legislatures was introduced in India.

Magnificent Effort

When India was proclaimed a belligerent with the beginning of the war, he said, the Congress Party ordered all ministers in the provinces to resign.

"The government of six of the seven congress provinces lapsed into the hands of the governors and since then there has been a political deadlock," he explained.

"The British government has made repeated attempts to find the way through these difficulties, but so far without success."

Speaking of India's war effort and the alleged failure of the Congress Party to help, Lord Halifax said:

"India is at war. Her exertions have been voluntary and they have been magnificent . . . on the record up to date it would be hard to point to any field of India's war effort in which expansion has been limited for lack of patriotic zeal.

"On the other hand, we have not had the cooperation of the Indian National Congress, the largest and best organized political party in India."

The British ambassador listed the Congress Party, the Moslem League, the depressed classes and the princes of the 562 Indian states which are not part of British India, as the four major factors "which must combine if India is to be sufficiently united to assume the rights and duties of full manhood among the nations."

Sub Chasers Like This One Will Protect Ships

"MORE UNSINKABLE THAN DESTROYERS," is the way the Navy has described this type of submarine chaser. A fleet of 600 of the patrol vessels is being built at a "very gratifying rate," Secretary of Navy Knox said yesterday as he announced a "notable" reduction in the sinking of Allied merchant ships by Axis U-boats on the Atlantic coast

the new-type patrol vessels "more unsinkable than destroyers," and said they had Diesel engines rather than the gasoline motors which made the World War I ships not entirely satisfactory.

"They are the answer to the submarine problem," Hepburn stated.

Secretary Knox said the question of putting Navy crews on merchant vessels is now "under very careful study." Asked to comment on an article in the Washington Post that the Navy had made a proposal to this effect, he replied:

"We're encountered some difficulty in manning merchant ships, especially on long and dangerous voyages. How it may be solved is not yet decided. We're studying it carefully."

In disclosing that only one tanker was attacked by an Axis U-boat last week off the Atlantic coast, Knox made plain that he was speaking only of American home waters, from Maine to Florida, where at least 59 merchant ships have been sunk since the submarine attacks began in mid-January.

Naval officials said that besides the tanker, there was an attack on a small tug. Other sinkings reported in the press in Atlantic waters during the past week occurred earlier, they said.

"We have had a very aggressive campaign on to enhance the protection of merchantmen," Knox told reporters. "Whether the results of the past week are due to these measures or to a withdrawal of Axis U-boats we cannot be sure, but there has been a very notable dropping in the sinkings.

"The main things we have done are these:

"Obtained very complete obedience of merchant ships in following established protected sea lanes.

"Provided spots for them to anchor safely at night.

"Enlarged the number of boats, planes, and blimps patrolling the Atlantic waters."

Now being delivered at a "very satisfactory rate," Knox said, are the sub chasers that will form the backbone of the anti-submarine war. The Navy's program calls for 200 110-footers, 250 173-footers and 150 180-footers.

The latter craft will have a speed of 22 knots, and the smaller boats 17 to 18 knots, naval officials said.

House Report Hits Plant Cost As 'Excessive'

By Robert De Vore
Post Staff Writer

An Army inspector's report of "excessive costs" at the 27 million dollar Louisiana Ordnance Plant "which have pyramided to tremendous proportions in the past" and "cannot be regained," yesterday was laid before a special House Military Affairs investigating subcommittee.

Continuing its public inquiry into alleged waste of public funds in eight months of construction of a factory that now sprawls over 27 acres near Minden, La., and that is expected in a few days to start filling thousands of artillery shells with explosives, the committee also was told:

That an experienced railroad construction engineer, John S. Murphy, Illinois Central Railroad, yesterday submitted a "very fair estimate" of the cost of building 47.9 miles of railroad that was 41 per cent below actual expenditure for lines to serve the plant.

That because of inadequate planning, rail levels in some instances were so low that box car floors may be 15 feet below levels of some plant buildings, requiring, in the opinion of Gordon K. Miller, committee investigator, dangerous handling of explosives and increased labor costs.

That the value placed on 1700 pieces of rented equipment used by the contractor, the Silas Mason Co., of New York, exceeded the actual value by more than $400,000, and this overvaluation raised the rents. (The company's cost-plus-fixed-fee contract calls for payment of $861,765 for design, construction and operation of the plant, according to committee records.)

That in five months charges for repairing equipment reached a total of $612,262.83, a figure, according to Miller, that includes chiefly charges for labor and to which expenditures for materials and other cost factors have yet to be added.

That the contractor maintains a "field" or roving labor force that in the same period received $232,000 in wages, although, Miller said, he was unable to find in company records any indication that this force was being paid for repairing a specific piece of equipment.

That repair bills for some equipment were within a few hundred dollars of the cost of the equipment.

That company records show 17 workers being employed in a single day on repairs to one truck. Miller said that one doy's labor charge for fixing a "grill guard" and tow bar on the vehicle amounted to $97, with 87 cents charged for material.

"Gross Inefficiency"

The report on "excessive costs" at the plant covered construction conditions last January 21. The report was made by P. W. Harrison, "principal" engineer inspector engaged by the Army, to Capt. George N. Kibler, assistant United States engineer on the project. It said:

"Gross inefficiency, improper cost distribution and apparent lack of operations knowledge have created a serious condition in normal function of the transportation, light and heavy equipment repair shops, tire and battery departments, lubrication racks and gasoline stations at this project."

H. Ralph Burton, committee counsel, submitted a report forwarded by Julius Amberg, special assistant to War Secretary Stimson, which showed that $20,183,190 already has been spent on the project, which was originally estimated to cost $15,751,900. Observing that original estimates have twice been revised so that the figure now is $27,870,000, Burton interpreted the increase as attributable principally to rising costs.

A spokesman for the War Department whose officials, together with company officers are to be summoned by the subcommittee for hearings late this week or early next, said last night that "by far the bulk" of the increases were due to expansion of the plant beyond original plans.

7 More Ships Lost, Cuban Paper Says

By the United Press

Havana, April 7.—The newspaper El Mundo said today that seven merchant ships—five Americans, one British and one of unknown nationality—have been torpedoed and sunk in the last 48 hours.

Six of the ships were sunk south of Cape Hatteras and one in Mona Passage, between Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic, the newspaper said.

Size of the freighters was said to range from 1500 to 2600 tons.

Brazil to Arm Ships

Rio de Janerio, April 7 (AP).—The Brazilian government was reported to have decided today to arm all merchant ships heavily and order them to defend themselves against Axis submarines following the disclosure of the loss of the fifth ship flying this republic's flag.

A high shipping source said the merchant fleet also would sail blacked out at night. More than 100 Brazilian lives have been lost in Axis submarine action so far.

The foreign ministry announced the disappearance of the 3557-ton Brazilian freighter Cabedello, which sailed from Philadelphia February 14 for Brazil and has been unreported since.

The Cabedello carried 4400 tons of coal and was commanded by Capt. Pedro Velloso de Silveira with a crew of 55.

Officials of the Government Line Lloyd Brasileiro, the ship's owners, said they believed the vessel "was torpedoed at night without previous warning and sank immediately."

Indian Leaders Reject New Plan

be told not to run from places of danger and, if necessary, to face the invader calmly and resolutely.

Two Japanese air raids on the Indian mainland yesterday, followed by an air raid alarm at the teeming east coast city of Madras today, accompanied the political crisis, the outgrowth of a long-standing struggle by Indian nationalists, led by the pacifistic Mohandas K. Gandhi and his liberal lieutenant, Nehru, for freedom from the British empire.

Britain's original offer of dominion status after the war, in return for India's cooperation in fighting the Axis, was rejected on the grounds that it did not permit India enough control over her war effort. The nature of the rejected offer has not been disclosed.

It was understood that Britain was willing to grant the Congress Party's demand for an Indian defense minister, but that certain limitations were placed on the job to which the Congress objected. Congress leaders felt that without a real control of the central government, including defense, they would be unable to proclaim India's freedom from the pulpits, and to urge its saving through united efforts.

When Nehru appealed to Mr. Roosevelt, through Johnson, Congress Party leaders were packing their bags to leave New Delhi, virtually breaking off negotiations with Cripps. After the appeal, they unpacked to await developments.

Friends of Nehru said he was driven to invite American intervention, which only a few days ago the Congress Party feared would mean United States pressure on the side of Britain, because of growing anxiety for an Anglo-Indian settlement before the Japanese attacked India in force. Nuhru rushed to see Johnson immediately on receiving from Cripps this morning the British war cabinet's decision on the defense demand.

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress president, met Johnson before he and Nehru went to Cripps to receive the British reply. Not until after Nehru had talked with Johnson did the two party leaders report to the Congress working committee on London's decision.

OPA Employe To Be Extradited

Miss E. Dorothy Jensen, 21-year-old Office of Price Administration employe, of Rockville, Md., yesterday was ordered extradited to Nebraska, where she faces a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, the Associated Press reported.

Gov. Herbert O'Conor, in signing the order, said Miss Jensen had failed to show why she should not be extradited. She is accused, the Governor said, of obtaining $903 from a Lincoln (Nebr.) finance company in August, 1940.

At her hearing yesterday, Miss Jensen said that she was employed by the OPA in Washington and lived in Rockville, where she was arrested January 15.

U. S. Sub Sinks 2 Jap Vessels In China Sea

American submarines, continuing their attacks on Japanese supply lines in the Far East, added two more victims yesterday to their toll of enemy shipping.

A late Navy communique reported the sinking of a 10,000-ton passenger-cargo vessel and a 5000-ton freighter, both by a lone United States submarine prowling the dangerous waters of the China Sea.

It was the third announcement of enemy sinkings by the Navy's undersea force within four days. Twelve Japanese vessels, including two light cruisers, have been listed as sunk or damaged by American submarines in the three official communiques.

Officials noted that the latest sinkings raised the total of Japanese vessels sunk by the American Army and Navy in the war to date beyond the century mark. They were No. 100 and No. 101.

In all 211 Japanese vessels have been sunk or damaged by the United States armed services, according to the official communiques. Fifty-three of them were accounted for by submarines, including 32 reported sunk, 10 probably sunk, and 11 damaged.

The list of 101 vessels definitely sunk by United States or Navy action, includes 29 warships and 72 tankers, freighters or other non-combatant craft.

Navy Communique No. 68

"CHINA SEA: 1. Information has just been received that a U. S. submarine while on an extended patrol in the China Sea had sunk two Japanese merchant vessels.

"2. One of these ships was a combination passenger and cargo vessel of approximately 10,000 tons. The second was a cargo ship of about 5000 tons.

"3. These sinkings have not been reported in any previous Navy Department communiqué.

"4. There is nothing to report from other areas."

D. C. Girl of Jap Ancestry Cleared

A 22-year-old girl, whose ancestry threatened to place her in a concentration camp last week, was elated last night to learn the War Department has canceled its investigation and announced that she is "above suspicion."

Natalie Edmonde, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Alberta Edmonde, 1917 G Street Northwest, had been under suspicion because her mother married Riichiro Kawashima, Japanese artist, in New York in 1918. Natalie was born a year later and her father deserted them both two years later in France.

Natalie passed a civil service examination and was placed in the War Department. She still has her job and her mother has one with the WPB.

Free Fighters
Commercial Pilots Fly U. S. Cargoes

Many regular Army pilots are being relased for more important duties as the result of a courier service instituted along the East Coast by the Civil Air Patrol of the Office of Civilian Defense and soon to be extended to other areas.

Dean James M. Landis, director of OCD, when making this announcement yesterday said that more than half the Nation's eligible civilian pilots are now enrolled in the CAP and that applications are pouring in to wing commanders in all 48 States.

Earle L. Johnson, new national CAP commander, said that during its first 20 days of operation the Pennsylvania wing of CAP flew 2,277,000 pound-miles of cargo from Maine to Florida in 270 hours of flying time. Five planes were used in this experiment to test the value of the service, he said, and the cargo included equipment and supplies needed at Army air bases.

The Pennsylvania test, which proved so successful it is being continued on a permanent basis, indicates "but one of the many functions Civil Air Patrol is capable of performing, and thus relieving the Army air forces of many purely routine tasks," Johnson said.

Approximately 38,000 members have enrolled in the patrol to date, with planes thus brought into service ranging from very small affairs to high-powered models capable of flying long distances with large loads.

Fire Sweeps Dock Used by Navy

Boston, April 7 (U.P.).—A four-alarm fire caused $40,000 damage today to East Boston waterfront property recently taken over by the Navy and sent a pall of smoke drifting across Boston Harbor to virtually blackout the downtown business district.

The blaze broke out in an abandoned coal dock, formerly owned by the Massachusetts Wharf Coal Co., and spread rapidly over the creosoted dock installations. The property is adjacent to the East Boston shipyard of the Bethlehem Steel Co. Federal authorities said the FBI would be asked to investigate the cause of the fire.

Special Program Set at Museum

A special Easter Week program at Washington's Children's Museum was opened yesterday with a Czechoslovakian girl's talk on Easter in her homeland. The speaker was Helenka Glassey, a director of the International Students House.

The museum's Spanish Club will show a movie on Chile today, to be followed by a nature movie tomorrow, a marionette show Friday, and a film entitled "The Adventures of Chico," saga of a Mexican lad, on Saturday. All events are scheduled for 3:30 p. m.

War Council To Rush Arms To MacArthur

By Michael Chinigo
International News Service Staff Writer

President Roosevelt yesterday gave the Pacific War Council a "very encouraging" picure of the reinforcements in weapons and men already sent by the United Sates to battle stations in the Southwest Pacific.

Informaion laid before the council by President Roosevelt at a 90-minute session also led to a decision to speed additional munitions to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia for the offensive shaping up against the Japanese.

British Ambassador Lord Halifax, Great Britain's representative on the new council reflected in general a new optimism expressed by the other members, when he said the war progress report by Mr. Roosevelt was "very encouraging."

General Staff Given Views

The council's recommendations will be passed on to the joint American-British general staff groups for action and will be carried out in keeping with the availability of munitions and the requirements of other United Nations theaters of operations throughout the world.

The United Nations representatives in today's meeting were the same as in the first session with the exception of Minister McCarthy of Canada who replaced Councilor Hume Wrong.

Chinese Minister T. V. Soong said as he emerged from the cabinet room that the results were "very satisfactory from the Chinese point of view" and added that he had made no specific suggestions as to Chinese needs.

New Zealander Elated

New Zealand Minister Nash declared that in his opinion no war council or other body meeting to discuss war strategy was doing a better job than "we have been doing so far."

"Everything," he added, "is really excellent."

Netherlands Minister Loudon admitted that he had reported on dogged Dutch resistance in Java, but declined to disclose whether he had asked for aid to the isolated Dutch groups still battling the Japanese.

The next meeting of the Pacific council was fixed for next Tuesday, when it was expected that Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada would participate.

D. C. Gas Dealers Charge Maximum

The Office of Price Administration's recent order freezing existing gasoline prices in 19 States and the District of Columbia was amended yesterday to allow all retailers to charge 3 cents a gallon more than the wholesale cost.

Most Washington dealers, if not all of them, already are operating on a margin of at least 3 cents, so prices here are not expected to be effected. Harry R. Wainwright, executive research director of Retail Gasoline Dealers, Inc., said he knew of no District filling station selling fuel at less than a 3-cent margin.

Senate Orders Entirely New Plan Drafted to Limit Profits

To meet a two-way attack by advocates of strict percentage limits and opponents of any statutory restrictions, Senate leaders promised a thoroughgoing overhaul of profits control plans in conference, after consultation with war production chiefs. The full membership of House and Senate deficiency appropriations subcommittees were appointed to the conference group to work out the details.

All but overshadowed by the profits row was the huge sixth supplemental defense appropriation bill, which was passed with the compromise profits rider appended. This carried funds to expand the Army to 3,600,000 men by December 31, and to complete another 31,070 war planes toward the President's 1943 goal of 185,000 airships.

Although the Senate suspended its rules by a vote of 50 to 10 to consider the war gains restrictions, it refused to waive the ban against legislation on spending bills to make way for labor and general price control riders.

Senator Pepper (Democrat), of Florida, sought vainly to open the bill to consideration of the "Baruch plan" for imposition of overall ceilings on wages as well as profits, rents and prices. The Senate turned down his motion by a voice vote.

By a large division count majority, the Senate also refused Pepper permission to call up his labor amendment, outlawing any requirements for a fee paid to labor unions as a condition of work on war projects.

Mead Amendment Rejected

Several proponents of pending labor bills voted against the Pepper wage ceiling and union fee amendments, under an agreement that the whole subject will be reopened in the Senate on April 20, when Senator Connally (Democrat), of Texas moves to call up his bill to take over plants where operation is impeded by either management or labor. The Connally bill "freezes" labor relations, except wages, in such plants.

Before passing the big war appropriation measure, the Senate rejected on a point of order an amendment by Senator Mead, (Democrat), of New York, to punish any discrimination in hiring of workers on war contracts "because of race, color or creed," by a $1000 fine or six-months imprisonment.

Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, withdrew an amendment creating a special war profits board to classify war contracts into types and to devise profits limits on each that would yield for the contractor 5 per cent on his capital investment. Representative McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, who managed the bill, promised Taft his plan would be considered in conference.

McKellar accepted a series of amendments by Senator Danaher (Republican), of Connecticut, extending operation of the profits control rules to three years beyond the duration of the war, and modifying the bill's outright ban on any court action to recover sums withheld from the Government from contractors as "excess."

Administration Leaders Confer

The Administration's successful drive to eliminate sliding scale percentage limits on profits, previously approved by the committee, followed a morning conference between Senate leaders, Undersecretary of War Patterson, Undersecretary of the Navy Forrestal, Chairman Land of the Maritime Commission and representatives of the Treasury Department and WPB. These agreed on the compromise formula devised by Senators O'Mahoney, of Wyoming and Overton, of Louisiana (Democrats). War Production Chief Donald Nelson later telephoned his approval of the plan.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley told the Senate that this group opposed any statutory limits, felt that they all would handicap production, but thought the compromise would interfere "less" than either the sliding scale or the flat House 6 per cent. Taft argued that the Senate should meet the wishes of the group and drop all profits legislation, but Barkley replied that if this were done the country risked adoption of the House flat 6 per cent limit.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, author of the "Sliding Scale Plan," and Senator Clark (Democrat), of Tennessee, challenged McKellar's move to strike the scale from the committee amendment, but the Senate voted it out. Clark said the amendment "doesn't amount to a hill of beans" without the specific profits limits.

Jumping into the fight on percentage limitations, Chairman George (Democrat), Georgia, of the Senate Finance committee, and Chairman Truman (Democrat), Missouri, of the Senate Defense Investigating committee, warned that even the compromise might hold up production and urged that profits be left for excess profits taxation.

or double time shall not be paid on those days when they fall within a 40-hour week.

The resolution concluded that time and a half shall be paid for all hours worked over eight hours in any one day or 40 hours in any seven-day working period; and time and a half for the sixth working day and double time for the seventh working day during any seven-day work week.

The President in declaring that industries must operate seven days a week, said:

"To overtake and outstrip Axis production, our munitions factories and our shipyards must operate on a seven-day week. Every day must be a work day. That does not mean that every man must work seven days a week. That would slow up rather than quicken production.

"But it does mean that every factory and every shipyard should be working seven days a week, night and day. The war does not stop for Sundays and holidays."

The nine points of the "equality of sacrifice" program in addition to acceptance of defense bonds for overtime pay were:

1. Legislation limiting war production profits to 3 per cent.
2. Legislation prohibiting any individual or family from receiving more than $25,000 annually in dividends, salaries or other income in any endeavor, whether involving war work or not.
3. Rigid price fixing on food, rent, clothing and other necessities; downward adjustments of "unfair prices."
4. Rationing of all food, clothing, housing and other necessities.
5. Wage increases to bring "real wages" to 1941 levels; a boost to at least $1 an hour in "sub-standard" industries.
6. A "guaranteed living wage" for dependants of men and women in the armed forces.
7. Moratorium on debts for workers made idle by plant conversion to war production and for persons in the armed services.
8. Establishment of a "labor division" in the war production board to "survey, encourage and recommend suggestions which hold the possibility of increasing war production."
9. Creation of a "post-war planning agency of government, labor, industry and agricultural representatives."

hearings set for May 18.

2. To collaborate in setting up on Mexican soil a series of "basic industries to meet Mexico's consumption needs and supply goods required by the war effort of the United States." Credits for material and equipment not available in Mexico will be advanced by the United States Import-Export Bank and backed by a guarantee of the Mexican Government.

3. To survey immediately the needs of Mexico's railway transportation system so that it may efficiently convey to American soil strategic war materials whose production is being daily stepped up by the Mexican government.

4. That Mexico establish a permanent office in Washington to facilitate the handling of priority allocations problems.

The joint statement disclosed that a United States Mexican mission is now investigating Mexico's railw transportation difficulties and that pending their report, expected within the next 30 days, the War Production Board is already considering Mexican needs for rolling stock.

Mexico's Foreign Minister Padilla declared last night that the general arrangements for American-Mexican collaboration conclude his mission to Washington, but added that he will undertake a tour of leading United States defense plants before returning to Mexico City.

Jones Outlines U. S. Synthetic Rubber Needs

Goodyear, United States Rubber and Hycar, have first option to buy the plants after the war.

Brewster contended that the contract provision, if exercised by the companies, will in effect give the present synthetic rubber producers a monopoly after the war. Jones disputed Brewster's conclusions, saying the clause was put in the contracts merely to "be fair" with the companies. He remarked that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation can refuse to sell the plants to the present operators, or the Government can operate them to prevent a monopoly.

700,000 Tons on Hand

Jones told the committee that while the entire rubber situation "was in a state of flux" when the "baby" was laid at his door by the President on June 1, 1940, some order is beginning to appear. There is now on hand a stock pile of natural rubber totaling 700,000 tons and there are facilities for reclaiming "untold quantities" of used rubber. The last ships carrying crude rubber from the Far East are still coming in, increasing the tonnage in the natural stock pile.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a program for picking up such rubber as it can from Africa, the Amazon Valley and other South American countries, but Jones warned not to expect much from these quarters. He said that in the early days when rubber sold at $2 a pound, the South American wild trees were able to supply no more than 87,000 tons a year. He said he was not sanguine over domestic guyule production in the Southwest, and he predicted any rubber from that source would cost at least 50 cents a pound. "But we would be glad to get it even at that price," he said.

Jones said the synthetic program is shaping up as follows: The "big-four" rubber companies will have an annual capacity of 590,000 tons of buna-S synthetic by 1944. Buna-S is a German development made from butadiene, a petroleum product. It is expensive and difficult to make, but its quality equals that of natural rubber.

Program Divided

The remainder of the synthetic program is divided between duPont, making neoprene, and Standard Oil of New Jersey, making butyl rubber. Neoprene is an expensive, high quality product with oil-resisting properties said to make it superior to natural rubber for some uses.

Butyl rubber, developed cheap, but inferior and improved by Standard Oil, is cheap and easy to make. At least until recently it made an inferior automobile tire that was said to fall to pieces at speeds of more than 30 miles an hour. The commitee believes, however, that improved butyl rubber offers a solution to the problem of keeping American automobiles running, since butyl is abundant and no expensive machinery is needed to fabricate it.

Questioning of Jones by committee members brought out facts showing the paradoxical situation in which the British and the Dutch find themselves. Until four months ago the British-Dutch rubber combine, under the sponsorship of the two governments, exercised a 97 per cent monopoly over all the natural rubber produced in the world.

The combine continued to supply Japan with rubber until Pearl Harbor, but the group refused to sell Jones and the Rubber Reserve Co. more than 40,000 tons in 1940 for the United States stock pile, although Jones testified he tried to buy 150,000 tons. Furthermore, the Government was required to pay from 18 to 20 cents a pound for crude rubber while committee files show rubber can be marketed profitably for 5 cents a pound.

Threatened Sir John Hay

Jones told the committee he was convinced it cost the rubber plantations 12 to 14 cents to produce a pound. He agreed the cartel made a "handsome profit" in its dealings with the United States Government. Jones said he kept the price as low as he did by threatening Sir John Hay, the cartel's representative, with a synthetic rubber industry.

Still, the cartel declined to fill the American Government's orders for rubber—fearing too great a stock pile would depress the price—and when the Japanese took over Malaya, the stock of Government-owned rubber here was something less than 700,000 tons.

The British had accumulated a stock pile of less than 100,000 tons, and now, Jones said, "they are 'somewhat dependent' upon the United States to fill even their military rubber requirements. The Dutch, who four months ago jointly controlled "the world's supply of rubber, are out of the picture."

The committee recessed until next Tuesday when it will hear testimony from Robert R. Guthrie, formerly of the War Production Board.

WPB Gears All Industry To War Goods

principal criticism of his efforts to date, Nelson opened his press conference with an exposition of the considerations which led to the decision for gradual shutting down as opposed to a sudden stoppage immediately after Pearl Harbor. These considerations, Nelson explained, were the desirability of assembling inventories which were not otherwise usable in war production, and of maintaining a "going" factory organization until sufficient war contracts were placed in a specific plant to enable its continued operation.

Whether the War Production Board moved too fast or too slow in curtailing civilian industry, the production chief declared, is "a question that's only going to be proved by time."

Nelson gave the most optimistic picture of the war program that has been released to date.

He said that he was more pleased with the conversion effort than at any time since he took over the job; that "most" of the American metal-working factories could and would be brought into the war program; that the conversion of the auto industry was "beyond my expectations" and that a "great job" has been done in Detroit to push the entire program about two months ahead of schedule.

Admitting that trouble had been encountered in the shipbuilding program, Nelson revealed that the principal bottleneck—shortages of steel plate—seems to have been broken and that the quotas of plate for the Maritime Commission for February and March had been met, as well as the requirements for the Navy, freight cars, and for new industrial plants for synthetic rubber and 100-octane aviation gasoline.

No Doubt of Making Goal

Nelson said there was "no doubt in my mind yet" about meeting the President's eight-million-ton shipping goal for 1942.

The Nation's reception of his production drive he described as "very gratifying," despite initial criticism, some of which, he intimated, was the result of purposeful propaganda.

The conversion of the auto industry, the production czar continued, has progressed so rapidly that many estimates of an unemployment period while the plants were being retooled will not materialize. In two war items, which he declined for military reasons to indentify, instead of shortages originally anticipated for next November, the industry will have produced "too many" by June, he said.

Over Three Billions Spent

Nelson revealed that national expenditures for war purposes in March topped the three-billion dollar mark. Of these, 2½ billions, he said, were for weapons, materiel and plant construction, the rest being for pay and subsistence of the armed forces. This production rate of 30 billions a year for war goods compares with President Roosevelt's goal of 40 billions for 1942, and with 25 billions of net physical output for the whole Nation during the depression year of 1932.

At the same time, Nelson disclosed a "tremendously accelerated" pace in the placement of orders for war supplies since Pearl Harbor. Contracts and other firm commitments made in February totaled almost 2 billion dollars, as compared with about eight and one-half billions in January, five billions in December, and less than two billions in November. Throughout last fall contracts and commitments made amounted to only about three or four billions a month.

Machine Tools Still Problem

Looking ahead, the production chief intimated that the big problem was enlisting in the war program the machine tools in every small tool shop and factory tool room. The presently limiting factor on increased production, he explained, is machine tools, so that "the big development that has to take place from now on" is the mobilization of existing machinery, scattered widely and in small units.

"We haven't begun to tap the capacity of this country for war," Nelson added, alluding to this unused equipment.

Nelson conceded that the curtailment orders will make industrial casualties—and factories forced to close through lack of materials and inability to convert to war work—"just inevitable." He warned that the Nation faces a period of "difficult adjustment" and that the cessation in the manufacture of washing machines, refrigerators, autos and the like, necessarily means an eventual lowering of the standards of living.

German Aliens Allowed to File Suit in D. C.

Following the rulings which he has made in several similar court cases recently, Justice James M. Proctor at District Court yesterday refused to suspend for the duration a case in which the plaintiffs are citizens of Germany.

The justice pointed out that since Arthur and Charlotte Stern are residents of this country—living in New York City—and have filed intentions to become United States citizens, they are not barred as enemy aliens from bringing court actions.

The Sterns had brought suit against Stevan Ruzicka, of 820 Connecticut Avenue Northwest, asking an accounting on funds which they claim to have invested with him. They assert in their suit that they put up the cash to finance a process for producing wood coke which Ruzicka invented.

Paris Press Decries Vichy Ties With U. S.

By the Associated Press

Vichy, April 7.—Marshal Petain's government was disclosed officially tonight to be negotiating the sale of sugar from Reunion Island in the Indian Ocean to the United States as Axis-sponsored Paris newspapers expressed the strongest antipathy to date to Franco-American rapprochement.

One Paris editor, Jean Luchaire, of Les Nouveaux Temps, openly predicted the fall of the Vichy cabinet "at the end of this week or beginning of next—unless France has agreed to commit suicide for the benefit of President Roosevelt."

The sale of Reunion sugar, from an annual maximum supply of 88,000 metric tons, is planned to relieve the present sugar shortage in the United States, officials said. They denied that the negotiations included supplies from Martinique and Guadeloupe in the Caribbean.

For Turnabout Ships

American ships delivering war materials to the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf, officials declared, could easily pick up sugar at Reunion on their way home. This is considered of vital interest to the United States since the American lack of sugar is due not to a shortage of production but a shortage of transportation tonnage which cannot be diverted to Caribbean commercial traffic.

Luchaire's editorial comments, passed by the German censor, said, "French 'neutrality' is nothing but tacit complicity between Vichy and Washington."

He warned the French against drastic measures the Axis might take—"more harmful to our country than all the diplomatic breaks imaginable between France and the United States"—if the association between unoccupied France and the Anglo-American bloc were continued.

Laval Praised

Marshal Petain and Vice Premier Admiral Darlan are only "dusting away in Vichy," he said, while former Vice Premier Pierre Laval, Axis enthusiast, is the only one to occupy himself with the crucial questions of the day.

During the day the Vichy government protested officially to Washington against the appointment of Maynard Barnes as consul general to French equatorial Africa "without asking the consent of the legal French government." The vast colony is controlled by the Free French committee of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

(The protest appeared to be a routine matter.)

Sugar Rationing to Cost 'Less Than Million,' OPA Says

Cost of printed matter for the forthcoming sugar rationing registration will amount to "somewhat less than a million dollars," the Office of Price Administration reported yesterday.

That was the most specific reply OPA's press section was able to give to a Washington Post request, made last Friday, for figures on the reportedly high price of rationing.

The sum required for getting out ration books, application blanks, books of instruction and sundry other printed material for the scheduled registration of commercial and institutional sugar users April 28 and 29 and of home consumers May 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the Nation's public schools had been put at five million dollars by A. M. Sweeney, of Bridgeport, Conn., in a letter to the editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

"The total budget for rationing plans now covering only a few items such as sugar, tires and gasoline is already up to 87 million dollars and going higher each day," Sweeney wrote.

Figures on the cost of the entire rationing program would be compiled and available Saturday, the OPA said Friday when first queried. On Saturday, the OPA said it had been unable to get the data together, but would have it yesterday. Yesterday, the agency reported on the cost of sugar rationing printed matter and promised to provide similar information on other rationed commodities today.

Roosevelt Opposes Long Work Week

He Reminds Nation That Workers Produce More in 48 Than in 60 Hours

President Roosevelt yesterday vehemently opposed working excessive hours in war plants and asked the American people to examine and get into their heads the fact that the average workman produces more in a 48-hour week than in a 60-hour week.

The statement arose from a press conference question on the progress of studies for controlling both wages and profits in war industry.

Mr. Roosevelt said the studies were coming along. Asked for a "clew" as to their direction, he said that his own thinking had been in terms of the average man, woman and child. Two salient facts had emerged, he said.

The first was the average person, in time of war, thinks a great deal, and properly, of what it costs him and his family to live.

Americans Are Patriotic

Second, an overwhelming majority of the population are patriotic and want to do all they can to turn out the things needed in war.

A corollary to these points, he added, was a study he had made of other studies developed here and in Europe in regard to the output of a human being. This point he had never seen stressed, he said.

The studies made after the last war as to the most number of hours per week necessary to turn out the most goods found definitely—and met with general agreement—that the average individual turns out more goods, week in and week out, when he works 48 hours instead of 60, Mr. Roosevelt declared.

The President quoted Henry Ford to this point, saying he recalled that the famous industrialist had decided that work over 48 or 44 hours a week doesn't increase the total product turned out.

The President had asked reporters to interpret his remarks correctly, apparently in reference to his first two points.

Concensus was that the President was not in favor of general wage increases, feeling that they were not necessary in wartime as incentives to labor to produce to their utmost. However, his remarks were seen as sympathetic to wage boosts in order to meet cost of living advances and maintain workers' decent standards of living.

In the field of incentive wages, or bonuses for extra production, the President left no room for doubt. In response to a question, he declared he was utterly opposed to piece rates in peace time, and especially to piece rates in wartime because most people turn out all they can in a war and don't need any further incentive. For this reason, he added, he was opposed to bonuses.

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

consideration for small businesses—particularly newspapers—which find their revenue dwindling.

Fears Bankrup

He proposed an income tax credit for money actually paid on debts incurred before January 1, 1940, up to a maximum of 5 per cent of such indebtedness.

In the case of his own business, Hobby said that income taxes took 15 per cent of net earnings in 1937, 19 per cent in 1938 and 1939; 25 per cent in 1940, and 45 per cent in 1941.

"It is proposed to increase it to 65 or 70 per cent under Treasury proposals in the 1942 revenue bill, which would make it impossible to meet debt payments," he said. "The question is, gentlemen, whether these businsses shall be given tax relief which will enable them to remain in existence or whether the way shall be left open for a wave of foreclosures and bankruptcies.

"I may point out that within one week two very old and once well-established newspapers were forced to suspend publication. One, the Dallas Journal, is in my own State of Texas. It closed after nearly 40 years of continuous operation in the interest of Texas and the Nation. The Kansas City Journal, an 84-year-old newspaper, suspended a few days later.

"I am not arguing that taxes alone killed these newspapers, but a combination of taxes, rising costs and shrinking revenue did kill them. Their death is symptomatic."

Representative Knutson (Republican), of Minnesota, observed that with shrinking lineage and rising production costs the picture for newspapers is "very, very dark," and the publishing business is "going to be very, very hard."

Rope Swing Strangles Boy, 12, as He Plays 'Tarzan' in Woods, Friend Discovers Body

A 12-year-old Washington boy accidentally strangled himself yesterday while playing "Tarzan" on a rope swing at a makeshift playground in Cox's woods, Marietta Place and Ninth Street Northwest.

The boy, Gerald Pearthree, 825 Longfellow Street Northwest, was found suspended from a noose at the end of a 40-foot rope by a playmate, Paul Robbins, 11, of 831 Marietta Place Northwest. Paul tried to release the noose from Gerald's neck and when he realized the boy was dead, ran frightened to his home and told his mother, Mrs. Maurice Robbins.

Mrs. Robbins, reluctant to believe the grim news, sent her elder son, Walter, 15, to the scene, who confirmed Paul's story. She then called police.

Private H. O. Deaner, Sixth Precinct, hastened to the scene and cut the boy's body to the ground. Members of the fire rescue squad and an Emergency Hospital physician worked over the boy's body more than an hour.

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, acting coroner, who issued a certificate of accidental death, said boys in the neighborhood had fashioned the swing from a tree. A companion would heave the rope to a boy in the tree, who would then jump off and swing into space.

Dr. Murphy said he believed Gerald was playing alone and had placed the noose of the swing around his neck as he climbed up the tree so he could then swing out Tarzan fashion. The boy probably lost his balance and plunged into space before he could release the noose from his neck, the coroner said. Customarily, the boys place a foot in the noose and grab the rope from above.

Gerald, son of Mrs. Evelyne Pearthree, was a fifth grade student at Nevin Andrews School, Takoma Park, Md. His father is separated from his mother, police said. The boy and his mother made their home with his grandmother, Mrs. Lottie McGovern.

Funeral services will be held at the boy's home at 11 a. m. Friday. Burial will be at Beallsville, Md.

Mrs. Robbins said she had admonished her children against playing on the swing.

"I have seen that noose hanging there many times," she said. "It gave me the creeps. It looked like a hangman's noose or a gallows. I have always been afraid that something tragic would happen there—and now it has.

"Most of the boys in the neighborhood who have been playing there were present after Gerald's body was found hanging there. I'm sure they'll never play there again. My son, Paul, was scared white when he came running home."

Railroad to Leningrad Opened, Reds Imply

Kuibyshev, April 7 (U.P.).—The Red army has broken through the German siege lines and reopened railroad traffic to beleaguered Leningrad, Soviet dispatches implied tonight in reporting the arrival of a trainload of goods in the old czarist capital.

The Communist newspaper Pravda reported that a delegation from the Kirghizian Soviet Republic of Central Asia had arrived in Leningrad with the gifts.

Recent dispatches have told of some of the most ferocious battles of the entire war on the Leningrad front, and there have been repeated references to the possibility of an early lifting of the seven-month siege.

(The extent to which Leningrad was in touch with the outside world never has been clear since the German invasion forces reached the suburbs of the city last September. At one time, the only apparent outlet was across the ice of Lake Ladoga, but the Russians had hinted at the possibility of clearing out the railroad running eastward to Tikhvin and Volagda. The Soviet winter offensive reclaimed the lower section of the Moscow railroad, but not that segment running into Leningrad.

(However, the New Pravda report along with the censor-approved interpretation placed on it in the Kuibyshev dispatch, suggested the possibility that if Leningrad ever had a rail connection since the siege began, it might have been lost and reclaimed.)

Student Cleric Gets 3 Years; Evaded Draft

By the Associated Press

Richmond, April 7.—Straughan Lowe Gettier, 23, former ministerial student at the University of Richmond, today pleaded guilty in the United States District Court to a charge of violating the Selective Service Act and was sentenced to serve three years in a Federal penitentiary.

Gettier, who was indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury, told the court he had been an active pacifist for more than four years and that he was not using his religious convictions as an excuse to evade military service.

Refusing counsel, the youth testified at length on his religious convictions, and declared that he was a Christian in the international sense of the word and that he could not break faith with fellow Christians abroad.

The student, who has been preaching at a Baptist church near here since he was bailed last January, was interrupted by Judge Robert N. Pollard with a request that his testimony be confined to his failure to comply with the law.

"The court will take it for granted that you are a Christian," Judge Pollard said, "but that has no bearing on your failure to comply with the law."

After some discussion, the court interrupted again to ask, "You admit that you violated the law?"

"Yes, sir, I violated the law."

"That's all I want to hear," said the court.

John G. Armistead, clerk of local board, No. 1, in Henrico County, testified that Gettier had reported for his first physical examination, but had notified the board "not to expect me" for the second physical examination. It was on this violation of the law that a grand jury yesterday indicted the student.

The boy's father, Paul Gettier, a construction foreman at the Norfolk Navy Yard, testified that his son, the oldest of seven children, had "been raised by his mother, not to fight." The father added, "I'm strictly one way, and he's the other, but he has been a clean, clear-cut boy all his life and is a church leader."

Mrs. Gettier followed her husband to the stand and said she thought her son was "within the law—the law of religious freedom."

"If he is convicted, he will be a Christian martyr," she said.

Gettier, a senior at Richmond College, was sent to the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg in January, but was bailed out by Leland Higginbottom, of Alexandria, a ministerial student classmate.

Several University of Richmond students were in the courtroom for the trial as was Dr. C. S. Gardner, retired professor emeritus of sociology at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Certificate of Suicide Issued in Jail Death

A certificate of suicide was issued by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday in the death of John F. Legree, 49, of 729 F Street Southwest, a prisoner at the District Jail, who slashed his throat and wrists.

Serving 45 days for being intoxicated, Legree was found by his jailor about 8 a. m. yesterday. He had slashed himself with a razor borrowed from a jail barber on the pretext that he wanted to shave. He was rushed to nearby Gallinger Hospital but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Green and Murray Mount Same Platform to Pledge All-Out War Effort

Hatchet Buried For Duration, They Declare

By Paul Tobenkin

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Pittsburgh, April 7.—A new and hopeful chapter in the history of American economics was written tonight when William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, buried their past quarrels and agreed to unite in an all-out, uninterrupted war effort.

Tonight's meeting, a patriotic rally sponsored jointly by the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. and attended by more than 4000 persons marked the first time since the split in the labor movement in 1937 that the heads of the rival labor federations had spoken from the same platform. John L. Lewis, founder and first president of the C. I. O., never met publicly with Green after the C. I. O. was transformed from an A. F. of L. committee to an independent congress.

Both labor chiefs made it unmistakably clear that their meeting was not the forerunner of organized unity, in which the rival unions in the same fields would amalgamate as suggested recently by Lewis. They held, however, that it was more important than technical organic unity for it would promote actual cooperation among the ten million members of the two great labor factions.

McNutt Predicts Unity

The Roosevelt Administration, through Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator, put its approval on the new type of labor cooperation, summing up the Government's view that this meeting would be the forerunner of greater unity and cooperation in every locality and in every economic sphere. McNutt said:

"This meeting tonight is magnificent testimony to the fact that American labor is united in the face of national danger. It is proof of statesmanship of a high order. It throws a challenge in the teeth of those who said it could not be done.

"It has been done.

"I congratulate you. Your Government is heartened and all men of good will are encouraged. This meeting will be bad news for Hitler and the mad militarists of Japan."

The significance of the meeting went beyond the promise of peaceful cooperation between the two groups. It was an answer to a joint challenge to the leadership of Murray and Green, a challenge made by Lewis to Murray, and by William L. Hutcheson, president of the A. F. of L. Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners to Green.

Hutcheson and Lewis had agreed to work for the ouster of the two leaders through the establishment of organic unity.

Hutcheson Holds Up Dues

When this plan failed, Lewis stopped paying the per capita taxes of the United Mine Workers to the C. I. O. and, it can now be revealed for the first time, Hutcheson failed to pay his per capita taxes to the A. F. of L. Lewis still is not paying his per capita to the C. I. O., but he has the technical reason that the C. I. O. owes money to the miners. Hutcheson, however, resumed his payments to the A. F. of L. when a number of high A. F. of L. officials let it become known they would act to suspend the carpenters if the taxes were not paid. The welfare of the carpenters is inextricably bound up with the welfare of the other A. F. of L. building trades unions.

Another step taken by Lewis was to have persons on the United Mine Workers payroll resign their jobs as C. I. O. organizers and regional directors on the grounds that Murray was holding up labor peace. The Murray supporters made it clear that they felt that tonight's meeting was the best answer to this argument.

There were numerous indications of the new spirit of cooperation that has arisen recently betwen the labor groups. One was that Green was introduced by P. T. Fagan, head of the C. I. O. Steel City Industrial Union Council, while Murray was introduced by Leo Abernathy, president of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, A. F. of L.

Quarrel Buried, Says Green

Green, at the conclusion of his prepared address, said:

"I am happy to tell you tonight that labor is showing the Nation how to bury past quarrels and how to unite in an all-out war effort. Ever since the war broke out the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. have worked together as patriotic Americans and have conferred together a regular intervals with President Roosevelt to formulate joining policies for winning the war.

Mr. Murray said:

"The presence of the president of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. on the same platform tells beyond words that we know this is labor's war. Labor stands together. Labor's ranks are closed against the enemy. Our country shall not suffer the fate of France and Norway through the disruptive efforts of Fifth Columnists or self-proclaimed patriots who preach disunity."

Green, speaking to the workers of the Nation both A. F. of L. and C. I. O., said it was up to them to redeem the pledges which the labor chieftains had made concerning uninterrupted production.

He said that millions of laborers will stay on the job until the war is won. Murray, taking up the same theme, said that the war of production is reaching the turning point that leads to victory.

U. S. Considers Jobs for Loyal Aliens in War

By International News Service

Albany, N. Y., April 7.—President Roosevelt has ordered a study made of plans to facilitate employment of loyal aliens in war industries.

This was revealed tonight when Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York made public an exchange of letters with the President on the subject.

The Governor recently sent the President a resolution by the State Defense Council urging that some Federal agency—possibly the Bureau of Immigration—be designated to investigate and certify the loyalty of aliens whose skills would be useful in defense productions.

President Roosevelt informed the Governor that some study of the matter has been made by his committee on fair employment practice.

"I am requesting the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy," he added, "to study certain proposals under which aliens who are nationals of countries allied with the United States will be dealt with for the purposes of employment in war industries on the assumption that they support our objectives in the present war and to study also the possibilities of categorizing aliens who are nationals of enemy countries for this purpose into classes somewhat similar to those developed in Great Britain in this same connection.

"The British Government has had experience with this problem and has worked out certain solutions which are worthy of our study."

President Roosevelt thanked the Governor for his suggestion and expressed hope procedures can be worked out along the lines suggested "so far as that is possible while fully protecting the national safety."

Secret 1924 Report Reveals Jap Domination in Hawaii

A Senate immigration subcommittee yesterday debated without decision whether to release a report on Japanese domination in Hawaii withheld from the public since 1924.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson (Republican), of California, objected to the publication of the report and told Chairman Tom Stewart (Democrat), of Tennessee, "You might get into hot water."

Stewart, however, said the committee would consider the question of publication today.

Those portions of the report which were read yesterday by Senator Burnett R. Maybank (Democrat), of South Carolina, told of labor troubles fomented by the Japanese and included these prophetic words:

"When the Asiatic race reaches the point for action, the cloud will break."

The report, which has been termed "of such startling character" that it had to be suppressed when it first appeared, also told of Japanese domination of the Hawaiian Islands' fishing, telephones, automobiles and various other necessities.

At the start Maybank told the members "there was no sense in bringing up errors of the past unless we can profit by them." He added that, while its publication now might have no material effect on winning the present conflict, it would serve to demonstrate the need "for effective action."

"Sometimes the Congress ought to take definite action instead of leaving such matters to the discretion of every Tom, Dick and Harry in some department," he said.

The report, which was made after an investigation of labor conditions in the Hawaiian Islands by a commission under the direction of Senator James J. Davis (Republican), of Pennsylvania, who was then Secretary of Labor, told of a strike which lasted six months based "on strickly racial lines."

Japanese newspapers and teachers favored the strikers, the report said, and even conservative Japanese businessmen aided the strike.

The report also predicted that "soon the Japanese will dominate the island and then they will control the voting power and exercise it ruthlessly." It added that the Japanese were quite confident that they would ulimately control the islands.

Senator Rufus C. Holman (Republican), of Oregon, who asked the committee to release the report to the press, declared:

"If the American people had known these things at the time, they would have been better prepared today. Suppression of knowledge from the American people is a mistake."

It was found by the investigators that witnesses "were afraid to testify for fear of the future" and few were willing to come before them.

Donations Raise Red Cross Drive Total to $489,081

Employes of the Library of Congress yesterday turned over to District Red Cross officials a contribution of $2008.05 for the war fund, bringing the local total to $489,081.58.

Other contributions yesterday included $150 from Vitagraph, Inc., $150 from Julian M. McDowell, and $60 from Childs' Restaurant.

The ladies' auxiliary of the District Beneficial Association held a package party and raised $50 for the war fund. The Pan-Hellenic Council of George Washington University held a singing contest, which resulted in $32.80 for the fund.

WPB Cracks Down On Hoover Cleaner As Order Violator

The Hoover company of North Canton, Ohio, the country's third largest producer of vacuum cleaners, yesterday was prohibited by the War Production Board from fabricating or dealing in aluminum for a three-month period as a penalty for alleged priority violations.

In approximately the period July-October, 1941, the Hoover firm shipped 140,382 pounds of aluminum under authorized toll agreements, WPB said, and in addition accepted delivery of 179,274 pounds of scrap aluminum although no preference rating had been asigned to these deliveries.

In the same period the concern made shipments of 23,615 pounds of aluminum, which had been approved by the Office of Production Management on the company's statement that the aluminum was to go into the circuit breakers.

"Actually it went into motor bases and small parts, a use which would not have been authorized had full disclosure been made," WPB said.

Conversion In Housing

The apparent intention of the Federal Public Housing Authority to favor site fabrication instead of prefabrication in the Government's huge demountable housing program seems to us to run counter to the one principle which must be observed in the construction of war housing. That principle, of course, is the intelligent use of manufacturing facilities which already exist. Without such use it is a foregone conclusion that the war housing program, already badly behind schedule, will be further delayed. For site fabrication inevitably means duplication of existing facilities just at a time when we can least afford them.

There are today, we learn, a number of large and medium-sized plants which possess the equipment necessary to prefabricate houses in a hurry. Yet most of their facilities are lying idle because they have neither housing orders nor war orders to take the place of peacetime business that has all but disappeared because of priorities. These plants could be extremely useful in the business of speeding construction programs in areas where housing shortages are already acute and where they almost certainly will become more acute in the months ahead. Far from using these plants, however, the FPHA seems bent on acquiring the brand new set of production headaches which necessarily accompany the indorsement of site fabrication on a major scale.

For among other things, site fabrication means that in areas which are already congested new plants must be erected, new machinery obtained, new dwellings built to house project workers before it is possible to get started on the project itself. This happened in the Norfolk area where some 5000 demountable houses are now being built after delays which were as irksome as they were unnecessary. And, if the FPHA insists on site fabrication to the virtual exclusion of prefabrication, it will happen again in the Detroit and Seattle-Vancouver areas, where some 9200 and 10,000 demountable houses, respectively, are to be built.

In the past, it is true, prefabrication contracts have sometimes been awarded without an accurate estimate of company ability to deliver on schedule. In many such cases, of course, the natural result has been production failure. But the failure has been due in the first instance to inadequate checking up before awarding contracts, not to an over-all defect in the principle of prefabrication. In this present situation, which involves the most urgently needed type of housing, it seems shortsighted, indeed, to ignore the potentialities of adapting existing facilities, located at a distance from already congested production areas, to the demands of the demountable housing program.

More Oil

All Axis roads lead to the world's oil fields. If that were understood, the problem of next moves by the Axis powers would not appear so baffling. For, just as Hitler must move against the Caucasus in order to replenish his oil supplies, so Japan is primarily in Burma for the same reason.

As an oil producer Burma, to be sure, ranks well down the list, far below the United States, Russia, Venezuela, Persia, the Netherlands Indies, Mexico and Rumania. But the oil fields of Burma, which the Japanese are now threatening, have an importance all their own at this time. The loss of Burmese oil would be a crippling blow to the Chinese. China depends upon that oil to run the trucks on the Burma Road. So, for that matter, do the United Nations air and ground forces, who, unable to supply themselves from nearby sources, would have to import their oil from India, Persia or the United States.

The time, indeed, has come to change the approach on oil, and talk about the oil problem of the United Nations. The loss of the Dutch East Indies, for instance, has deprived Australia and New Zealand of their normal source of supply of oil. They must now get the fuel and lubricants from the United States, many thousands of miles away—another strain on the Allied tanker fleet. Of course, the Japanese may not be able for some time to get the oil that is below the scorched earth at Balik-papen, Palembang and other oil centers in the East Indies.

That would doubtless be the case in the event of the capture of Burmese oil. Still there is no reason why, given time, they will not be able to rebore the wells and rebuild the refineries and thus supply themselves with a commodity that is indispensable in the conduct of the war.

Manning Our Ships

Secretary Knox does not specifically deny the validity of the report appearing in yesterday's Post that a plan is afoot to merge the merchant marine into the Navy. It would be surprising if such a proposal had not been made. In every war in which the United States has been engaged a movement has been started in the Navy to take over the merchant marine and induct its officers and men into uniform. But the plan always has been scotched. It is to be hoped that this will be the fate of the new agitation—at least till shipowners and unions have shown that they are not working with the Navy just as closely as if they were in uniform.

That must be the acid test of the merchant marine. We are so short of shipping that we cannot afford the loss of a single ton, and, moreover, must get maximum service out of our existing bottoms. War goods are piled up on our wharfs for want of shipping. They are needed by our own fighting forces, but more particularly by the Russians, who are now bracing themselves for the coming Nazi onslaught. What the men of the merchant marine are manning is, in literal truth, the lifeline of the United Nations.

In past wars the Navy has been anxious to absorb the merchant marine for reasons of efficiency. Since merchant marine and Navy are complementary agents of warmaking, in the service mind a single control seems preferable to a liaison, no matter how close. In this war the usual naval arguments for a merger are buttressed by charges that the merchant marine has been derelict in its duty. Secretary Knox on more than one occasion has complained of lack of cooperation. And only last week Rear Admiral Manley H. Simons, commandant of the Fifth Naval District, made the amazing statement that "at least half" of the merchant ships sunk off the Atlantic Coast have been lost because they failed to obey Navy orders. No wonder, therefore, that there have been many converts to the idea of taking over the merchant marine.

Such a proposal, however, is bound to cause general misgiving. To be sure, the merchant marine is probably our most essential civilian occupation. Still it is civilian, and there is no more reason to subject that occupation to military regimentation—with all that that implies in loss of pay and union privileges—than any other. Already our situation is grave enough to warrant all of us thinking of ourselves as in service, and of behaving as if we are. Perhaps the time may come—and it seems to be implicit in the M-day for labor plan—when some kind of regimentation may be necessary in order to make our nonfighting services more effective. But in a free society fighting for its freedom, we want such regimentation to be negotiated, not imposed. Nothing but ill-will would be engendered by singling out one occupation for regimentation, and to that extent the plan would not get the hoped-for results.

Voluntary cooperation in the solution of this as of other labor problems which are preventing the maximum utilization of our man power is still the American way. Let the shipowners and unions get together and iron out their own plan for 100 per cent cooperation with the Navy. Fortunately, according to Secretary Knox yesterday, action to this end has already been forthcoming. Merchant captains are said to be holding to the courses outlined by the Navy and also are going into ports at night wherever possible. That is one reason for the drastic decline in U-boat attacks on our shipping. But charges of crew indiscipline are still rampant, and such charges constitute one of the prime reasons for the agitation in Navy circles and elsewhere to have the crews inducted. If the accusations turn out to be substantiated, and if no remedy is offered by the merchant marine, the American people doubtless will rise in their indignation and back the induction proposal, discriminatory as it may be.

War Bonds

Renaming the defense bonds into war bonds may help in a measure to arrest the decline in sales. Certainly the falling off must have been worrisome to the Treasury. During January, the month following the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Treasury sold over a billion dollars of war bonds. February brought a decline to slightly over 700 million dollars, and March to 558 million dollars.

Yet the reason for this drop is obvious, and had nothing to do with nomenclature. In March the first installment of Federal income taxes fell due. Several million persons paid taxes for the first time, while other millions paid greatly increased taxes. We should remember, also, that additional installments of the income tax fall due in June, September, and December. Then there are further increases in taxes to be expected next year. No doubt, too, a goodly proportion of the January sales were made possible by drawing on accumulated savings. That kind of buying cannot continue for long.

The only kind of Government bond buying that really mops up surplus income and helps to prevent inflation is the buying resulting from the saving of current income. "To the extent that the public fails to divert a sufficient amount of current income into the purchase of Government securities," says Governor Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, "the Government will be obliged to borrow from the banking system. This process creates additional funds, and since it adds nothing to the supply of goods, it makes for inflation." Some inflation caused by Government borrowing from banks is inevitable. But the seriousness of such inflationary borrowing will be greatly increased if only a small volume of savings is obtained from the people.

Compulsory deductions from wages and salaries of taxpayers for investment in war bonds seem to be the only way of assuring public support of the bond campaign to the extent required by the colossal size of our war deficits.

Pragmatic Policy

The pragmatic nature of this country's relations with France—the France of de Gaulle as well as the France of Vichy—is clearly brought out by two recent developments. The first in point of time was the agreement made by the United States with the Petain regime regarding certain questions at issue between that government and ours. Under it Vichy pledged itself not to go beyond the terms of the Franco-German armistice and particularly to refrain from turning over the French fleet to our enemies.

Insofar as such pledges will be respected by Vichy, the agreement represents a victory for this country. The unanswered question is whether Vichy's good faith can be relied upon. Or, to put the most charitable light on the matter, whether Vichy is strong enough to stand up under the continuing and steadily intensified pressure from Berlin to become part and parcel of the "new order." However, relations with Vichy remain on a day-to-day basis. Any change in attitude on Vichy's part will, it can be assumed, result in an immediate change in our policy toward Vichy.

There is, however, another France than the France of Vichy, a France which refused to bow the knee to Hitler, which has valiantly continued the struggle against the foes of mankind. It cannot be said that our relations with that other France have been as happy as they should have been. Our Government has not always appreciated fully the services rendered by the Free French. Nor has it always given them the assistance and support they deserved. Fortunately our policy in this particular has been reversed. Some time ago the Free French control of certain key islands in the Pacific was duly recognized. Now de facto recognition of Free French control of Equatorial Africa has been announced. An American consulate general is to be established at Brazzaville, with a high official of the foreign service named to that post.

At first glance this action would seem to fall into the category of not letting the right hand know what the left hand is doing. Actually it dovetails perfectly with our continued effort to keep Vichy in line. The test in each case is whether the regime with which we are dealing is in "effective control." The de Gaullists are certainly in "effective control" of Equatorial Africa, an area of vital importance in our war effort. And while Vichy's control of unoccupied France is a good deal less than effective as a result of the Nazi chains which bind metropolitan France, it is the only regime there is. Probably Vichy will not like the action we have taken with respect to Africa. But the day has long since passed when excessive tenderness toward the views of the men of Vichy was in order.

Let us go to the garden now.
Light is sifting through twig and bough.
One by one the rose of dawn
Loosens its petals on the lawn,
Crimsons the carpet of the grass
Over which His footsteps pass.
If no word is spoken there,
Flesh and mind shall be aware
None the less, and humbly kneel.
Proving Him, we need not feel
The side, the wound the nail has made.
We shall know Him who have paid
The price with instruments that we Forged for our own Gethsemane.
Not with nail and whip and thorn,
But by our folly we were torn.
By our skill with steel and lead
The tools were forged on which we bled.
Girded with a righteous sword,
Now at last we own our Lord.
Being worthy now to brave
The ultimate secret of the grave,
To share with Him the common loss
And bear a portion of the Cross,
Ours by right is the belief
(Whatever the immediate grief)
That we shall surely roll away
The stone, as He that Easter Day.

Whatchama'callit

Apropos of this Whatchama'callit War: I agree with you that the public, the press and the history books will probably continue to refer to it as the Second World War or World War II. But history itself will surely recognize this great upheaval by the name I now suggest: the War of Evolution. This name takes into account, first, the fundamental issues underlying the war, the irresistible forces which brought it about; secondly, the way in which it has been and is developing, from—ostensibly—a battle among rival imperialisms into a struggle of all the world's "little people" for recognition and fulfillment of their needs and rights; thirdly, the vast changes which the peace (whoever wins it) will bring to the political, economic and social structure of our world. Finally, it expresses not only our hope and faith but also our determination that

. . . somehow good,
Shall be the final goal of ill.

We—and other peoples—have fought our separate wars of revolution in order to gain our individual independence. Now we must all together win this War of Evolution in order to safeguard our mutual interdependence, to secure forever—for ourselves and our brothers all over the world—the Four Freedoms.

Mr. Dies

Congratulations for your excellent editorial of March 31, "Brash Mr. Dies."

At a time such as the present when, as we all agree, the Axis is doing everything in its power through its propaganda to divide and split our people, Dies is doing a yeoman job for Hitler.

With all Dies' fanfare about exposing Japanese agents he still has not produced evidence which would uncover one spy. This man, spending taxpayers' money, only "exposes" antifascists and leaves Father Coughlin, the K. K. K. and the Christian Fronters to flourish.

Congressman Dies and his pal Cox, of Georgia, who rushed to his defense, both come from poll-tax States where only a few thousand people are granted the privilege of voting. They do not represent the desires of the American people for a smashing victory over the Axis and seem to be intent upon disrupting our war effort.

Freedom And Work

Permit me to praise your editorial "Stripping for War." Certainly men who differed on methods to save the country in peacetime have no real quarrel now.

We have seen that private enterprise, which is but another name for freedom, cannot survive unless the power of the Government supports it. Public employment as a complement to private employment is a fact which no successful modern government can disregard. As you observed, "that is a revolution which has now been absorbed into our national life." An unemployed man is not a free man; neither is a man whose labor is enforced by Nazi tyranny. When the President made a direct appeal for peace, Hitler taunted him on the spectacle of unemployment in America and offered his type of slavery as the answer for all nations. The difference in their concepts far surpassed that in their language. We cannot afford idleness in time of peace. To be idle in war is to surrender. The failure to produce in the 30's brought the great depression; the failure to produce in the 40's will bring defeat, disaster and slavery. All men must work or die. A free man must produce freely or be a slave. Disputes in war are lethal. Quarrels among men whose common ideal is freedom, over methods to attain, it is to lose it. Any device, however useful in other days, which halts advance today must be freely surrendered. We are free so long as we make our own decisions, no matter what the sacrifice.

Confusion is the common enemy. The dictators have overcome it for the present with the mailed fist. We will defeat it with the will to be free. This is our great weapon; the one that produces all other weapons and makes them effective in a modern world. It is irresistible because it makes of every man who bears it a soldier in the grand army. ALAN JOHNSTONE.

Nudism

The letter in The Post by Mr. Stanley McNall interested me from the artist's point of view, regarding the nude. I shall never regret that I studied from the nude at the Corcoran Art School and the Art Student's League of Washington for several years. I feel that there is a great gap in the education of a person who thinks that the human body in its natural state is "indecent" or "vulgar!" Who would have such thoughts of a nude baby? A clean-minded woman nude is as pure as a baby. A nude photograph or painting is not "filthy" unless the subject, or the mind of the painter or photographer was in such condition.

I bow my head in reverence to the Great Author of all beauty in Nature, and what He made is not "vulgar" or "indecent!" If man puts such a construction on it then it is so much the worse for him!

I am not a "nudist," but I feel that we should have such great regard and respect for the human body that we never could think of it as a vulgar or indecent thing! The Bible says that; "God made man in his own image," and are we ashamed of that image?

H. B. BRADFORD.

Mr. Lindley

Your column of April 3 reflects what one reads constantly in our newspapers and magazine articles today. If Argentina and Chile won't do what we want them to do, we are going to make them suffer.

What a short-lived Pan American unity! What blindness to the future years! The Argentinians and the Chileans feel about the Axis powers exactly as we do. The huge majority of the people are against dictatorship and violence between nations. But we wish to dictate to them their foreign policy, and we wish to use economic force to compel them to subscribe to it.

We did not declare war on Germany until a long time after Great Britain longed for us to do so. We did not do so until Germany first declared war on us. Argentina and Chile are likewise sovereign states. Do we now claim that they may not have the same privilege? They have both great problems of national defense. Can we pledge ourselves to protect them if they are attacked? I do not believe we could keep that pledge today. We are too heavily compromised elsewhere.

Let us take a longer view of Pan American relations. Unity and friendship on this continent are worth striving for, not just for the present emergency, but for all the years to come. If our friend is not our friend as soon as he does not concur wholly with us on some matter, that friendship is a farce.

Shipping Safeguard

Our shipping losses through enemy submarine attacks have become dangercusly important. There is not a moment to be lost in the establishment of Havana as the terminal port for shipment of all goods from the Island of Cuba to the near ports of Florida.

The plan under which the Cuban crop is moving through the Port of Havana to Florida ports is a step in the right direction but it is inadequate. At the present rate of shipments it would take over two years to move the sugar crop alone, without mentioning other products such as minerals, livestock, fruits, etc. Therefore, it is essential that vessels heretofore leaving all other Cuban ports be gathered at Havana, loaded and moved to southern ports of Florida in convoys under escort.

The port facilities of Havana are adequate for handling all products shipped out of the island. The railroads and highways have sufficient capacity for the transportation to Havana of all goods to be shipped from the port of this city.

Any objections offered against the use of the Port of Havana for the exclusive shipments of products from Cuba to the ports of Florida are originated by individual or party interests, but not through interests for the welfare of the United States and Cuba, since by using the Port of Havana for this purpose, shipping losses can be reduced to a minimum.

Good Plan?

Your editorial, "Voting Blind," in yesterday's Post suggested a plan, perhaps feasible to limit excess profits on war contracts, to wit: The manufacturer to submit a statement of his overhead, i. e., labor, rent, taxes, raw material cost, depreciation, etc. This itemized account will clearly show the exact cost of the finished product; a small per cent can then be added for profit and thus no war profiteering.

It looks good on paper; could it have any practical application?

The Post Impressionist

Night in Ceylon

While the island was still a smudge on the horizon the soft trade winds carried an aroma of spices and flowers, the exhalations of a tropic earth rich and prolific beyond description. It was after midnight when our boat docked but it might just as well have been broad daylight, so busy was the port of Colombo. The usual clatter of carts and explosive shouts of the natives greeted our arrival. The task of fetching and carrying for the white man seems unending in these Far Eastern ports.

Once out of earshot of the harbor, the city was still as death. Walking up from the pier to the hotel, our progress was considerably impeded by the number of natives sleeping on the sidewalks. In the dark it was often difficult to make out a human being buried in a bundle of rags. His presence was made known by a sharp cry of protest when we accidentally tripped over him. Some lucky fellows enjoyed the luxury of a rickshaw for sleeping quarters, but for the most part the poor untouchables curled up on the hard pavement wherever they could find space.

Deciding that the sidewalk was too hazardous, we took to the road, which was clear of all human traffic. However, word rapidly spread that there was a group of tourists at large and we were presently besieged by a number of taxi drivers. At length we struck a good bargain with the driver of a large open Packard of the 1925-27 vintage. He suggested a drive out to the Cinnamon Gardens and the idea appealed to all of us.

In the light of the full moon the gardens were enchanting, and through the fronds of the palm trees the Southern Cross was extraordinarily clear and luminous. All the perfumes of this aromatic island had come to rest in this heavenly spot. The puny specimens of the flower pot grew here in luxuriant profusion. We felt like Gulliver walking through the Brobdingnag barley fields, with rhododendrons as high as a man, and in the giant green hedges glowed the night-flowering hibiscus. Upon close inspection the cinnamon tree is not as attractive as it sounds. A rather drab evergreen shrub about 3 feet high, it has a greenish white flower with a disagreeable odor. The spice is derived from the bark, which, when dried and treated, is the delight of gourmands the world over. Cinnamon's famous sister, the tea shrub, covers nearly a million acres of the Island of Ceylon and is the chief export.

This was truly the land of the Lotus Eaters, for all around the Cinnamon Gardens were the homes of the English residents, mostly government officials and wealthy merchants. There were the same elaborate bungalows as in Singapore, the same gardens, meticulously kept by an army of coolies, the lawns green and clipped smooth as a billiard table. Along the spacious avenues the languid coconut trees waved obeisantly.

We drove through the suburbs out into the country in search of a place to eat. Surely there was some place in Ceylon where we could at least get a cup of tea even at that unearthly hour. The sight of a shiny white restaurant illuminated with a sign "American Specialties" was like a mirage and we immediately called the driver to stop. And it was mostly mirage. While it resembled a de luxe hot-dog stand, from the outside, the appointments inside were decidedly Oriental. Everywhere crawled thousands of tiny lizards. Literally every inch of the walls and ceiling was covered with them. We sat down at a table on the open veranda facing the sea and presently a white-turbaned native came over to take our order. He set down an oil lamp, and with one deft motion wiped the lizards off the table as nonchalantly as if he had been cleaning up after a spilled glass of water. He explained that the lizards served a very useful purpose, as they ate poisonous insects which often got into the food. There was nothing remotely resembling an "American specialty" and we had to be satisfied with a cup of tea served in not too clean cups.

Because the town was still fast asleep when we got back to the hotel we remained in the lobby until breakfast time. More fortunate than their brothers on the sidewalk were the Indians sleeping on the floor of the hotel. Like the lizards in the restaurant, they were everywhere, on the steps, in the lobby, even in the ballroom. When the night clerk saw us he turned on the lights and sent the unfortunate ones who had been sleeping in the lobby scurrying into the streets. We protested, assuring him that they were not disturbing us and that we only wanted to rest in one of the low, comfortable chairs until morning.

About 7:30 we set out for the jewel bazaars, as we wanted to finish our shopping before the heat became unbearable. One of our party, a satin-skinned Indian who spoke faultless English, was our guide, and if ever a tourist needed a guide it was in the jewel bazaars of Colombo. Unless accompanied by an expert, the tourist is likely to return to the boat the proud possessor of a piece of glass which he could have bought for a hundredth of the price in the local 5 and 10. The fabulous sapphire and the exotic star sapphire and cat's-eye dug out of the rocks of Ceylon can be bought, but not for a song.

While waiting for the boat to sail, our Indian companion explained a little about the island and its people. Over half the population is Singhalese, an ancient Indian tribe, and Buddhist in religion. The Hindus form the next largest group, then Mohammedans and, finally, the Christians. Until the coming of the Portuguese in the sixteenth century Ceylon possessed a flourishing and advanced civilization, comparable to that of Greece and Rome. Then the island passed into the hands of the Dutch and, finally, the English. A native of Colombo, our Indian friend had little fault to find with British rule, but he did remark, "No matter how beneficent, an alien rule is always resented. A man would rather live in a poor home he could call his own than in a rich house belonging to another." The words remained with us long after the amethyst hills of Kandy had receded into the horizon.

Dies' Faulty Method

By Ernest K. Lindley

Isolated Facts Are Risky Proofs

LINDLEY

VICE PRESIDENT Wallace has given notice of intention to fight it out with Representative Dies. It is up to Dies to substantiate not only his charges against 35 members of the Board of Economic Warfare but his plain insinuation that they are disloyal to the United States. If he is able to muster enough evidence to create even a real doubt about any considerable percentage of them, it will be surprising.

Isolated facts—and they sometimes are garbled badly in charges made by the Dies Committee—mean nothing in themselves. Dies' main stock in trade is now thoroughly shopworn. This is to indict people because they once belonged to or received mail from organizations promoted by Communists. Unquestionably, many well-meaning liberals were duped during the United Front days which preceded the Russo-German pact of 1939, while others openly favored collaboration, especially in the field of foreign policy. But by this time only the most gullible can think that the fact of membership in United Front organizations several years back proves disloyalty to the United States or attachment to the principles of communism.

As others have pointed out, if association is the test, Dies himself wouldn't have a leg to stand on. For he has attended and spoken at meetings with Bundists. Some of his critics have found what they consider a sinister tendency on the part of his committee to slight its investigations of Nazi and Fascist propagandists.

BUT, LIKE DIES, some of his liberal critics may make the mistake of reading too much into isolated facts or into the circumstance of association with persons or groups who now are clearly marked as enemies of the United States.

The case of C. Hartley Grattan is a case in point. Mr. Grattan was one of the members of the staff of the Board of Economic Warfare cited by Dies as having been a member of the Communist-sponsored United Front organization. Also, according to Dies, Grattan wrote a book predicting communism after the second world war.

To make the Grattan case all the more confusing, Representative Jerry Voorhis, of California—a liberal member of the Dies Committee whom Dies ignores as completely as possible—brought out that in May, 1940, Grattan wrote the foreword for a so-called German white paper published in this country. This contained American documents which the Germans claimed to have found in Warsaw and with which they sought to blame President Roosevelt and certain of his emissaries for the invasion of Poland.

GRATTAN resigned from the Board of Economic Warfare but invited the FBI to investigate his entire record and said he was ready to take legal action if Voorhis would come out from under Congressional immunity and charge Grattan with having been a Nazi sympathizer.

Grattan is a well-known student and writer. I have read a couple of his books and several of his articles and have heard him debate public questions on at least one occasion. Grattan was an anti-imperialist and until recently an isolationist. Obviously he made a mistake in writing a preface to the German white paper, which was put out by an American publishing house but distributed with the help of the head of Transocean News Service, a German propaganda group. His preface was, however, chiefly a discussion of the use of white, yellow, blue and other colored papers by governments as instruments of propaganda.

Grattan was employed by the Board of Economic Warfare because he is probably the best-informed American citizen on the social and economic life of Australia. His views on the war were examined by BEW officials, who satisfied themselves as to his loyalty. His latest book, which is on Australia, is highly recommended by Richard G. Casey, who has just retired as Australian Minister to the United States to become a member of the British War Cabinet assigned to the Middle East. Foreign Minister Evatt, of Australia, who is now in Washington, is also a friend of Grattan. Obviously these high Australian officials, who incidentally are of opposite political parties, do not regard him as a friend of the Axis.

Vigilance is necessary. But it can be exercised only with the aid of capable and careful agencies, such as the Civil Service Commission, the FBI, and the responsible Government administrators. If these are not enough, perhaps a court of review composed of highly respected citizens could be set up to pass on difficult cases. No one whose loyalty is suspected belongs in the Government service. But the Government service should not be limited to those who agreed with the President on foreign policy prior to Pearl Harbor, if they are able and willing to make valuable contributions now. Nor should it be denied to those who are unfortunate enough to be the target of unsubstantiated accusations.

Fair Enough

Editorial Censorship

Tuscon, Ariz.

A LAWYER and law officer of these parts has been telling me that I did very wrong in asserting in a recent essay that Harold Ickes should have killed the editor of an occasional paper published in Bridgeport, Conn., who, in the course of some uncommonly dirty editorial repartee with Mr. Ickes, impugned the character of Mrs. Ickes. This lawyer and law officer says such counsel might encourage impetuous citizens to go around shooting other citizens on trival provocation, so I wish to withdraw the suggestion, but will stand pat on my belief that if Mr. Ickes had done such, no jury in the United States—even though it were drawn exclusively from the roster of the Publishers Association—having heard the vicious libel, would have convicted Mr. Ickes.

A colonel of the regular establishment of the armed forces, who was sitting by during the discussion, knowing something of the personal character of the lawyer, must have indicated by something in his expression that he was troubled by some doubt, for the attorney then said that he was speaking as an officer sworn to uphold the law, leaving one to wonder what course he would take as an individual, were he ever placed in Mr. Ickes' position. He looked like the sort of man who would take very abrupt personal action were anyone to take any such liberty with the good name of his wife and when he had left the colonel puckered up one side of his face in a wink and said he would not like to take any bets that anyone so offending would live to see another sun go down.

But there you are.

The punishment for this kind of thing does not fit the crime and, furthermore, the punishment is seldom imposed, because public prosecutors ordinarily pay no attention to criminal libel unless they are goaded to it by the victim, who then has to go to court and spread the scandal further by repeating the libel under conditions which then permit and almost compel everyone else to print it. Moreover, the victim may be badgered and insulted by some low shyster for the defense and so thoroughly smeared with innuendoes that even though he wins he loses.

OF COURSE, anyone with a shirt-tail full of type can be a publisher and the paper in the Ickes case was not fairly representative of the regular American Press, but there is no sense in pretending that the regular press, itself, avoids this sort of thing. Almost any day you can read in our papers clear across the country items about married couples which say slyly that their friends are worrying or that they are acting very foolishly which are other ways of saying that the people in question are having a family jam which is nobody's business but their own and is libelous, what's more.

I don't know how any editor can reckon that he has any right to speculate indiscriminately on how other people's marriages are going, and if there is actual ground for such speculation that only makes the offense the worse, because then the parties concerned are publicly embarrassed and their chances of reconciliation are injured.

If an editor has a reporter with a high percentage of error and rumor he finds some way to fire him and, meanwhile, combs and checks his stuff. But the same editor may buy as merchandise and print without checking, statements and insinuations seriously affecting the character and happiness of individuals in New York or Washington or Hollywood which may have a background of personal spite and often are absolutely false.

AN ACTOR, for instance, was accused in a great number of papers of attending a Nazi meeting in New York. This was a harmful lie, for the actor was on the stage several blocks away during this meeting. Another man was said to have separated from his wife when the truth was that she was dangerously ill and there was not the faintest ground for the report. Another was said to have gone into hiding after receiving threats, when a phone call to his home would have proved that he was not at all concerned. The instances of false statement harmful or at least humiliating to individuals who have a decent right not to be so abused by newspaper publishers are countless and the majority of them come from a tawdry, raucous slum known as Broadway whose journalism is notoriously unreliable and contaminated with base motives, including blackmail and malice.

The day has passed when it was necessary and customary for the editor to keep a Colt revolver in an open drawer of his desk, but may return to those editors who do not realize that this immunity from fatal personal reprisal is accompanied by a personal and professional obligation to shun certain types of personal items and reject informants whose work, by fair test, has proved to be habitually inaccurate or dishonest, whether from motives of blackmail or personal revenge.

Washington As Usual

By Mark Sullivan

Peacetime Projects Still Flourish

SULLIVAN

A COMMON judgment is that the morale of the country is all right—but, as it is put, "What's the matter with Washington?"

About a large part of Washington nothing is wrong. The Navy is at its professional work expertly, and as speedily as is permitted by conditions not within its control. The same can be said of the Army. The conduct of the draft, as respects the headquarters work at Washington, is not only efficient in the military sense, but statesmanlike in its politics.

A minor criticism of the armed services has to do, not with their professional work, but with the contracts for supplies. Some contracts have been made at prices which are the original cause of one of our present commotions—excessive profits to contractors, excessive salaries and bonuses for managers, excessive wage rates. A fair answer would say in part that in the making of these contracts the Army and Navy were not wholly free. They were subject to influence from various civilian defense boards set up after our preparedness program began. As to wages, hours, overtime pay and other factors in costs, the Army and Navy were subject to the social and political policies of the Administration.

A FAIR ANSWER would say also that in some cases contracts were made originally by the British, before we entered the war, and at a time when they were panicky for supplies. Britain, from the time the war began in September, 1939, and for nine months following, went on the assumption that the war would be long, and that it would be won in large part by blockade of Germany. In that state of mind the British (and also the French) were, as we see now, slow and economical about ordering supplies from American manufacturers. Then, when France fell, in June, 1940, the British passed into a state of mind in which speed and quantity were the only considerations—price did not matter. Some of the contracts made in that spirit were inherited by us when lease-lend began, and set the standards for us. At the same time, and for the same reason, we too fell into a panicky mood of speed and hang the cost.

About some of the civilian part of our war effort, also, it can be said that nothing serious is wrong. The production of war materials in factories is now at a most satisfactory pace. (The trouble here is that we set some of our standards too low—we shall have to build many more cargo ships, and more of some other supplies, than at first supposed.) Still other parts of our war effort are going well. The process of cutting down supplies for civilian consumption is going forward rapidly, and with an expertness which shows that those in charge intelligently understand the goal we must attain—an American stream-lined to where we use for our civilian needs the least we can get along with, and devote the rest to war. Also, the necessity of preventing inflation seems understood by those responsible, and the steps taken are at once promising and courageous.

IS THERE, then, nothing the matter with Washington? Yes, much. Most of it comes under one heading. It is the determination of much of Washington to go through the war with Washington as usual, the Administration as usual, the New Deal as usual, social reform as usual—if that is what you call it, or by a stronger term as some designate it. In a considerable sector of Washington, it is probably safe to say that not as much concentration is focused exclusively on winning the war, as on preserving the peacetime agencies set up during the last nine years, the policies associated with them, the offices that go with them. It is not merely the time and thought diverted to a purpose other than what ought to be the primary one. The mental attitude thus generated becomes one of tension, antagonism, and this tends to become the atmosphere of Washington. The jealousies and contentions that beset Washington, and account for much of the atmosphere that disturbs the country, are not the ordinary jealousies of rank and prerogative. They have the ideological tinge which generates a special kind of bitterness.

The same condition accounts for much of the confusion and cumbersomeness. The number of civilian workers, civil service employes, in the Government service, is close to 250,000, with more streaming in every day. This is twice the number employed at the peak of the Great War, in 1918, when we were supporting a large Army abroad. A large part of the quarter-million civil service employes, it is safe to say, are not directly within the war effort, but are still carrying on the peacetime activities set up during the last nine years, as well as regular Government activities.

Russia On The Eve

By Barnet Nover

The Importance Of The Eastern Front

NOVER

IN A WAR which, like the tentacles of an octopus, extends in every direction, it would be rash to point to any one front and say: here the world struggle will be decided. It is anybody's guess where the Waterloo of the present conflict will turn out to be.

Russia, Libya, Burma, China and Australia; the Pacific, the Atlantic and the Indian Oceans—each of these is a battlefield of tremendous importance. The next months may see the spread of the war to new areas—Siberia, Turkey, India, West Africa, even South America. But the war is one. What happens at any particular point has a bearing on the course of the war as a whole.

In point of sheer magnitude, however, the fighting on the Eastern Front overshadows everything else. The numbers of men involved in that struggle are greater than are involved in all the other theaters combined. The stakes are enormous. The course of the struggle, now heading toward a new climax, will without question have a profound bearing on the duration and may go a long way toward determining the outcome.

THE OTHER DAY Lord Beaverbrook called the Russian front "the most critical battlefront in the history of civilization."

Few will dispute that. If, during the next months, Hitler succeeds in achieving those objectives he aimed at last June when he gave orders to his troops to invade Russia, the surviving Allies will find themselves in an exceedingly critical position.

Even as a neutral, Russia helped immobilize a considerable German force. As a belligerent she has whittled down the Wehrmacht, forced Hitler to dig deep into his reserves of men and tanks and planes, destroyed the legend of Nazi invincibility and brought Germany to a point where if she is to win at all she must win this year.

Last November the Russians succeeded in stemming the Nazi tide. Since then they have succeeded in recapturing part of the area they had previously lost to the invaders while, at the same time, inflicting heavy damage on the enemy. Should they now manage to keep Hitler's hordes at arm's length the ultimate defeat of Germany would be only a matter of time.

All signs point to the fact that Hitler can undertake just one more major offensive. If that fails we can look forward to the disintegration of the "new order," growing difficulties in the Reich and its ultimate collapse. And a German defeat would set the stage for a rapid reversal of the balance of power in the Pacific.

THIS DOES NOT mean that the Allies can afford to neglect all the other theaters of war and concentrate exclusively on the Eastern Front.

To neglect the defense of Egypt and the Suez would be to allow the Nazis to affect a junction, in the Red Sea and Indian Ocean with their Japanese allies. To neglect the defense of Burma or Australia would mean enabling our enemies in the Pacific to win more easy victories and a chance to divert men and supplies from the Southwest Pacific for an attack on Siberia, thus compelling Russia to fight a war of two fronts.

It would, nonetheless, be suicidal to underestimate the importance of the Eastern Front and not do everything possible to provide Russia with the supplies she so desperately needs to meet the impending German assault.

THE BRITISH are now convinced that despite all the rumors of lateral moves by Germany, rumors that are regarded as part of Hitler's latest war of nerves, the Wehrmacht's spring drive will center on Russia. This would seem to be logical.

In the first place, the Russians have proved that, even with the odds heavily against them, they can stand up to the Nazis. It is true that Russia suffered extremely heavy losses in the fighting of the past nine and a half months, losses not only in manpower and equipment, but also in raw material resources and factory equipment. But German losses have also been heavy, even though they may have been partially or even largely offset by the mobilization efforts of the Hitler regime not only in Germany but throughout Europe.

Hitler has been scraping the barrel for military man power, civilian labor, food, raw materials. What he has done in this respect during the past months it is most unlikely that he could repeat this year or next year or ever, if he does not achieve that victory over Russia he is seeking. But however achieved, the resources he is now in a position to throw into the scales on the Eastern Front are considerable and must not be underestimated. Yet it is questionable whether Germany's resources are still ample enough for a full-fledged offensive both against Russia and some other area as well.

The Russians are certainly not underestimating what Hitler is in a position to do. They know he remains a formidable opponent, all the more formidable since he realizes that it is now or never for him. That is why they have been making earnest pleas for the creation of a second European front so as to force the Germans to divide their strength. That is why they have maintained a passive attitude toward Far Eastern developments. And it is for the same reason that they have been trying with might and main to blunt the spearpoint of Hitler's impending offensive.

There are reasons to believe that they have met with some success in this endeavor. The losses they have inflicted on the Luftwaffe during the past ten days are a case in point. The smashing of the German effort to relieve the trapped German garrison at Staraya Russa is another. But the full fury of Hitler's counteroffensive, his final bid for victory over Russia, is yet to be experienced.

Russia Taking Many Steps To Get Ready For Nazi Drive

By M. S. Handler
United Press Staff Writer

Kuibyshev, April 7. — Russia, while maintaining the winter offensive the last three months, has been preparing for the anticipated German spring drive and now is ready for it—at the front and at home.

The following accomplishments in preparation for spring were related today:

The strain on railroads has decreased and shipments of war equipment and men have been accelerated.

Decentralization and reestablishment of essential industries in the east have made progress. The industries were transferred from many areas where the Germans now are in control.

The industrial transfer brought with it a sharp increase in war production.

Farms Mobilized

In addition to being ready for the military campaign, the country is mobilized to win the second most important battle—that of agriculture.

Millions of peasants—most of them women—are preparing to start the spring plowing which starts late this month, although it already has started in some of the southern districts. The women, it was said today, must win the battle of the farms to produce sufficient crops to offset the loss of the rich Ukraine.

On the industrial front, no efforts are being spared to meet military needs, and production is rising rapidly. Tank production is high and is being augmented by shipments from the United States and Britain. The same is true of aircraft production and there is said to be already an "impressive" number of British Hurricane and Spitfire fighters in Russia, held in reserve for the spring campaign.

More Allied tanks, planes and other equipment probably will reach Russia in time to meet Hitler's offensive.

Foe Has Tank Superiority

Russian officials assert that their side will have numerical superiority when the spring and summer blows fall, but they have admitted that they are outnumbered in tanks.

One Russian general, interviewed recently after the capture of Mozhaisk on the central front west of Moscow, said that the Germans could take advantage of their tank superiority to launch a spring offensive, and he predicted that the spring war would be featured by "gigantic tank battles."

The recent speech in London by Ivan Maisky, Soviet Ambassador to Britain, in which he urged more Allied participation in the Russian war, reflected opinion here in the Soviet. Many articles have appeared recently in newspapers emphasizing the need for a second front in Europe.

The Gallup Poll

U. S. Housewives Say Weekly Sugar Allowance Of 9½ Ounces a Person Would Be Sufficient

By George Gallup,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

Princeton, N. J., April 7.—Although sugar rationing when it goes into effect next month will alter the eating habits of many families, the average American housewife is not greatly worried.

She confesses that she could get along on a lot less sugar than at present; in fact, she believes, on the average, that her family can do nicely on 9½ ounces (.6 lb.) per week per person.

The Sugar Rationing Administration is undecided whether to make it one-half pound (8 ounces) or three-quarters of a pound (12 ounces). The surest method of discovering the minimum amount the Nation thinks it needs is to go out and talk to housewives from coast to coast. That is exactly what the American Institute of Public Opinion did through a Nation-wide staff of field reporters.

They asked first:

"About how many pounds of sugar a week does your family use?"

Translating the results onto a per capita basis, the average amount named is approximately 1 pound per person per week.

Housewives were next asked:

"What is the smallest amount of sugar your family could get along on each week?"

On a per capita basis the average amount needed, the housewives calculate, is 9½ ounces (.6 lb.) per person weekly.

The Nation-wide sugar-rationing registration involving all men, women and children has been set for May 4, 5, 6 and 7, when rationing books will be issued.

The Institute survey reveals the interesting fact that although housewives in the upper and middle income brackets now use slightly more sugar per individual than housewives in the low income bracket, nevertheless both groups say they could get along on the same average amount—9½ ounces a person weekly.

Rural housewives, the study shows, use more sugar at present —1.1 lbs. per person weekly on the average—than city housewives, who use approximately .9 pounds. Both groups, however, say they can get along on .6 pounds or 9½ ounces.

A ration of ¾ of a pound (12 ounces) would thus be somewhat higher than the average amount which housewives say they can get along with. On the other hand, a ration of one-half pound (8 ounces) would be slightly less than the figure named by those reached in the poll.

Sugar Rationing In Other Countries

American housewives polled throughout the Nation say their families can get along on an average of .6 pounds of sugar (9½ ounces) a person weekly. How this compares with sugar rationing now in effect in other countries is shown below:

United Nations: Great Britain, 8 ounces of sugar a person weekly; Canada, 12 ounces.

Axis or Axis-dominated countries: Germany 8 ounces; Belgium, 8 ounces; Czechslovokia (a sugar producing country), 10½ ounces; Norway, 7; Poland, 4½. Figures for Italy and Japan are not available.

Police Boys' Club Again to Enjoy Summer Camp

Washington boys will again enjoy the hospitality of the Metropolitan Police Boys' Club camp at Scotland, Md. this summer, it was decided at a meeting of the board of directors of the club.

The camp will open on June 29 and will remain open for nine weeks for the benefit of boys selected by the police precincts and welfare organizations of the District, according to the suggestion of the camp committee headed by Maj. Ernest W. Brown. Other members of the committee are Morris Cafritz, James E. Colliflower, Alexander C. Jones, Maj. Edward J. Kelly, C. A. Robinson, and Inspectors Arthur E. Miller and William E. Holmes.

Further business of the meeting held Monday night, included the suggestion of summer uniforms for the club's band, which has made fourteen public appearances thus far this year, and a proposal to change the date of the board's annual meeting. H. Clifford Bangs, president, presided.

Birth Control Need Asserted

As the Nation's birth rate soars with the war, birth control information for those who desire it becomes increasingly important, D. Kenneth Bose, national director of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, declared at the annual meeting of Washington Mothers Health Association yesterday at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K Streets Northwest.

"As part of our campaign we are striving to have the information made available in all State public health programs," Rose said, pointing to reductions in maternal death rates noted in the Carolinas and Alabama since those States accepted this idea more than a year ago.

The health association, which is headed by Mrs. Prentis Willson, voted to change its name to the Planned Parenthood Association of the District of Columbia.

Approximately 115 persons were present for the annual luncheon meeting, at which Mrs. Milton W. King announced election and re-election of the following officers: Mrs. Willson, president; Mrs. Montgomery Blair, vice president; Mrs. David Craig, secretary; Edgar McPeak, treasurer; Dr. Walter Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. Fontaine Bradley, Mrs. Henry King, the Rev. Francis W. McPeak, Sidney Katz, Mrs. John L. Proctor and Joseph Sanders, members of the board of trustees.

Corporal Rescues Capt. R.C. Berkeley In Midway Crash

The courage of his corporal-gunner saved a former Washingtonian, Capt. Randolph C. Berkeley, jr., Marine Corps, from possible death in a plane crash December 18 on one of the Midway group of islands in the Pacific.

This was made public yesterday when Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, Marine commandant, commended Corpl. Carl T. Hickman, of Richmond, Calif., for braving expected bomb and gasoline explosions to drag the dazed and injured Capt. Berkeley from the wreckage of their plane after it crashed in a takeoff on Eastern Island.

MAJ. L. R. LEGENDRE ADMINISTERS OATH TO CIVILIAN DEFENSE VOLUNTEERS IN NEW HEADQUARTERS, 2324 F STREET NORTHWEST

In their new headquarters at 2324 F Street Northwest approximately 90 members of the working staff of the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office yesterday took the oath of office and settled down to work "for the duration." The oath was administered by Maj. Leonce Legendre, assistant defense director for Washington.

Following the swearing-in ceremony, a staff institute was held with Mrs. Harry S. Bernton, office chairman, in charge. Various demonstrations of work of the agency were given and there was a speech on "Volunteer Responsibility" by Mrs. Wilmer Shields, of the national OCD.

Many of the workers will be in charge of registrations and interviews of volunteers in their communities, and received instruction in these techniques from the District of Columbia Employment Service.

Anna Behrenson, of the Family Service Agency, discussed interview procedure.

R. A. F. Blasts Tanks, Trucks Of 5 Divisions

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

London April 7.—In the space of six hours bombers of the Royal Air Force destroyed enough trucks, tanks and armored vehicles to equip five German divisions in the three recent raids on the Renault and Matford factories near Paris, the Air Ministry News Service boasted tonight.

The cost to the R. A. F. was four bombers and 28 men.

The two factories, which will probably be out of production for a year, were producing between them 20,000 heavy army trucks a year, in addition to large numbers of tanks and armored fighting vehicles, and were repairing many more, the announcement said.

"The Royal Air Force has struck a blow at the German armored and mechanized divisions which would have been regarded as sensational had it been achieved by an Allied army of millions of armored and mechanized troops, and as the result of a prolonged and bloody campaign. This is the finest example of bomber cooperation with the army which this war has yet afforded," the bulletin declared.

Great Campaign Averted

"Yet the denial of this huge output of military machinery to Germany is not the only fruit of the victory. This great and unexpected flow of tanks and vehicles would have enabled the enemy to stage a great campaign to defeat which the Allies' armies would themselves have suffered most serious casualties and severe losses in equipment," the report continued.

Significantly the unnamed writer of this story said that only one of the three raids was "heavy" and that the other two were on a moderate scale.

The R. A. F. mounted only a small-scale attack on the Ruhr and Rhineland areas last night, "owing to very bad weather," which also prevented the exact observation of the damage done, the air ministry said.

Five British bombers are missing—the same number that were lost Sunday night, when more than 300 planes took part in one of the biggest raids of the spring offensive. The air ministry also announced that on Monday morning aircraft of the coastal command hit one medium-sized supply ship with a torpedo and another with bombs off the Norwegian coast. One coastal plane did not return.

The Maritime Commission announced yesterday the appointment of Wade H. Skinner as general counsel, effective as of April 3.

Red Cross Juniors Stress Fit Living

The American Junior Red Cross yesterday called attention to its physical fitness program engaging 13 million youngsters, which has operated through the Nation's schools for several years.

The program is not to be confused with that of John B. Kelly's physical fitness division which recently was transferred from the Office of Civilian Defense to the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services.

Where the former OCD program goes in strong for sports and coordinators, that of the American Junior Red Cross stresses vitamins, nature hikes and immunization.

Senator Byrd, chairman of the Joint Committee on nonessential Expenditures, last week pointed to the commercial tie-up possibilities of the Kelly plan—but the Red Cross program is noncommercial. It has refused offers to talk about itself on Nation-wide programs that were commercially sponsored.

Administrator Paul McNutt's office said yesterday that the Budget Bureau has not yet acted on his request for a much reduced sum with which to defray expenses of the former OCD physical fitness unit which the administrator apparently plans to scatter among various departments of the Federal Security Agency.

Bootblack Raises Prices; Half Goes To Navy Relief

A contribution of $2.75 toward success of the local drive to raise $75,000 for the Navy Relief Society brought special acknowledgment yesterday—and a grateful one—from the citizens' committee conducting the campaign.

The donation came from a little Negro bootblack who explained he had raised his price on shines from 5 to 10 cents and was now giving the extra nickels to Navy Relief.

The youngster, who asked to remain anonymous, said some customers liked the idea so well that they gave him as much as a quarter for a shine. In such cases, he reported, 20 cents goes to Navy Relief.

Waiters in a downtown hotel are pooling a week's tips and expect to turn in a substantial contribution by Saturday, final day of the campaign. One little girl told the committee she had decided to skip two of the three movies she's been attending each week and contribute the difference to Navy Relief.

"GOOD NEIGHBOR MUSIC" will resound in Del Rio tonight with the arrival of Arturo Arturos, of the double-barreled name and rhythm to match, together with blonde Wendy Bishop, who's so devoted to Latin-American tunes that they're calling her the "Caribbean Songstress." Though the Arturos orchestra naturally bears down on the sambas and rumbas, they're equally adept at show tunes, smoothly sailing waltzes and "jump" tempos.

Venesko, the Balalaika's new Russian violinist, is so magnetic that customers neglect their shashlik while he's playing those shivery Transylvanian gypsy numbers.

COSMOS COMPARISONS. "I tell you he's better than Carmen Cavallaro." "Now how can you say that?" . . . Erin gets an extra inning when Charlie Rock's bunch in Hit Hat go into "When Paddy McGinty Played the Harp." . . . There's a nostalgic prairie quality to "Dust on the Trail," both composed and sung by Julie Colt in the Pall Mall Room. . . . Macabre in title but not in sound is "Dead Man Went on a Rumba Session," new Cuban number played by the Copacobana's rumba band.

DECORATIVE INSPIRATIONS. The "Easter Week at Cedar Creek" that's giving no end of added charm to the Mayflower lobby. . . . The glittering V for Victory mirror over the Crossroads bar. It was made to order after owners Eddie Smith and Edgar Baum had conceived the idea. . . . And you should see how Evelyn Knight of the King Cole Room has decorated her pretty person for Easter week—navy blue suit, white hat and gloves, Kelly pocketbook and shoes. . . . For pure "escapism" in murals, we know of nothing more engaging than those pictures of tropical seas in the new Louisiana. . . . We're told that the picture of Strauss in the new murals at Restaurant "823" is an excellent portrait of the Waltz King.

Owner Ralph Lee, of Lee's Stables, says that the biggest thrill of his life came when he was a tiny tad and was bounced on the knee of Champion Jim Jeffries, a great friend of his father.

OF FOLKS YOU KNOW. Don Carper, leader in Cafe Caprice, is trying to arrange to look over his house at Hermosa Beach, Calif., before the mail brings his call to camp . . . Mrs. Pearl Best, who arranges those original and toothsome menus at the Burlington, is a cute li'l bunny of a lady, doesn't look a bit like a career woman . . . Speaking of bunnies, the announcement of the "engagement" of Bunny Hare, Lotus' singer, recently made at the Spotlight, was strictly a gag . . . Greeter Charlie Weaver is back in the Rainbow Room after seven weeks of nussing a broken arm . . . Capt. Don Dickerman, of Pirates' Den fame, is back in town. Look out for action!

THE CALL OF THE ROAD, tires or no tires, is going to lure thousands of couples down to the Nightingale on these balmy spring evenings. Come to think of it, Jack Maggio's music will have as much to do with the influx as the spring . . . And between its weekly "Piggy Party, April romance and George Stein's larking rhythm, you can also expect to see River Bend packed to the doors this evening.

Johnny Longo, owner of El Patio, was the astonished guest of honor at a surprise birthday party given for him at the Spotlight Club on Sunday night.

"Look, little girl, will you please put your mother on the phone?"

NO use, mister. Hang up. You called too late, anyway. Right now the little girl's mother is busy . . . selling an attic-ful of extra furnishings for spot cash . . . to one of the many Post readers who saw her "Miscellaneous for Sale" Want Ad first thing this morning.

That's what usually happens when you advertise in The Washington Post. You get more calls than one person can handle. And among them, just the right offers for those no-longer-used curtains, chairs, beds, lamps, sporting goods, office equipment—whatever you have idling in your attic, closets and basement.

Look! P. J. Farrell, 4619 43rd Place N. W. received $50 for some dining room furniture through a two-line Post Want Ad. The furnishings of a six-room house on Hamilton Street N. W. were sold after two days of Post advertising. A steel office safe was sold "for a considerable sum" by Mr. Purvis of Strayer College through two insertions costing only $1.10 each.

Why don't you advertise some household goods for sale . . . and buy another U. S. Savings Bond with the money you make?

It pays to put a Want Ad in The Post

Pepper Urges Aid to Russia

"Because the political destiny of the United States is largely dependent upon the success of our Russian allies, no sacrifice the American people may be called upon to make is too great," Senator Claude Pepper (Democrat), of Florida, declared last night.

Speaking at the Russian relief benefit showing of the film, "The Russian Front," at the Little Theater, Senator Pepper urged the audience to continue to use every method possible to raise relief funds and to speed help to the Russians.

He said Americans must not allow a difference in political ideologies to cloud their appreciation of Russia's great contributions to the preservation of American ideals.

"Americans must believe that their willingness to make sacrifices now will bring closer the time when sacrifices are no longer necessary," Pepper declared.

Mrs. Marion Post, director of the Washington Russian Relief Fund, announced that the benefit movie added more than $300 to the fund, making the total raised in Washington in the last week approximately $14,000.

52 Killed in Raid At Alexandria

Cairo, April 7 (U.P.).—Enemy aircraft raided the Alexandria area last night, a Royal Air Force communique said today.

(The British radio said tonight that the death toll in the air raid now had reached 52 persons, and 80 were injured. The broadcast, heard by C. B. S., said that Mustapha Nahas Pasha, Egyptian premier, promised compensation to the victims.)

British bombers "effectively" attacked an enemy airdrome at Derna Monday, the communique said. Escort fighters downed two Messerschmitts 109. Army headquarters reported continued patrol activities in the Libyan Desert.

Cross on American Airman Assures Natives He's No Jap

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Darwin, Australia, April 6 (Delayed). — American fighter pilots near here related with gusto today how one of their number survived a fight far at sea against a superior force of Japanese airmen, swam 3 miles to the shore of lonely Bremer Island when his gasoline failed, and there encountered two spear-carrying savages.

The pilot, young Lieut. Clarence Sandford, of Auburn, N. Y., lay for awhile, exhausted, on the beach after his swim. When he looked up he perceived, standing above him, two black Aborigines, both holding spears. They spoke fragmentary English, he discovered.

"Jap"? one asked.

"No!" was the reply.

"Jesus?' 'asked the other native, pointing with his spear to a small cross which hung around Sandford's neck.

By this time the flier had entered into the spirit of the natives' broken English, so he answered:

"Sure, Jesus man."

That reply seemed to please the natives, who lowered their spears and walked with the flier about 25 miles to the home of an English missionary.

Sandford was one of a group of six American fighters who took off recently to attack a Japanese force consisting of seven bombers and seven Zero fighters. After a dogfight lasting 20 minutes, in which the Japanese lost two bombers and three fighters, Sandford became separated from his flight.

"Mae West" Failed Him

Since his gasoline was running low, he figured, his companions said, that if he flew for about an hour he would hit the Australian mainland. He flew in the clouds until his gasoline was nearly exhausted, then dived for the sea, his plane coming down about 3 miles from shore. His "Mae West" life preserver, as they are called here, failed to inflate, so he ripped off his flying clothes and swam.

By the time the journey to the missionary's house was completed the pilot's feet were bruised and bleeding and his body was tortured by sunburn. The missionary cared for him and translated for him the narrative of his arival ashore, which one native spearman wrote in island dialect.

The natives gave him tribal souvenirs, including quaintly carved heads in the likenesses of their relatives. They saw the flier aboard a sailing vessel which brought him to a small north Australian port. There an Australian naval vessel picked him up and returned him to his unit.

Vichy to Make Direct Protest To Roosevelt

By Wilfrid Fleisher

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Gaston Henry-Haye, the French Ambassador, is expected to protest directly to President Roosevelt today against American recognition of Free French control of French Equitorial Africa, which was announced by the State Department on Saturday. It was made known then that an American consulate general would be established at Brazzaville, the capital.

The French envoy has an appointment to see President Roosevelt at 12:45 today. Embassy officials admitted that such a protest would likely be made, but would not say whether the Ambassador would discuss the issue with the President at that time. They indicated that one of the problems that would be taken up would be an appeal from the Vichy government for food shipments for French war prisoners held in Germany.

The attitude of the Administration has long been that it is the obligation of the German government to feed its war prisoners, and there was no indication yesterday of any change in this policy.

Shipping to Be Resumed

The State Department announced meanwhile that shipments of clothing, food and industrial products of a nonmilitary character to French North Africa would be resumed. This trade was interrupted several months ago when the Vichy government embarked on a program of closer collaboration with Germany.

Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, indicated ten days ago that trade with North Africa would be resumed when one remaining issue had been disposed of. The State Department, in announcing the resumption of shipments yesterday, stressed that assurances had been received from the French government that "the supplies thus received or their equivalent shall not in any way serve to further Axis ends." The term "equivalent" was included as a protection against the diversion of substitute products to the Axis.

It was announced further that the American shipments would be distributed to the local populations "under the direct supervision of American control officers" and that "no military supplies of any character" would be included.

Two French Ships in New York

Two French vessels now in New York, the Ile D'Ouessant and Ile de Noir Moutiers, will carry the cargo of "limited supplies" and are expected to leave in about two or three weeks. The cargo is expected to consist of cotton goods, tea, tobacco, powdered milk for children and other commodities for civilian use and for local industries. In exchange two vessels will leave simultaneously from North Africa for the United States with a cargo of cork, red squills, iris root, tartar and other native products.

The exchange requires approval of both the British and German governments for the vessels to pass through the blockades, and it is understood that both have given their assent. The vessels will fly the French flag.

J. B. Keenan's Son Dies Here at 17

Funeral services for Joseph B. Keenan, jr., 17, son of a former special assistant to the Attorney General, who died Monday night at Georgetown Hospital after a brief illness, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase Circle.

Funeral Today For Mrs. Jarvis, General's Wife

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary H. Jarvis, wife of Brigd Gen. Melville S. Jarvis, United States Army, retired, will be held at 3 p. m. today at Fort Myer Chapel, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Jarvis died Monday at Walter Reed Hospital after a long illness. Residents of Washington intermittently for 14 years, she and Gen. Jarvis maintained an apartment at 1661 Crescen Place.

A native of Clarksburg, W. Va., Mrs. Jarvis was married in 1895. In Washington she was active in activities of the Army-Navy Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the West Virginia Society.

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

No Priorities

ON THE FEEL—Of the freshness of washed air after an April shower; of the soothing caress of an April breeze on the face after the chill sting of March winds; of the soft yielding earth on the feet after a winter of pavement pounding; of the gentle restrained warmth of the sun with its hint of later ardor; of the lightness of the body freed of its winter wrappings; of the buoyancy of the spirit released from its prison of walls and bricks and mortar.

ON THE SIGHT—Of weeping willow trees turned into green fountains of buds; of gallant golden forsythia blazing the trail for spring flowers; of the young callow green of new grass coming out of dead ground; of the gleaming of moving motor cars on a clear sparkling morning; on the squirming softness of newly found baby kittens; of the innocent eyes of awkward puppies regarding a strange and treacherous world with eager friendliness; of the gracefully swooping flocks of sea gulls coming in from the Atlantic.

ON THE SOUND—Of the busy twitterings of robins; of the distant strains of the hurdy gurdy man's familiar repertoire; of the carefree cries from the parks of playing children unaware of the world's anguish; of the shrieks of "Strike Out" from baseball lots; of the stately measures of bridal music coming from churches; of the brisk murmur of voices of crowds surging along toward the adventure of a new season; of the choruses that resound from the park trees announcing that the time of the singing of birds is come."

OF THE SCENT—Of the good earth where suburbanites are planting, and squirrels are digging for treasure; of the elusive whiffs from pink and yellow flower carts; of fresh paint with its pungent call to new beginnings; of fresh young vegetation after rain; of soapsuds where housewives are busy with spring cleaning; of the burning leaves of winter in back yards and vacant lots; of the general newsness of life that permeates the atmosphere.

ON THE SENSE—Of power that coming from walking along briskly in a spring morning feeling strong enough never to stop; of beckoning adventure that comes from stretching the eyes to a misty infinite horizon or along an untraveled road; of urge to get on strange street cars and buses and ride to unexplored and romantically named suburbs; of the persistent hint in the heart that something just a little different lies only around the corner; of upsurging plans for the future that, in spite of past disappointments, come flooding the soul; of the eternal promise that April puts in the heart; of the eternal hope that spring brings.

Checkered Suit for Summer

For the suit to wear now and into summer, the crush-resistant Eastman rayon and wool costume (above) is "right." It is black-and-white check with a snow-white sharkskin dickey. Note the nice detail in the collarless jacket, the smoothly cut shoulders underscored by notched pockets, gentle fullness above the inset waistband and graceful three-quarter sleeves. The four-gore skirt has simple, undated style in its easy flare

Keep Middle-Aged Look at Bay By Regular Daily Exercise

By Ida Jean Kain

IF YOU do not take the time to exercise, time will certainly overtake you. You can count on that! A small amount of exercise every day is absolutely necessary to keep that middle-aged spread and the middle-aged feeling that goes with it—firmly in check.

Of course, you can't believe what a set of calisthenics will do for you until you give it a try. And, very likely, the more you hate to take it up the more you need to and the greater the improvement you will see.

To get results and also to make exercise as painless as possible, turn it into a habit. Put it into about the same category as brushing your teeth. Make it just one of those things you do.

If you are a business woman, take your setting-up exercises in the early morning to wake yourself up. But if you are a house wife, you may find it easier to fit your 10 to 15 minutes' workout into the mid-morning or the mid-afternoon. The time of day doesn't really matter so long as you choose a time you can stick to, day after day. The only thing to be said for exercise early in the morning is that you get it over with before too many other activities interfere.

You should exercise with some regard for what you have been doing. In taking your early bird calisthenics, bear in mind that you have been lying down for a number of hours. So don't leap out of bed and start bending over and dashing around. Take your dozen or so exercises in a prone position. This will give you a good sendoff for the day. Moreover this position is the best for taking exercises to strengthen the midsection muscles, the kind you are most apt to need. Here is a good beginning set:

POSITION—Lie on your back on the floor with knees flexed and feet on floor close to hips.

MOVEMENT—Dig the small of the back into the floor, hold and relax. Repeat five times and rest. Then, from the same position dig small of back down into the floor and progress in the exercise by slowly raising hips off floor until you are in a straight line from chest to knees. Do not arc the small of the back in elevating hips. Hold, lower to floor and repeat five times.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Reader Challenges Falsity of Man's Statement That, 'Very Little Is Known About Vitamin Therapy;' Thousands Have Profited by Scientific Disclosures

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: It is far from being true, as your correspondent of March 30 claims, that, "Very little is known about vitamin therapy." On the contrary, great strides have been made in this field in recent years; and with astounding results. Among others, certain French scientists, notably Dr. Paul Carton and Drs. Andre and Gaston Durville have explored this subject with great success and their findings are of enormous value to thousands of people.

These scientists tell us, however, that we should look to our daily food to supply our vitamins, as men and animals have done for millions of years. They are opposed to taking vitamins principally in the form of pills and other drug-store preparations. To this extent, they agree with your correspondent, who reports that the American Medical Association "has frequently questioned the wisdom of the drug store vitamin theraphy," and that "the Public Health Service estimates that millions of dollars are spent annually by persons who receive no benefit whatever."

By means of a varied and substantial menu, we obtain all the vitamins essential to growth and health. And because cooking destroys or greatly diminishes vitamin value, we should eat an ever-increasing proportion of salads, raw fruits and berries, nuts, milk and butter. When we do cook food, we should cook it very little,—as, for instance, green peas for three minutes; cabbage for 15 minutes, etc. As a mater of fact, fresh green peas are most delicious and nutritious when served raw as a salad, with dressing. But people usually have to acquire a taste for them that way. And we make a mistake in throwing away fruit peelings. Most of the vitamins are just under the skin of the fruit or vegetable.

We are learning, too, that the pressure cooker is, "the graveyard of vitamins." For heaven's sake, don't use a pressure cooker in preparing your children's food, since vitamin values perish in the process. Canning is likewise the "graveyard of vitamins," for the same reason. Therefore, scientists recommend that we give constant preference to fresh foods; and some argue the we should eat as little as possible of meat, fish, manufactured sugar, vinegar and alcohol and go light on starches. The sugar the body needs is best supplied by raw fruits, eaten when perfectly ripe and by fresh (not canned) fruit juices. The only proper method of preserving food is by refrigeration and cold storage. And as everybody knows, bodily exposure to direct sunlight is the most prolific source of vitamin D.

During winter months it is difficult, of course, to get a sufficiency of sunshine, fresh raw foods and healthful exercise, but now that spring is here, we should make up for lost time and acquire health habits that will persist the year round. None of this is written in a spirit of controversy, but only to be helpful. I have followed this method of "vitamin-intake" for 18 years, with marvellous results, and would like to share my good fortune with others. The system is particularly beneficial to growing children of all ages. Sincerely,

FAITHFUL SUBSCRIBER.

Did Robinson Borrow Shakespeare's Stuff?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My acquaintanceship with the quotation, "Men have died from time to time, and worms have eaten them—but not for love," (which quotation you used in your column of March 26), attributes it to Edwin Arlington Robinson's "Tristram," in the passage in which King Mark delivers himself of his lack of understanding on the subject of love. Yet you attribute the words to Shakespeare. Did Robinson lift the line from Shakespeare? And where is it in Shakespeare?

My admiration of you does not permit of criticism, I simply want to set myself straight on the authorship of this "quote." Sincerely, ANON.

Bartlett Tracks 'Quotes' To Their Source

DEAR ANON: Bartlett's famous compilation of "Familiar Quotations" supports my theory that Shakespeare coined the phrase. It is recorded in Bartlett's meaty reference book that the Elizabethan playwright fitted the ironic observation into the dialogue of Act IV, Scene I, of "As You Like It." So, if Robinson uses the self-same words, he must have "lifted" them from the old master. M. H.

Sees Limitation In Point of View

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Visiting in Washington, I saw your column of March 30, in which a correspondent was quarreling with your advice (of an earlier date) to a lovesick girl to restore morale by taking vitamins for vitality. I was astonished that neither of you seemed to see anything but symptoms of treat.

While general health helps one to endure such an ordeal as jilting, no amount of physical fitness could prevent loss of sleep and appetite, following that type of shock. The source of the girl's distress, it seems too obvious to mention, is entirely mental. Advise her, therefore, to keep her mind off her grief by becoming absorbed in some urgent task that compels full attention. Creative handicraft, such as weaving, is especially good psychotherapy—because it requires careful coordination of hand and eye, in following a pattern. Try it sometimes. More is of mental origin that you evidently realize, Miss Haworth. Sincerely,

BOSTONIAN.

Don't Be Hasty In Passing Judgment

DEAR BOSTONIAN: Thank you for a well-meant contribution. But don't be so hasty in passing judgment. If you had as little as one week's reader acquaintanceship with this column, you would be bound to concede my consistent awareness of the "mental origin" of psychic and nervous distress. M. H.

Fix Up Your Home

Make Lily Pool In Back Yard

BUSY though you are, you can enjoy a lily pool this Summer! One takes little care (no weeding) and little room.

The sparkle of water, fragrant lilies, graceful aquatic plants—all these joys you can have in a tiny back yard—putting in a tub pool only about two feet wide!

Sink the tub right in the ground—choosing, for water lilies, a spot that has sun half the day. Add some rich garden loam and cover with a ½-inch layer of sand.

For your little pool you want pygmy water lilies, which are just like the larger ones except in size. Choose from yellows, reds—or white, golden-centered! One plant gives dozens of blooms!

To plant hardy water lilies, just press sections of root-stock or tuber into the mud. Tropical lilies are set in pots.

All summer you'll enjoy your pool—and again next year! Our 40-page gardening booklet, has directions and diagrams for small and large pools and for delightful rock gardens. Also tells how to grow roses, herbs, gourds, vegetables, trees, lawns. Advises on border planting, vines, shrubbery; how to secure and propagate plants.

Send 15 cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for our booklet, 'Gardening Made Easy," to the NEW YORK OFFICE of The Washington Post, Home Institute, 109 West Ninteenth Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Suited for Evening

Daylight evenings have given new life to the dressy, daytime length in a variety of styles. One of the most popular is the simple black faille or moire suit. Underneath the jacket is a very feminine blouse of black lace and net, fussy enough for the next-to-formal dinner.

Nutmeg and Squash

Navy Sponsors Society Banquet Scheduled Today; Peggy Lane's Yugoslav Movie to Be Shown Here

THAT HONORABLE and ancient institution, the annual luncheon of the Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy, will take over the calendar today in the grand ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel.

Years past, the party has been a gala event, with the accent chiefly on the social phase. Today the program will take on a much more serious tone, as 60 new members who have christened fighting ships for the Navy in the past few months will be among those present at the annual get-together.

Senator Lister Hill, whose wife won her membership in the society by christening the U. S. S. Alabama a few weeks ago, will be the principal speaker; and a number of Navy notables will be at the head table.

Members of the organization were feted at a tea given yesterday afternoon in the Rockville home of Mrs. Jennings Bailey, jr., a trustee of the society. Earlier yesterday they met in the Pan American Room of the Mayflower to hear reports of standing committees, and on Monday the trustees had their yearly business meeting.

Senator Hill

For every battleship, destroyer and cruiser launched by or for the Navy since 1866, there is a woman—usually a prominent one—who has crashed a bottle against its prow and sped it down the runway into the sea. Many sponsors, of course, are widows, sisters, cousins, aunts, or descendants of naval heroes. All battleships bear the names of States; destroyers are named after heroes and cruisers take their names from cities.

Among members of the society are two former Presidents' wives, Mrs. Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. Mrs. Russell C. Langdon has been president of the organization for a number of years, and among the Washington members are Mrs. Emory S. Land, Mrs. Herbert Seymour Howard, Mrs. Clarence Aspinwall, Mme. Lombard, Mrs. George Barnett, Miss Virginia Hunt, Mrs. Austin Kautz, and Mrs. Macneil of Barra.

During prohibition, the flow of champagne that had poured over the prow of many United States Navy boats at christening ceremonies for years was stopped unceremoniously. Plain mineral water was substituted. Since dry days went the way of many other drastic measures, however, champagne has been flowing as freely as before.

Plans for Benefit Fete Under Way

By special request, the complete film that Peggy Lane made in Yugoslavia a few years ago is to be shown in Washington on April 15. The daughter of the former United States Minister to Yugoslavia (now Minister to Costa Rica), Miss Lane proved her talent as a newsreel camera artist when she made a set of motion pictures that provide a colorful record of the beauties in and around Belgrade. A part of the film was shown at the Yugoslav Legation winter before last when Miss Lane was in Washington for an extended stay.

Peggy Lane

The past winter she has been studying photography in New York, but there's a chance she may be able to take time off from her work to come to Washington for the showing of her film next week. The event, which is to be sponsored by the Society of American Friends of Yugoslavia, will take place at the Yugoslav Legation, and later, Mme. Fotitch, wife of the Minister, will entertain at tea.

I remember seeing a part of Peggy's film at a luncheon of the Women's National Press Club last year, and you can take my word for it—no travel newsreel could be lovelier, or more educational. That's why some of Peggy's friends who saw some of the picture when it was shown later at the Yugoslav Legation have been urging Mme. Fotitch to have it presented here once more. So that's exactly what is to be done next week. It's to be a benefit; and I understand most of the tickets already are sold.

Mme. Fotitch

DARTS AND DASHES: "Third time's the proverbial charm," said pretty Lucy Azambuja Neves with a smile when she started using a certain typewriter at the Brazilian Embassy a few months ago. She knew that two of her predecessors of the office staff, each of whom had used that same typewriter, were married shortly after they started working on it. No connection, of course; just coincidence.

But fellow employes teased Lucy about it; told her anybody who worked on that machine was sure to be married soon; asked her if she had any prospects. She said no, but you never can tell . . . A couple of days ago, however, she became Senhora A. Fleury de Barros, wife of the honorary Brazilian Consul at Baltimore . . . The wedding ceremony, a quiet and informal affair, took place in Baltimore; but shortly afterward, the couple drove to Washington for a gala reception at the Brazilian Embassy. Later the newlyweds left for a Florida honeymoon . . . And every girl left on the embassy office staff has put in a very special request that she be allowed to use that typewriter next . . .

Washington Calendar Still Crowded

Friends of Frances Nash (Mrs. Edwin Watson) listened with great glee last night when she played as soloist with the N. B. C. Symphony Orchestra, directed by Leopold Stokowski . . . Mention of Mrs. Watson reminds me that at a luncheon not long ago where practically everybody present was talking about first-aid classes, Mrs. Watson broke down and admitted she hadn't been able to interest herself in any activity of that kind. "Seems I just don't have the knack for it," she said. "I told my husband the other day that my conscience hurt me because I wasn't in any first-aid class, and he said, 'Well, you'll just have to be one of the ones that the first-aiders take care of.'"

Frances Nash

Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg is expected to accompany Senator Vandenberg back to Washington when he returns from his current vacation at their home in Grand Rapids, Mich. She has been there most of the past season . . . Col. and Mrs. Spencer Cosby will entertain at dinner on Saturday evening . . . Senator and Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster have cards out for a dinner on April 14, and Princess Margaret Boncompagni will be hostess at a similar party that same evening . . . Mrs. Pearsons Rust will have a small company dining with her tomorrow evening, and the Egyptian Minister and Mme. Hassan will also be dinner hosts on that date.

Judges Chosen For Flower Mart

Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone and Mrs. Fairfax Harrison will serve as judges for the fourth annual flower mart, which is scheduled to take place on the Pilgrim Steps of the Washington Cathedral on Friday, May 1. The wife of the Chief Justice is widely known as an artist, and Mrs. Harrison is one of the most prominent persons in gardening activities in this part of the country. Her home, Belvoir, at The Plains, Va., is one of the showplaces of the State.

The arrangement of the booths will have to pass the expert eye of Nathan C. Wyeth, municipal architect of the District of Columbia. Mr. Wyeth just last month was awarded the annual Board of Trade citation for his splendid work on the new Municipal Center. He is now building the new public library.

Among those displays which will be seen in the mart again this year is the "boutonniere" under the direction of Miss Rosalind Wright which for the two past years has carried off top honors. Miss Wright promises to have an even more attractive exhibit of boutonnieres this year.

The Community Garden Club of Rockville, under the direction of Mrs. Phillip Frear, and the "fruits and vegetables" booth, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Warren, both of which were prize winners last year, also are scheduled for a place in the mart on May 1.

John Thomason And Bride Now In California

For the present, Lieut. John W. Thomason 3d, U. S. M. C. Reserve, and Mrs. Thomason, who were married Sunday in Terrell, Tex., will make their home in San Diego, Calif.

Lieut. Thomason is the son of Col. John W. Thomason, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Thomason, of Washington. He is a graduate of St. Albans and attended the University of Virginia.

Before her marriage his bride was Miss Mary Ruth Wynne. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Adair Wynne, of Huntsville, Tex. The ceremony was performed at the Church of the Good Shepherd in Terrell.

Mrs. J. L. Loose Honored Again; Leaving Today

On her next to last day in town yesterday, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, whose stay here with old friends has been filled to the brim with entertainment, was the honored guest at two parties yesterday, which climaxed her Washington calendar in the proper spirit.

Mrs. Loose, who has been staying at the Shoreham, plans to start back to Kansas City tonight. First fete of the day was a luncheon given for her by Mrs. Wilbur Carr. Places for 15 were laid around an "all yellow" table, the yellow motif being supplied by spring jonquils and forsythia.

Last evening Mrs. Loose was feted again at a dinner party at the Massachusetts Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. James Green.

Musicale to End Scottish Week

As Scottish Week continues at British War Relief Headquarters, a number of prominent Washington women are donating their time as hostesses for the combination exhibit-sale.

Assisting today will be Mrs. C. Magill James, Miss Abbie McCammon, Mrs. William D. Blair, Mrs. Robert L. Walsh, Mrs. James L. Houghteling and Mrs. Donald Cameron Bingham. Lady Halifax, wife of the British Ambassador, was among the distinguished visitors at the exhibit yesterday.

Tickets are now on sale for the musicale of traditional Scottish songs at Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt Myers' Textile Museum, 2330 S Street, Sunday evening at 9 o'clock. Proceeds from this program as from the sale will go for the Scottish Clans plan for evacuating children from bombed areas to the highlands of Scotland.

Ray Crowell Visiting Here

Ray Cruse Crowell, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., who arrived in the Capital several days ago for a visit, will leave on Monday. While here, he is the house guest of Joseph F. Harley 3d, in his apartment on R Street.

Mr. Crowell, who formerly lived in Washington, is at present Missouri supervisor of the Agricultural Marketing Administration.

Miss Mary B. Reed, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Walter J. Reed, of the Air Corps, who will leave soon with her parents for a visit to Hampton, Va., where they will be guests of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Blackiston, parents of Mrs. Reed. The Reeds are en route to a new station

Marjorie Hall Engaged; Plans Wedding in June

Col. Dale C. Hall, Ordnance, U. S. Army, and Mrs. Hall announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Elizabeth, to Dr. Frank Monroe Taylor, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Taylor, of Ontario, Calif.

Miss Hall attended the University of Maryland in June, 1941. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta Social Sorority and of Sigma Alpha Omicron, honorary bacteriology fraternity.

Dr. Taylor is now on duty with the Dental Corps at Walter Reed General Hospital. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California College of Dentistry and is a member of Psi Omega Dental Fraternity and Omicron Kappa Upsilon, honorary dental fraternity.

The wedding will take place in June at the Walter Reed Memorial Chapel.

Mrs. Irene Caldwell Gives Luncheon To Help Children

Another fete in the series now being given for the benefit of the Save the Children Federation was a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Irene Caldwell. These parties have assumed a new local angle as plans are under way to establish a nursery in the District for children whose mothers are doing war work here.

Guests yesterday included Mrs. Jesse Jones, Mrs. Thruman Arnold, Mrs. Frank Hines, Mrs. Charles Palmer, Mrs. Wade Ellis, Mrs. Ernest Gruening, Mrs. Frank Linzel, Mrs. Arthur Sears Henning, Mrs. George Malone and Mrs. John Allan Dougherty.

Also Mrs. Lorton Sims, Mrs. Bruce Smith, Mrs. Thad Brown and her sister, Mrs. Irene Guitner, Mrs. Fred Vinson, Mrs. Walter Wyatt, Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Miss Irene Juno and Miss Betty Hynes.

D. J. Herring And Bride To Return Soon

Expected to return to Washington about the first of next week are Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Herring, who are now on their wedding trip to Charleston, S. C., following their marriage last Saturday.

Mrs. Herring is the former Miss Marion L. Goshorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elkins Goshorn, of Chevy Chase. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Peter Marshall in the chapel of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Herring, of Ottawa, Canada.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a powder blue suit with wheat-colored accessories, and wore a corsage of orchids. Her sister, Mrs. O. J. LaBell, of Fairfax, Va., was matron of honor. She wore navy blue with matching accessories and her corsage was gardenias. O. J. LaBell was best man.

Following a small informal reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herring left for their wedding trip. Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were the bridegroom's father, Mr. Herring; Lieut. Col. Underwood, uncle of the bridegroom, and Lieut. Col. F. McRobie, of Ottawa and Toronto, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dawson, of Piedmont, W. Va.

Comdr., Mrs. Windsor Are Hosts At Informal Fete for Visitors

Just an impromptu and informal get-together for a few friends was the party given yesterday during the cocktail hours by Commander and Mrs. Charles Windsor at their home on Massachusetts Avenue.

The guests who dropped in for a bit of talk and afternoon drink numbered about 25. Being no larger, the fete was kept largely to the drawing room, where Easter lilies and other spring flowers added their bit to the party atmosphere.

Mrs. Windsor received informally wherever she happened to be. Among her guests was Mme. Gustaw Orlicz-Dreszer, who brought with her the two widely feted guests from New York, Mrs. Dorothy Green and Mrs. Harold Robinson. They came in from a luncheon given earlier by Mme. Michael Nowinska at her apartment at Dorchester House. The latter and Mr. Nowinski also attended the Windsor party.

Others invited were Representative and Mrs. Laurence Arnold, Eduardo M. Danis, Minister-Attache at the Spanish Embassy; Michal Kwapiszewski, Minister-Counselor at the Polish Embassy, and Mme. Kwapiszewski; Dr. Vladimir Rybar, Counselor of the Yugoslav Legation; Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim; Mrs. Alva Brewer, Robert Scott Hume, Mr. and Mrs. George Boncesco, Miss Pauletta Guffey, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Jones, Mrs. Horace Williams, Mr. and Mrs. George Bean, Mrs. Eugene Villaret and William Lloyd.

Others on Commander and Mrs. Windsor's guest list were Mrs. Moran Drury, Capt. Leland Lovette, Dr. and Mrs. Leo Brison Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Barge Hartz, Mrs. Mattie Wyatt Porter, Commander Bradford Bartlett, Mrs. Neitah King and Tilghman Bunch.

Junior League Show Set for Friday

On Friday a station wagon will roll up to the doors of the Children's Museum, Vila Rosa, 4215 Massachusetts Avenue, and the traveling marionettes of the Junior League of Washington will be unloaded for a special Easter week performance for children at 3 p. m.

Every week since October, the marionette troupe has given free performances to children at public schools in the City of Washington and the audiences of between 300 and 400 children each have enthusiastically applauded Rumpelstiltskin, completely built and produced by the girls themselves.

The cast on Friday for this popular fairy tale will include Rumpelstiltskin, Mrs. E. Robert Kinnebrew; King, Mrs. William Breese, jr.; Fiddle-de-dee, Mrs. Eugene Sloan; Miller, Miss Louise Alexander; attendant, Mrs. C. R. Weaver; singers, Mrs. Kinnebrew and Mrs. Sloan. Lights, sound and properties are under the direction of Mrs. James D. Henry and Mrs. Alfred Moran.

Mary Queally Completes Plans For Saturday Rites

Miss Mary Custis Queally, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John J. Queally, and Lieut. Elbert Sevier Maloney, jr., U. S. M. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert S. Maloney, of Washington D. C., will be married Saturday.

The ceremony will take place at Transfiguration Episcopal Church at 4:30 o'clock. Miss Queally will have her sister, Miss Kathleen Erin Queally, as her attendant, and Capt. Charles Coggswell, U. S. M. C., will be best man for Lieut. Maloney.

Miss Queally's father, the rector of Transfiguration Church, will give her in marriage, and the Rev. Clyde Brown will officiate. Several parties are arranged in honor of the bride-elect during the week. Lieut. Maloney has recently returned from Iceland. The engagement was announced some months ago.

Col. and Mrs. Terry To Give Musicale

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Spencer B. Terry will entertain at a musicale on Tuesday evening, April 14, in honor of Mary Ledgerwood, noted contralto, of New York, who will be the featured artist of the event.

Miss Ledgerwood will arrive in Washington on Monday to visit Col. and Mrs. Terry in their home at 3500 Thirty-fifth Street.

Lieut., Mrs. Miller On Wedding Trip

After a wedding trip, Lieut. and Mrs. Henry Foster Miller, of New York, will reside in Alexandria where the bridegroom is stationed at Fort Livingston.

Mrs. Miller, before her marriage April 6, was Miss Maria Stockton Bullitt, daughter of Mrs. Logan M. Bullitt, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and the late Mr. Bullitt. Lieut. Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rutger Bleecker Miller, of New York.

The ceremony took place in the rectory of Our Mother of Consolation Church, in Chestnut Hill, with the Rev. Philip Donohue officiating.

Mrs. William West Frazier Brinley was matron of honor and the Misses Mary Langdon and Jean Christian Bullitt were bridesmaids.

Stephen B. Lane And Bride on Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Lane, jr., will return shortly from their wedding trip and will reside at Bolling Field, where the bridegroom is stationed.

Their marriage took place March 28 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chapin B. Bauman, with the Rev. R. Fleishell, O. F. M., cousin of the bride, officiating. Mrs. Lane is the former Miss Carol Jean Bauman.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with long train and a fingertip veil. She carried a shower bouquet and her first Communion prayer book. Miss Mary Agnes Bauman was her sister's only attendant and wore a pink chiffon dress with a bouquet of blue iris. Edward John Lane was his brother's best man.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families and was followed by a small reception.

Altrusans to Mark 25th Anniversary

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the International Association of Altrusa Clubs (first of the women's service clubs) will be celebrated tonight by the Washington Branch of the organization at a dinner at the American Association of University Women's headquarters. Mrs. Arvilla Merrill, president of the local club, will preside. Mrs. Hester Beall Provenson, member of the faculty of the University of Maryland, will give a group of readings, and Franklin Dressel, voice instructor at the National Academy of Broadcasting, will sing.

The Altrusa Club was organized in Nashville, Tenn., in the last war. Like the men's service clubs, Rotary and Kiwanis, it's membership consists of business and professional executives. Since the World War, vocational guidance has been the major activity of the organization.

Numbered among prominent Altrusans are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Nellie Taylor, Miss Harriet Elliott and Miss Mary Barber.

As a part of the observance of Altrusa's twenty-fifth birthday there will be a radio program presented over WJSV Friday at 11:15, when Eleanor Lee will interview Alice Keith, program chairman of the club. Miss Keith will review the achievements of the International Association of Altrusa Clubs.

Club Meets Saturday

THE MOUNT HOLYOKE Club of Washington will meet Saturday, April 11, at 3 o'clock, at Beauvoir, National Cathedral Elementary School, 3500 Woodley Road.

Mme. Bredo Stabell, an alumna of Mount Holyoke and a resident of Norway for several years just before the war, will speak on "Living in Norway."

Fetes in St. Paul For Bride-Elect In Washington

Bachrach

MISS LORRAINE O'BRIEN

Something new in prenuptial parties is on the books for Miss Lorraine O'Brien, who will walk down the aisle of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Chevy Chase, May 23, to become the bride of Robert J. Berens.

The bride-elect is in Washington; but her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. O'Brien, and many of her old friends are in St. Paul, Minn. Such a thing as distance, however, will not keep those friends from honoring Miss O'Brien as every bride should be honored.

In other words, they have already written to ask her which kind of showers she prefers. And now they are planning a series of prenuptial parties for her, to be given in St. Paul. They will send the gifts on to her here.

Miss O'Brien plans to have but one wedding attendant, Miss Margaret Mary Burns, of St. Paul. James J. Culhane, of Philadelphia, will be best man.

Mrs. Douglass To Speak on Dolls

The Dollology Club will meet at a 1 o'clock luncheon Saturday at 1644 Connecticut Avenue. The speaker will be Mrs. MacDonald Douglass, world traveler and doll collector.

Every country of the world is represented as are the more important islands in her collection. The dolls to be shown and discussed at the Dollology Club meeting represent some of those secured under the more interesting circumstances ranging from the gifts of queens to those from uncivilized bushmen, from ministers of education to primitive natives of isolated islands, from foreign governments to pupils in humble mission schools.

Mrs. Clyde Robertson Attends Board Meeting Of Pen Women

MRS. CLYDE ROBERTSON

IF SINGING "Crossing the Bar" could put a soul into heaven, Mrs. Clyde Robertson, former concert singer, author and poet of Leadville, Colo., thinks she has escorted more deceased persons to the brink of eternity than any other individual.

For many years this was her favorite funeral hymn that she sang for saloon keepers, bartenders, miners and ladies with dark and shady past. That was back in pioneer days when the West was still "stick 'em up, shoot 'em up."

Mrs. Robertson came to the Capital from Miami to attend the annual board meeting of the National League of American Pen Women, Monday at the Willard Hotel. As national poetry chairman of the League, she announced the winner of the Grace Dupree Ridings Memorial award of $25. The late Mrs. Ridings, former Texas State president of the League, offered a prize of $25 for the best poem on "Peace." Her daughter Hope Ridings Miller, Post Society Editor, continued the award in memory of her mother.

Miss Marguerite Hoffman, of Des Moines, Iowa, won the first prize for her poem "Second Chance," which was selected from 55 poems submitted. Honorable mention went to Miss Anabel Armon, of Kansas City for her poem, "Volunteers." Joseph Auslander was judge.

But back to Mrs. Robertson. The author of a number of short stories and several books on poetry, she frequently has been called the "feminine Bret Hart" because of her convincing portrayals of Western American life. Her latest book, "The Yellow Witch," will be read by future historians, according to many critics. So will another of her volumes, "Fool's Gold," which graphically depicts the gold rush days in the West.

Concert singing was the chosen career of Mrs. Robertson, until her husband got "gold fever" and took her to Leadville, Colo.—a small but rich mining town. It was then in her early youth that she sang all the funeral songs in the little church choir. "Nobody died," she said, "that I didn't sing into eternity."

Except for an illness that affected her throat and made it impossible to continue singing "Crossing the Bar" or wedding songs, Mrs. Robertson might never have written a line of poetry. The choir's loss, however, was the literary world's gain. For, she began writing at an age when most people quit. Short stories were her first medium of expression. From that her creative talents turned to poetry.

Before beginning to write she purchased a dictionary, textbooks and manuals on the technique of poetry writing. Then she traveled in Europe, but came back to Colorado and wrote of the men, women and events of the mining town in which she had lived.

Doings of the Day

THE SONS and Daughters of Liberty receive the Past Deputies of Columbia Council No. 4, in an official visit . . . Mrs. William O. Douglas, wife of the Supreme Court Justice, who is president of the Good Will Industries, speaks before members of the WASHINGTON ZONTA CLUB at their luncheon meeting 1 p.m. at the Y. W. C. A. Eleanor Durett of the club gives the foreword . . . Mrs. William D. Wrightson, assistant treasurer of the WOMEN'S DEFENSE TRAINING SCHOOL is hostess at buffet luncheon and bridge for benefit of the school, 1 p.m. Capt. Glenn Russell, commandant of the school, receives with Mrs. Wrightson . . . Mrs. Henry I. Quinn entertains the officers and members of the AUXILIARY BOARD OF TRINITY COLLEGE at buffet luncheon at her home on Rockwood Parkway. Purpose of the luncheon is to make plans for the Easter bridge-tea dance, Saturday afternoon at the college.

Group Changes Name

FROM NOW on the Mother's Health Association will be known as the Planned Parenthood Association of the District of Columbia. The new name will conform with that of the national organization—Planned Parenthood Federation of America, formerly the Birth Control of America. Mrs. Prentiss Wilson, president of the association, announced the change in names yesterday at the annual luncheon meeting held at the Y. W. C. A.

Kenneth Rose, director of the Planned Parenthood Federation, spoke after the luncheon. In his speech he said: "The Planned Parenthood Federation of America is fighting a campaign against diseases that maim and kill mothers as well as infants . . . as a part of this campaign we are striving to have birth control information for those who want it, included in all State Public Health programs."

Factories can be built or converted to war use in a few weeks or months. But strong men and women are not produced so quickly according to Mr. Rose. He pointed out that the experiences of the war expose a cruel pattern of human erosion.

"However, if we find that we have inherited a legacy of past neglect," he said, "now is not the time to bewail that fact. We must resolve to press forward today and to maintain and improve health services."

Alumnae Dined

WELLS COLLEGE alumnae of Washington attended a dinner last night at Kennedy-Warren in celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the college by Henry Wells, of stagecoach fame, in 1868.

Together with other Wells College clubs throughout the country, the local club opened a campaign to raise a million dollars for four new buildings.

The speaker of the evening was G. S. Bilheimer, trustee and treasurer of Wells College. Mrs. Walton Ferris, president of the Washington club, presided.

Mrs. Fred A. Ballard was chairman of the dinner committee, assisted by Mrs. Willard T. Miller, and Mrs. Horace L. Dawson is chairman of the building fund committee.

Chairmen Named

MRS. WALTER BLOEDORN and Mrs. G. Louis Weller are co-chairmen for the special committee appointed by Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the women's board of George Washington University Hospital, to plan for the board's annual campaign for funds for special equipment for the hospital. Members will promote special benefit parties or personal contributions will create the necessary funds. At the meeting of the women's board recently at the Mayflower Hotel, final plans for the drive were discussed and announced, Mrs. Marvin presided.

Carter Glasses To Be Honored At Luncheon

Senator and Mrs. Carter Glass will be the guests of honor at a get-together luncheon of the Washington Branch of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. Scheduled for 1:30 o'clock Saturday, the annual luncheon will be held in the Congressional room of the Willard Hotel.

These luncheons are held to stimulate the interest of members in the important work of preserving old landmarks and restoring valuable records, which are beginning to crumble, and would be otherwise lost to posterity.

Mrs. Wade Ellis, Mrs. Joseph S. Wall and Mrs. Virgil Jackson are in charge of the luncheon. Vice directors of the association include Mrs. William O. Owen, Mrs. William Cabell Moore, Mrs. Henry St. George Tucker and Mrs. Jessie Lee Webb.

Officers of the organization are: Miss Eleanor Fitts, Mrs. William B. Davis, Mrs. Mead Feick, Mrs. John Franklin Little.

Among the distinguished guests invited to the luncheon are: Msgr. Edward Buckey, who will give the invocation; Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., former president general of the D. A. R. Also, Mrs. Horace Mann Towner, regent of Mount Vernon; Miss Mabel Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Ellis and Charles Wall, manager of Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Everard Robinson Todd, director of the association, will preside.

NOW! Be SURE of FLAKY PIE CRUST!

Wouldn't you love it if making a lovely flaky pie meant no more guesswork than making muffins? Everything measured out just so!

Thanks to Crisco, it's come true! . . . Crisco brings you a brand-new pastry method that ends all guesswork. Now you're sure of flaky, tender pie crust.

You see, Crisco is different from any other home shortening we know of—it's made by an exclusive process—you can depend upon it more to give you flaky pie crust! Pure, all-vegetable Crisco can give you such light digestible pastry, too! And now, Crisco's Pastry Method gives you still another boost to sure pastry success—

Now! Crisco method ends 2 big causes of tough crust!

New thrill! Crisco and its amazing New Pastry Method end the 2 big causes of toughness—using too much water and over-handling the dough.

Read the details of amazing New Crisco Pastry Method at the right. No guesswork in it! See how it ends 2 big causes of tough crust. Don't forget—this method was perfected specially for Crisco. We don't promise Crisco's sure-fire success with just any shortening! So be sure to use Crisco and only Crisco.

TRADEMARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. • PROCTER & GAMBLE

NEW! EASY! Crisco's Sure-Fire Pastry Method

DOUBLE-CRUST MEASUREMENTS

2 cups sifted flour • 1 teaspoon salt
*⅔ cup Crisco • ¼ cup water

Notice—this method tells you exact amount of water to use. Standard recipes don't . . . yet too much water is the first big cause of tough pastry. That's ended now!*

Sift flour and salt into bowl. Take out ½ cup of this flour and mix with the ¼ cup of water to form a paste. Add Crisco to remaining flour; cut Crisco in with knives, fork or blender until the pieces are the size of small peas.

Next, add flour-paste to Crisco-flour mixture. Mix thoroughly until the dough comes together and can be shaped into a ball. (Notice—the dough is never sticky—it's easy to handle, easy to roll out! So this method saves you from over-handling the dough—the second big cause of tough pastry.) Divide in half—roll out both crusts about ⅛ inch thick. (All measurements level.)

ONE-CRUST MEASUREMENTS: Use 1½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup Crisco. Take out ¼ cup flour and blend with 3 tablespoons water.

APPLE PIE WITH TOASTED CHEESE TOP—Use your favorite apple pie filling and double-crust proportions of Crisco pastry. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 10 minutes, then lower to moderately hot (375° F.) 30 to 40 minutes. Before serving, lay narrow strips of cheese in a lattice design on top. Place under broiler or in oven until cheese just begins to melt.

FOR FLAKY PIE CRUST USE CRISCO AND BE SURE!

Film Daily Year Book Branches Out Into War

New Issue a Treasure-House of Film Facts; Local Picture House Wins Its 'Oscar;' Items of News and Gossip of the Theater

THAT ANNUAL GUESSING GAME aimed at the "Ten Best Pictures of the Year" is not the only claim to distinction Jack Alicoate's Film Daily whips up for itself and the motion picture industry during each successive twelvemonth. One of the heftiest items on its agenda is the compilation of the Film Daily Year Book.

WILLIAM HOLDEN

With the aid of a block-and-tackle, three crowbars and a flock of stevedores, I have just succeeded in getting my copy of the 1942 edition hoisted up onto the desk where it can be sketchily surveyed. It is quite a book, falling somewhere between "Gone With the Wind" and an unabridged dictionary in bulk and weight and stands so-high in its bare facts.

In its 1016 pages are compressed not only the full range of editorial and statistical information for the past year, but a pretty complete summary of the motion picture industry's actual and potential participation in the war effort, with foreword by Mr. Alicoate, formerly of this journal, and important articles on the various aspects of the war activities by such authorities as Editor Chester B. Bahn, Francis S. Harmon, executive vice chairman of the War Activities Committee; Darryl F. Zanuck, chairman of the Research Council; John Hay Whitney, director, Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs; Oscar A. Doob, national director of public relations, USO-Camp Shows, Inc; Howard Dietz, in charge of motion picture activities, defense bonds and stamps, and others.

In addition to the usual biographical and productional data, the book lists titles and release dates of 18,618 feature films circulated since the industry kicked off its swaddling clothes.

Having other uses for this end of the room at the moment, that's as far as we've got. There is still time, however, to thank the publishers for having freighted us their invaluable volume.

If those plundering political pirates out in Shale City, trying to hang the rap for their own peculations on the high-principled, young county bookkeeper, had known who Andrew Long had on his side, they never would have made such craven fools of themselves. When the dirty business came to trial in a "fixed" court, Andy didn't have anyone to defend him but George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall and a few of the other boys who had had something to say about what America ought to be like. Nobody can see these distinguished wraiths at the counsel table but the audience and William Holden but that is enough to make Paramount's "The Remarkable Andrew" a pretty cagey piece of producing at just this time. That, at least, was one reaction to yesterday's preview screening. You can get yours at Loew's Capitol, beginning tomorrow.

Capital Honored by Unique Award

So now, by way of variety, they are bestowing "Oscars" upon the best theaters in the country, as well as the best films, best actors, best actresses, and so on. Something or other called Theater Catalog, published in Philadelphia, in the interest, one gathers, of architectural design, construction and decoration, has inaugurated the innovation—if it is as new as I think—and the Apex Theater in this city has been designated as a "Perfect 36" to receive one of the coveted trophies. Commissioner Mason will make the presentation to Fred Kogod, president of the Kogod and Burka Enterprises, owners of the Apex, in the Variety clubrooms today at noon. The theater deserves it. Congratulations all around.

You won't be seeing Capt. Nancy Raden up there on the Earle stage with the Roxyettes any more. The charming Miss Raden, whose radiant personality has had much to do with making the Roxyettes one of the most accomplished "lines" in the American theater, has been made assigtant dance instructress under Anolyn Arden. She succeeds Gloria Lyall, transferred to Philadelphia to take over a post vacated by illness. This is all very nice for Nancy, but is going to be pretty tough on those front rows and the opera glass operatives up in the loge. Heigho! More congrats, anyhow.

That apothecary cowpuncher you've seen swaggering around town in a light fawn Stetson probably is our sprightly contemporary, "Young Buffalo" Harrison, ten-gallon-hatted since Easter by Hoot Gibson and "Fog Horn" Clancy, down rodeo way. Yippee!

Apologies-to-Max-Gordon Note

April is pretty warm for May!

'Our Russian Front' at Little

By Richard L. Coe

In a striking double bill the Little is presenting a compellingly real picture of what war means in the twentieth century. "Our Russian Front," new to Washington, has been preceded by cheers from all who have seen it; "Target for Tonight" returns to share the screen with its factual account of how Britain's Bomber Command prepares for and achieves action.

This unique combination of our allies in action against Hitler is a "must" for anyone interested in a war which affects us all.

"Our Russian Front," with an admirable running commentary by Novelist Elliot Paul Spoken by Walter Huston, makes ringing point of the fact that this is everybody's war, that with bombers in the skies and fifth columnists in our midst, this war allows no noncombatants It shows how the young and the old, the strong and the weak all have assignments in the Soviets' vast onslaught against the Nazis.

Old men go back to their former jobs to free younger ones for active duty; boys in the wheat fields; the Cossacks ride again. Above all, however, it stresses a spiritual sense that seems to inspire abnegation of self for the preservation of a mighty whole.

Lewis Milestone, who filmed "All Quiet on the Western Front," and Joris Ivens, who made "The Spanish Earth," have collaborated on piecing together authentic scenes photographed on the front by Russian cameramen. Their editing results in a swift-moving, forceful work, while Paul's running commentary is exceptionally intelligent. Huston reads it with simplicity, leaving the drama to the pictures themselves.

"Target for Tonight" is the Crown Film Unit's account of how raids are planned and perpetrated over Nazi-held Europe.

"Our Russian Front" is being presented under the auspices of Russian War Relief, Inc., with proceeds going to this benefit. Last night's premiere attracted a large group of Capital notables who heard Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, make introductory remarks at the start of the film.

HEDDA HOPPER

True to Convictions

Hollywood, Calif., April 7. When Lew Ayres left town to join the conscientious objectors, he was a man who had the courage to stand up for his convictions in the face of public criticism and at the sacrifice of his career. That's all that a man's God asks of him. It wasn't wise, but it took courage—far greater courage than those who've wheedled, pulled stings to secure an officer's uniform that neither their courage nor their ability measured up to.

ERROL FLYNN

And heaven knows, we've seen plenty of that. Lew could have landed a cushy job. It's unfortunate that he had to go against the prevailing sentiments, but to crucify a man for standing up to his own convictions, even if it meant national ridicule and professional suicide, is not too far different from another act civilization commited some 2000 years ago, when they nailed a Man to a cross becase He dared to die for His belief.

I talked with Erich Remarque, who wrote "All Quiet on the Western Front." He's never met Lew Ayres. Remarque, who's 44, wanted to go and fight for England last year. Now he'd like to go to Australia. But he's an enemy alien and can't go out of his room after 8 o'clock at night. He said, "I'm really the man without a country. My books were burned, and I was driven out of Germany. This war is like no other. It's a war for freedom—of religion, culture, and everything we hold dear."

Errol Flynn sure has winning ways. When Lili Damita had an accident and had to have 12 stitches in her skull, he never went near her. But when he had a tummy-ache, she took the baby up to his house to call . . . Three days later, she was in court getting the divorce . . . Lili, incidentally, is taking the baby and nurse, and motoring easy stages to New York.

It isn't true that Norma Shearer will play the mother of "Claudia," nor that she has money invested in David Selznick's company. That's all his own, backed by a couple of New York bankers.

If Rita Hayworth isn't careful, she's going to find herself behind the eight-ball in more ways than one.

Irene Dunne says no more screwball comedies for her. She brought her baby on the set one day, who paid no attention to the actors or what was going on, but went around gathering up nails. When Irene asked her why, she said, "Daddy says it's awfully hard to get nails these days." Irene and the baby are up watching Daddy supervise the building of 500 houses at Las Vegas.

Cue Magazine quotes Joan Crawford as saying: "There's nothing I'd like so much as a baby. I'd rather have one than a husband."

Paramount's looking for a new name for Dolly Loehr. She's settled on "Cathie" for ,rst, but can't get second half of monicked.

LEONARD LYONS

Words to the Wise

New York, April 7.

M. MAYER: Wendell Willkie read your article about Jews, in the Saturday Evening Post, and wanted to write a reply to it. Willkie, who has been asked to write articles for every magazine in the country, phoned the editor of the Saturday Evening Post about it, and was turned down. It's his first rejection slip . . . LORD HALIFAX: David Howen-Lyon, Queen Elizabeth's brother, who recently arrived in this country, is the newest addition to the staff of the Donovan committee . . . GEN. ARNOLD: Unless some new obstacles arise, the Harmon Aviation Trophy this year will be a posthumous award. The prize committee feels that it should be presented to the late Billy Mitchell, the Army officer who was court-martialed for his faith in the aeroplane weapon.

TALLULAH BANKHEAD

HOWARD SCOTT: Isn't it true that the revival of your Technocracy plan is being financed by a former official of Allied Chemical? . . . REPRESENTATIVE CLARE HOFFMAN: The Federal grand jury investigating Nazi propaganda will delve deeply into your affairs, this week. . . . AUTHORS' LEAGUE: The new half-hour programs which will emanate from Fort Bragg, and which feature soldier-talent, will be written by Saroyan, Pearl Buck, Maugham and Maxwell Anderson.. They're contributing their services. . . . LIEUT. COMDR. GENE TUNNEY: Lieut. Jack Dempsey, who stopped smoking two months ago, is puffing away at cigars again.. During his short period of absence, Jack gained 20 pounds—and decided it was easier to resume his smoking than to start dieting.

FRED ASTAIRE: The students at Arthur Murray's will hold a dance contest among themselves. Among the entrants the favorite to win the Lindy-Hop contest is the pretty Mary Dillon, president of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Co. . . . DONALD NELSON: Danny Kaye will appear in "Night Shift," the movie which Garson Kanin is doing for WPB's Production Drive . . . Kaye, incidentally, sold $155,000 worth of war bonds the other night by entertaining at La Martinique. Tallulah Bankhead sold $10,000 by doing her imitations of the Barrymores. She then announced that she'd buy a $5000 bond on condition that the audience forget that they'd seen her imitations . . . TOMMY CORCORAN: Aren't you helping Leo Crowley set up his Alien Property Custodianship?

DAMON RUNYON: Mayor LaGuardia was asked last week to pose with a baby in his arms, as a press stunt for "Butch Minds the Baby." He refused. . . . SECRETARY STIMSON: Jacqueline Cochrane, who now is in England to coordinate the Women't Auxiliary in aviation, crossed the ocean, although she has an open wound in her side—resulting from an inoculation which became infected. Miss Cochrane is treating the wound herself, during this trip. . . . ARCHIBALD MacLEISH: Milton Mackaye, the magazine writer now working at your Office of Facts and Figures, is at the Whitman, in Miami Beach, recuperating from an arm-injury—sustained when he fell out of his swivel chair.

ORSON WELLES: Richard Wright, whose "Native Son" you produced, has written two new novels. The second, a long novel which was completed last week, will be published before the first, which is a short one . . . AL JOLSON: Eddie Davis, the former hackie who wrote your last show, now is writing one with Guy Bolton—who invited him to sign a book containing the autographs of his previous collaborators. The list included Noel Coward, P. G. Wodehouse, Somerset Maugham, etc. Davis, with a flourish, signed "George Bernard Shaw," and explained: "How else will anybody notice an unimportant name like mine, on such a list?" . . . P. S. 184: George Jessel, who never went beyond the 5-B class, will lecture at Harvard University.

SHERMAN BILLINGSLEY: On April 26 the theater folk who go to night clubs, instead will go to the American Theater Wing's Canteen, for a "Noah's Ark Festival" there. Animals will be borrowed from the Zoo . . . The Canteen, incidentally, is opening a branch in Dallas. . . . N. A. B.: A new type of radio show soon will be broadcast—for the famed Gallup Poll will be presented as a radio program.

Three pages of Stage and Screen appear in Sunday's Post.

Gayety

The "Black and White Revue," an attraction every dyed-in-the-wool burlesque fan anticipates with delight, opened a week's engagement at the Gayety Theater Sunday afternoon.

As always, this super-duper bill boasts an array of stars, including some of the most talented comedians, dancers and singers on the circuit, including such big "names" as Dusty "Open the Door Richard" Fletcher, Renee and your old friend, Irving B. Hamp.

The first portion of the bill is dedicated to the comic antics of Irving B. Hamp and his clever partner, Gertie Beck. Along with Harry "Shuffles" LeVan, an amusing little chap, and Charlie Harris, a fine straight man, the white half of the show is no less amusing than the sepia part of the entertainment.

With the inimitable "Dusty" Fletcher heading a splendid cast, the latter part of the attraction is tops in sepian entertainment. A fine cast, plus a great dancing chorus, deserves credit for fine work.

All in all, the "Black and White Revue" is an attraction you shouldn't miss.—ART JOHN.

"Hellzapoppin' Return Tops Incoming Bills

"HELLZAPOPPIN'." Back to the National stage on Monday evening for another two-week run comes the Olsen and Johnson musical with Billy House and Eddie Garr again heading the cast. A midwinter record-breaker, the musical is in its second season of phenomenal touring success, with return engagements stacked up everywhere much in the manner of the unending "Tobacco Road." Among the other performers scattered throughout the boxes, auditorium and stage are Grace and Nikko, the Oxford Boys, Ben Dova, Paul Gordon, the Sterner Sisters, the Read Sisters and Bobby Jarvis. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

RKO-Keith's

"ALL THAT MONEY CAN BUY." Stephen Vincent Benet's great story, "The Devil and Daniel Webster," comes to the screen with Walter Huston as the devil who promises the New England farmer "All That Money Can Buy." James Craig is the young man, Edward Arnold the resourceful lawyer, Anne Shirley his wife and Simone Simon the temptress from the other side of the mountains. Also on the Keith bill is the new "March of Time" release, "The Argentine Question," and a new Walt Disney cartoon, "MacDonald's Duck." Opens this morning.

Capitol

"THE REMARKABLE ANDREW." Dalton Trumbo's story of a small-town bank clerk who, accused of embezzlement, calls on the shade of his idol, Andrew Jackson, comes to the screen with William Holden, Ellen Drew and Brian Donlevy in the leading roles. To prove his admirer's innocence, Jackson summons the shades of other great Americans. The Capitol's stage revue stars the inimitable dance satirists, Paul and Grace Hartman, Tapster Eunice Healey and the Rhythm Rockets tops the supporting bill. Opens tomorrow morning.

Earle

"THE FLEET'S IN." Latest of the screen's seafaring musical comedies costars Dorothy Lamour, William Holden and Eddie Bracken, with specialties from such favorite entertainers as Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra, comic Cass Daley, jitterbug Betty Hutton, vocalists Bob Eberle and Helen O'Connell, Leif Erickson and Lorraine and Rognan. The stage revue introduces Bob Addie's ballad, "Just a Song," Dick, Don and Dinah, the Three Harmoniacs, Chester Dolphin and the Roxyettes. Opens Friday morning.

Metropolitan

"ALWAYS IN MY HEART." Walter Huston, Kay Francis and 15-year-old songbird Gloria Warren are the stars of this film drama telling of a mother reunited by her children with a husband in whom she thought she had no further interest. Supporting players include Patty Hale, Frankie Thomas, Una O'Connor, Sidney Blackmer, Armida, Frank Puglia and the Borrah Minnevitch Rascals. Opens Friday morning.

Palace

"THE COURTSHIP OF ANDY HARDY." Latest in the popular family series, number 12 to be specific, this Mickey Rooney-Lewis Stone film remains for a second week. As usual, Fay Holden, Cecilia Parker, Ann Rutherford and Sara Haden are in the cast.

Columbia

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE." The Carole Lombard-Jack Benny comedy of a Polish theatrical couple's brush with the Gestapo in occupied Warsaw returns to F Street after two weeks at the Palace. Ernst Lubitsch directed. Opens tomorrow morning.

Pix

"CALL OUT THE MARINES." Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe resume the roles that brought them fame a decade ago in this yarn of the two marines whose incidental adventures always have been more important than their rank in the corps. Binnie Barnes, Paul Kelly, Dorothy Lovett, Franklin Pangborn, Corinna Mura and Robert Smith. Opens Saturday afternoon.

Trans-Lux

"THE FAR EAST COMMAND," the "March of Time" release on the Battle of the Pacific, tops the short subjects of the newsreel theater's incoming bill. The comic cartoon spoofs That Concerto, "Concerto in B Flat Minor," and the Kaltenborn and McCrary news clips continue in their latest editions. Opens Friday morning.

Gayety

"SPRING FOLLIES." Myrna Dean headlines the company of burlesque personalities paying tribute to the new season for the week beginning Sunday afternoon. Others in the revue include "Slats" Taylor and "Wop" Moore, comics; Charlie Schultz, Jack Curtis, Elsa Greenwell, Ermine Parker and Curtis and Leroy. Midnight performances every Saturday evening.

Riverside Stadium

HOOT GIBSON, the veteran screen cowboy star, heads the company of Col. Jim Eskew's all-Western Rodeo Show continuing through Sunday evening at the Riverside Stadium, Twenty-sixth and D Streets Northwest. Matinees today, Saturday and Sunday.

Strates Shows

THE JAMES E. STRATES SHOWS begin a ten-day stay today at the circus grounds, Twenty-first and C Streets Northeast. The traveling unit promises 20 "modernistic" shows, 20 free rides, and five additional free acts.

Glen Echo

THE AMUSEMENT PARK'S first week of its 1942 season has received as solid a welcome from its public as it has from an obliging weatherman. The park boasts free parking areas for autos and also can be reached by "Route 20" streetcars. Paul Kain's orchestra plays for dancing in the Spanish Garden ballroom, 9 to 12, week nights.

Catholic University

"ART AND PRUDENCE." Julia Haydon, the stage and film star, returns to the campus theater of Catholic University to play the lead in Walter Kerr's comedy of dramatic school life. Father Gilbert V. Hartke directs a supporting company drawn from the Speech and Drama department. Opens tonight.

Typical Selectee Honored

GENERALS AND FORT MEADE SOLDIER CLASP HANDS

Sergt. Carl E. Plitt, of Bethesda, Md., a member of the 228th Field Artillery at Fort Meade, Md., was feted as the typical Army selectee at the dinner staged in the Mayflower Hotel by the Military Order of the World War. Clasping hands with Sergt. Plitt are Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell (left), commander general of Army supply services, and Maj. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney (right), deputy chief of staff. The dinner was staged on Army Day in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of America's entrance into World War I

$5000 Mark Near In Blood Bank Fund Campaign

The Children's Hospital blood and plasma bank fund stood near the $5000 mark yesterday, offering reassurance that the life-saving service will be continued for another year.

A $62 contribution by the Falls Church benefit party committee brought the fund total to $4901.27. Last month the same committee, headed by Mrs. Robert N. Landreth and Mrs. Joseph McCaskill, raised $82.40, so that its 1942 donation will be recorded as $144.40.

Meanwhile, the Strates Show, which opens a 10-day stand tonight at the Twenty-first and C Streets Northeast circus grounds, announced that 10 per cent of its gate receipts the night of April 15 will go to the blood bank fund.

The fourth annual Children's Hospital drive is sponsored by the American Legion, Washington Bridge League and The Post. Several Legion benefit parties remain to be held before the campaign ends.

Mackenzie King Warns Canada Of War's Spread

Ottawa, April 7 (AP).—Prime Minister MacKenzie King said tonight the final battles might be fought on Canadian and United States soil unless the enemy is defeated abroad.

Speaking over a National network in the campaign for an affirmative result in the April 2 manpower plebiscite, he said a great offensive to cut the Atlantic and Pacific supply lines might be launched at any moment.

Defense of Canada is essential but it is equally essential that Canada, a country which might need help as no other country ever needed it, must continue to do all it can to help other countries, he said.

Thus it was essential that Canada send an army overseas as well as maintain defenses at home and in doing so it was not only helping other nations but was fighting for its own existence, he said.

Wounded Officer Is Recovering

Policeman M. T. Clark, of the Fourth Precinct, was recovering at Emergency Hospital last night of a bullet wound in the leg suffered Monday in a gunfight with a man who was shot and killed.

In the meantime, authorities made plans for an inquest into the death of the man, Thomas L. Davis, Negro, 36, of 309 F Street Southwest, who pulled a .32-caliber revolver on Clark and Private Norman Gray, according to police. Both officers emptied their service revolvers at Davis and he died of wounds at Providence Hospital.

The shooting occurred at Sixth and E Streets Southwest, when the two patrolmen responded to a call for "a man with a gun."

50 From Reed Will See Rodeo

Fifty patients at Walter Reed Hospital will be guests of Hoot Gibson and his bronco-bustin' cowboys at the rodeo this afternoon at Riverside Stadium.

Gibson visited Walter Reed Hospital last week and struck up a warm friendship with the patients, among whom is Bob White, of Spokane, Wash., a former rodeo performer.

Strike Stops Work on Vital War Supplies

Akron, Ohio, April 7 (AP).—Approximately 220 fabricators working on war orders in the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. went on a sit-down strike today.

Sherman Dalrymple, of Akron, international president of the C. I. O.'s United Rubber Workers of America, said that he pleaded with the men to return to work but they refused.

Gene Judd, company spokesman, said the afternoon shift of 110 workers went on strike after wage rates and other adjustments went into effect today, although they were posted for general information Thursday. When the second shift of 110 workers came on at 6 p. m., they also refused to process material.

Jud said the strike threatens the flow of materials to 5000 persons working on barrage balloons, blimps, escape boats, bullet-sealing gasoline tanks for airplanes and other war materials made from rubberized fabrics.

The strike developed in the spreader rooms where "runners" and "helpers" attend machines which roll and give a covering to fabrics. Under the former system each machine had a runner and there was a helper to every two or three machines.

Judd said runners' pay was raised approximately 2 cents an hour, bringing the rate to $1.50 an hour, and a similar raise brought helpers' pay to $1.45 an hour.

Also under today's orders the machines, which are automatically operated, were adjusted to handle material faster.

Judd said the process was changed partially a month or so ago, that a temporary wage was set while additional changes were made, and that the result of the study brought about the increased speed of the machines and the new wage scale.

A civilian inspector for the Air Corps, who declined the use of his name, said that he told the strikers he would have to report the names of ringleaders to Washington.

Streetcar Hits Auto, It Strikes Man

Six persons were injured in traffic accidents yesterday, one in a freak auto-streetcar crash.

Joseph Samson, 30, of 307 Thirty-fifth Street Northeast, was treated at Emergency Hospital for injuries to his head and right leg following an accident at Fourteenth and G Streets Northwest, at 8 a. m.

With his wife, Mrs. Edith Samson, he was crossing Fourteenth Street when a streetcar making a left turn struck an automobile operated by Edwin J. Lansdale, 21, of 839 Longfellow Street Northwest. Lansdale's car was shoved forward and knocked Samson down.

In another streetcar-auto crash at Eighth and K Streets Northeast, the driver of the auto, Eskine Putnam, Negro, 21, of 1832 Fourteenth Street Northwest, was charged with colliding.

He suffered multiple lacerations to his face. Three passengers in his car, Willie Bennett, 22, of 614 Twelfth Street Northeast; Drusilla James, 20, same address, and Cokes Bennett, 28, of 1909 Thirteenth Street Northwest, all Negroes, received cuts and bruises and were treated at Casualty Hospital.

Claude J. Brooks, 26, of 715 Eighth Street Southeast, operator of the trolley, escaped injury as did several passengers on the car.

Marie Taylor, Negro, 8, of 1527 B Street Northeast, suffered a back injury and severe cuts and bruises when she fell from a truck on which she was hitching a ride in an alley behind the 1500 block North Carolina Avenue Northeast. She was taken to Gallinger Hospital, where doctors said her condition was undetermined.

Batt Expects Vigorous Bombing Of America 'Momentarily'

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, April 7.—William L. Batt, director of the raw materials division of the War Production Board, said tonight the United States rapidly is moving down the road to complete mobilization but that "there is still a grave question whether we are moving fast enough, whether we will get there on time."

"We still have a long way to go," he told members of the RCA Manufacturing Co. after taking part in a ceremony at the firm's Camden, N. J., factories marking the running off from its production line of the last phonograph-radio for civilian use as the plant goes into war production exclusively. The set goes to the Warm Springs, Ga., Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

After his prepared text, Batt in a serious mood told the workers that at the moment we are in a "bitter, losing fight." Only hard work, he went on, can change us from the defensive to the offensive. In addition, he expects the country "to be subjected momentarily to vigorous bombings." He did not elaborate.

"Minorities in every national group," Batt said, "are still pleading their own special interests—still playing the selfish game of obstructionism. But with the public no longer complacent; with the public ready and willing to make every sacrifice, asking only that they be shown what part they can play—then I predict that the day when any man can play a selfish game is just about past."

The address was broadcast.

Batt said the Nation had been through a period "when we just didn't take the war seriously."

"We've taken a couple of pretty stiff pokes on the chin since Japan started something—we've been pushed around and pushed around badly . . . Australia and the Indian Ocean are in grave danger.

"I am sure that America tonight is beginning to be restless, beginning to be worried. I believe that America is very close to real resentment. All this, in my opinion, is to the good because when America rouses herself as she is beginning to be aroused, the fur will fly. When America really gets mad then I say God help anyone who stands in her way."

Batt predicted the next few months may be "very disturbing" months as we go through the worst of "our growing pains of transforming from peacetime production to wartime production."

"It is likely that we shall have more—much more—bad news," he warned. "There may be other Pearl Harbors, another Singapore, but if we have the courage of our ancestors at Valley Forge, at Chancellorsville, at Gettysburg, if we have vision, if we keep our feet on the ground and avoid hysteria, then this great Nation will soon be welded into a dynamic fighting machine that no force on earth can ever crush."

Batt said that a great and overwhelming majority of our people are in "no mood to tolerate indecision and delay—by management, by labor or by Government" in prosecuting the war program.

Commissioners' Cars Pass Inspection

There was relief, not to say rejoicing, in the Traffic Department yesterday when the District Commissioners' cars (license tags 1, 2 and 3) sailed through the annual inspection without question. Last year there was considerable embarrassment when one of the Commissioner's cars was disqualified.

Of the 323 low-numbered cars that ran the gantlet of inspection, only 77 were rejected, and these for minor adjustments which were corrected and finally passed.

2 Councilmen Are Unseated In Alexandria

Two members of the Alexandria city council were upset in their bids for renomination, and two others were successful, according to unofficial votes tabulated last night at the close of the annual Democratic primary, regarded as tantamount to election in the traditionally Democratic Virginia community.

Both of the incumbent councilmen who lost out were unseated in three-cornered races. Ernest E. Mankin of the Third Ward, yielded to John J. Ewald, a Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railway clerk, and James Armstrong, Fifth Ward representative, lost to Maj. Everett A. Hellmuth, executive officer of the Eleventh Battalion, Virginia Protective Force.

Councilman John D. Matter, of the First Ward, won the party nomination in a close race with Julian Beach, and inclumbent George K. Bender was renominated over R. Samuel Luckett, former Democratic committee chairman.

There were no elections in the Second and Sixth Wards, where Councilmen Paul L. Delaney and Charles L. Burgess previously had been declared official party nominees in view of the fact that they were without primary opposition.

In the Third Ward, Ewald polled 183 votes, while James H. Lyles, Alexandria florist, drew 141, and the incumbent, Mankin, trailed the field with 116.

The Fifth Ward race saw Maj. Hellmuth win over Councilman Armstrong, 291 votes to 195, while Joseph H. Kretschmer, a third entry in the ward race, polled 97.

First—Councilman John D. Matter, 152, and Julian Beach, 110, and Fourth, Councilman George K. Bender, 276, and R. Samuel Luckett, 168.

Fire Almost Ends Mellett Madhouse Controversy

Mellett's Madhouse might have died a-burning yesterday afternoon and suspended the whole controversy over its merits but for the swift action of District firemen.

In less than five minutes after construction workers turned in an alarm at 5:22 p. m., fire fighters had extinguished burning trash and tarpaper piled with iron piping behind the fence which surrounds the $600,000 information center at Fourteenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest.

Information, specialty of Lowell Mellett's Office of Government Reports, which is scheduled to move into the structure soon, is still centered elsewhere, it developed. Charles H. Tompkins Co. men on the job were unable to tell firemen how the flames started.

Homegoing traffic was delayed briefly when eight pieces of firefighting equipment responded to the alarm.

Destroyer Ward Fired First Shots Of Pacific War

Honolulu, April 7 (U.P.).—The Navy revealed today that the United States destroyer Ward, built in 1918, fired the first two shots of the Pacific war on December 7 against a Japanese submarine trying to enter Pearl Harbor more than an hour before the first Niponese bomb fell on the island of Oahu.

One of the shots, which slowed down the midget submarine in Pearl Harbor's channel entrance, was fired by the destroyer's No. 3 gun which now bears a plaque on which are inscribed the names of its crew. The second shot scored a direct hit.

The destroyer's commanding officer, Lieut. Comdr. W. W. Outerbridge, has been awarded the Navy Cross.

(The Roberts report on the Pearl Harbor attack mentioned that an American destroyer sank a Japanese submarine before the aerial bombardment but the ship's name never was revealed.)

Fenwick Aloof In Incorporation For Arlington

Charles R. Fenwick, delegate to the State Legislature from Arlington County, Va., told the county civic federation last night he would not take part in any campaign for incorporation of the county because "that is a matter for the people to decide."

Fenwick and State Senator William D. Medley were sponsors of a bill which will enable county residents to vote on whether they want to adopt a city form of government.

"My purpose in sponsoring the legislation was to give the people a chance to express themselves on the proposal," Delegate Fenwick said. He spoke at the civic group's monthly meeting in the Lyon Park Community House.

Malta Is Bombed In Heaviest Raid

Valletta, Malta, April 7 (AP).—Great concussions shook this fortress city tonight as mass attacks by German bombers increased in fury. The assault was probably the heaviest yet experienced by this much-bombed island stronghold.

Incomplete reports said antiaircraft gunners had shot down two bombers and two fighter planes during the day and it was confirmed that two bombers were destroyed last night.

Army Exhibits Portable Airport; Weighs 450 Tons

An Atlantic Seaboard Air Corps Field, April 7 (AP).—A lightweight, portable air field in the form of a metal "landing mat," which can be laid down in two days or less for emergency use, was exhibited today by the Army Engineer Corps and air forces.

It requires only a piece of flat land 3000 feet long and 150 feet wide with reasonably good terrain for "approach" purposes surrounding it. Unlike a mat known as the Marston Strip, which was tested during manuevers in North Carolina last fall, the new type consists only of a framework of bars and rods.

Part of it is being manufactured by a company which, heretofore, has made trays for electric refrigerators. It weighs only 1.9 pounds a square foot or 450 tons for the etnire strip.

An advantage of the new type is that grass, growing up between the bars and rods, can screen it against enemy observation and photographic planes a few weeks after it has been laid. The mat is designed primarily for observation, light attack and pursuit ships.

Film Company Extortioner Gets 8-Year Sentence

New York, April 7 (AP).—Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean, Chicago nightclub and gambling-house operator, and described by prosecutors as "deputy collector" for William Bioff, convicted West Coast racketeer, was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 by Federal Judge Henry Goddard today following his plea of guilty to a conspiracy to extort more than one million dollars from major motion picture producers.

Characterized by United States Attorney Mathias Correa as a "typical Chicago gangster," Dean last month pleaded guilty to an indictment naming him and Louis Kaufman, business agent of the Newark, N. J., local of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes (A. F. L.) as defendants, and Bioff and George E. Browne, former president of the I. A. T. S. E., as coconspirators.

The indictment alleged a scheme to force motion picture producers to pay huge tribute under threats to call a Nation-wide strike of projection machine operators.

Bioff earlier was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and Browne to eight years.

All Norwegian Ministers Quit Pulpits in Protest

By International News Service

Stockholm, April 7.—An international crisis developed in Norway tonight due to the mass resignations of all Norwegian clergymen from their pulpits. This move was described by the Nazi-sponsored Vidkun Quisling regime as "tantamount to an act of insurrection and an act of war."

The churchmen resigned in protest against Quisling's church policy, particularly a decree ordering education of children removed from the jurisdiction of the church and placed under that of the state.

(The London radio in a broadcast heard by C. B. S. said 1100 Norwegian clergymen had resigned.)

Hotel Union Head Elected Trustee of C. L. U.

Ernest P. Spangler, head of Hotel Employes Union, No. 781, A. F. of L., has been assured election as a trustee of the Central Labor Union, it was learned yesterday. He has been nominated for the post without opposition.

An election to confirm the nomination will be held April 20. At the same time, the C. L. U. will choose two delegates to the Maryland-District Federation of Labor meeting scheduled for May 18 in Hagerstown, Md. Frank W. Lee, Charles Andre and D. C. Dow have been nominated.

Albert C. Hayden, retired president of Musicians Union, No. 161, who has been a delegate to the C. L. U. for more than 40 years, drew a round of applause at the union's Monday night meeting when he appeared there for the first time in three years.

Col. George Takes Over Plane Ferry

Assignment of Col. Harold L. George, a native of Somerville, Mass., to succeed Brig. Gen. Robert Olds in command of the Army Air Force's ferry command was announced yesterday by the War Department.

George, formerly a member of the war plans division of the air staff, already has taken over the command, freeing Olds for transfer to a new assignment of an undisclosed nature.

The ferry command, organized ten months ago with Olds in charge, is responsible for delivery of war planes from factories to Army bases and foreign nations allied with the United States.

Farm Credit Scheduled To Start Moving May 15

Farm Credit is slated to start moving to Kansas City on May 15. The move is not expected to be completed before June 1 or the 15th . . . E. R. Ballinger will be appointed personnel director of General Accounting Office. He was formerly personnel chief at Treasury and more recently administrative assistant at Quartermaster General Corps . . . Thomas McNamara, former personnel director, will transfer to the Civil Service Commission . . . Government cafeterias are now rationing napkins to save paper. You get one flimsy napkin when you pay your check and that is all. No more helping yourself to a handful.

Moe Berg, the professor of baseball and languages, is undergoing training at the Rockefeller agency on Inter-American Affairs before being sent to South America on a goodwill mission. He is a former catcher on the Washington baseball club . . . Treasury has ordered its supervisors to compute efficiency ratings on the same basis as last year. The department attitude is that a general lowering of efficiency ratings would be damaging to morale, particularly in those cases where the efficiency of the employes has not changed.

Council of Personnel Administration is working on a uniform application blank that soon will be adopted by the Civil Service Commission and all other Federal agencies. Job hunters will not be compelled to fill out a score of different blanks at a score of different agencies once the uniform blank is adopted. And, incidentally, tons of paper will be saved . . . Alfred Hitchcock, the ace British movie director, has been advising the Office of Facts and Figures on public reactions and psychology

Maritime Commission is still looking for space in Baltimore for a regional office . . . Mrs. Roosevelt has not yet requested the Agriculture Department for a test of White House soil . . . Carey Cruikshank, chief of Fish and Wildlife service and training division, has transferred to OEM, where he will be assigned to fiscal work. Oscar Johnson Scott has been appointed special representative of Commodity Credit in charge of cotton . . . War Production Board is planning to build up a large compliance section of its own instead of using investigators from other Federal agencies. Incidentally, the compliance division would be highly decentralized.

The three Interior agencies —National Park Service, Fish and Wildlife Service and Bureau of Indian Affairs—will not move to Chicago before July 1, according to present plans. No building has yet been selected. It is reported the Government may buy the Drake building there. There is still some hope that the Division of Fisheries Industries will not be transferred, but the hope is slim. Interior officials are trying to promote a war fisheries board to coordinate the fish food industry for the duration and if the board is set up it's presumed the division would be a part of it.

Funds to set up an Army Specialist Corps were recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee but the House committee is opposed to the quasi-military organization. The matter will be worked out in a conference. The House also refused to make an appropriation for the proposed Women's Auxiliary Army Corps until after the Senate acts on the House-approved Rogers bill, which would set up the organization. Both organizations probably will be established.

However, some fears have been expressed over possible conflicts between WAAC and Civil Service employes. It is not clear but apparently some members of the women's uniformed army would be placed in clerical and other jobs now held by Civil Service employes. During World War I the Navy set up an organization of women, known as the Yeomanettes, which definitely conflicted with Civil Service, according to Navy officials. If WAAC is set up, it would be good job insurance for Government girls to join it. After the war they would be returned to their civilian jobs by law.

First Aider Needs Aid

Better Care Sought for Mentally Ill

Legislation Needed To Enable District To Board Out Cases; Savings Forecast

Special legislation will be required to put into effect the sweping modernization of the care of the District's mentally ill, which is expected to save the District a half-million dollars annually, as well as to bring its psychiatric methods more into line with progressive movements of other States, it was announced yesterday.

The principal change, which the Commissioners approved yesterday, is to board out old-age cases, for which the District now has to pay $1.80 a day per capita for care at St. Elizabeths Hospital. This move will require Congressional action which the Commissioners hope to effect before July 1.

In his recommendation to the Board of Commissioners, Budget Officer Walter Fowler declared that not only would this move cut down District expenses, but it would also have a therapeutic advantage, since many mental cases readjust themselves more quickly in a normal home environment than in that of an institution.

It was also recommended that a wing for patients with mental illness attributed to old age be erected at Gallinger Hospital. For this purpose Commissioner Young hopes to be able to use some of the 20 million dollars due the District under the Lanham Act.

A further saving for the District is expected from collections for the care of patients whose families or estates are able to pay for their care.

Fowler's report revealed that not only does the District pay more for the care of its patients, but it has more mentally ill persons per unit of population than any municipality in the country. The average here is 618 cases per 100,000, as against a national figure of 282.9 per 100,000.

There are more than 4200 patients in District care at St. Elizabeths, for whose maintenance some three million dollars is paid annually. About 500 of those could be boarded out, Fowler estimates. This would save $171,600, he believes. If 100 others were hospitalized at Gallinger, $200,000 more could be saved and $50,000 could be collected for the care of solvent patients.

Deportation of nonresident cases to their home States would save $65,000 more, he said.

Envoy's Wife

Mrs. Evatt Backs A. E. F. Marriages

Romances, culminating in marriage between American doughboys and Australian girls, were approved yesterday by Mrs. Herbert Evatt, wife of the Australian minister of external affairs.

MRS. EVATT

Speaking to reporters at her first press conference since arriving in this country, Mrs. Evatt said:

"I see no reason why the A. E. F. lads should not marry our girls. Americans and Australians have a great deal in common, including the way of life which we are both fighting to preserve."

Mrs. Evatt, who was born in Ottumwa, Iowa, drew a parallel from her own life. "After all," she said, smiling, "I am American-born."

Mrs. Evatt's discourse on romance between American soldiers and Australian girls was prompted by a reporter who said he had heard a radio broadcast urging Australian girls "to be nice to our boys, but don't marry all of 'em."

"Australians," she said, "already think much along the same lines as Americans. I'm sure that our boys coming over here would be as attracted to your girls as your boys are to our girls."

Filipinos Eligible For Flying Cadets

Filipinos in the United States have been made eligible by Secretary of War Stimson for enrollment as flying cadets in the Army Air Force.

"I have directed that the existing provision of Air Force regulations in connection with citizenship of aviation cadets be waived insofar as it pertains to Filipinos," Stimson yesterday wrote Joaquin M. Elizalde, Philippine resident commissioner in Washington.

Thousands File District Tax Returns

500 Persons Daily Receive Assistance From City Aides in Filling Out Returns

With deadline for payment of District income taxes only a week off, 500 persons a day are going to the District Building for help in filling out the returns, Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent announced last night.

Already between eight and ten thousand of the 115,000 eligibles have sent in their returns, which are expected in increasing numbers during the next six days.

Thirteen employes of the Tax Department have set up desks in the first floor corridor of the District Building, where they help people at the rate of one a minute to fill out forms. During slack hours these clerks return to their regular desks to handle the mailed returns.

Dent estimated that $1,825,000 will be collected this year in personal tax, and $2,400,000 in corporation taxes.

All persons who were domiciled in the District January 31, 1941, are required to pay tax on their entire earned incomes, no matter where it was earned.

The only change in the tax procedure this year is that it is no longer necessary to have the forms notarized, Dent said.

The District personal income tax, much milder than the Federal, allows $1000 deduction for a single person, $2500 for a married one. The tax is estimated at 1 per cent on a net income below $5000, 1½ on incomes between $5000 and $10,000; 2 per cent between $10,000 and $15,000, 2½ per cent between $15,000 and $20,000, and 3 per cent on all incomes above $20,000.

Dent advised persons who want to come to the District Building for assistance in filing their returns to bring along copies of their Federal tax returns to help simplify the tax collection.

Women No Dumber Than Men About an Auto, Instructor Says

Women enrolled for defense motor corps training don't ask any dumber questions of their teachers than men garage customers do, declares Joseph F. Sullivan, who has trained approximately 45 members of the American Women's Voluntary Services to know what a camshaft is, how to stop a stuck horn, and what to do for a flat tire.

"Women ask why you do a thing, as well as how you do it," Sullivan declared yesterday, admitting the "why" often sent him scurrying to some of his books on automotive theory. Sullivan was a student at Henry Ford's Dearborn plant, has been with Parkway Motor Co. here for 13 years, and is training the ladies as a nonpaid volunteer.

Instead of resenting their wives' new information about what is wrong with the family automobile, husbands really like it, Sullivan believes. Men are asking him questions that make him think they may demand defense classes in automobile repairs for themselves before long.

He is convinced women mechanics could do lots of jobs around a garage in case of a manpower shortage, says more men mechanics would be willing to teach defense classes if it weren't for talking before women.

AWVS motor corps girls do not attempt to take motors down and put them together again. But they do learn what makes the motor turn over, how the power is transmitted to the wheels, and where to look for trouble generally, he said.

Day-Care Nursery Planned for D. C.

Voluntary contributions received through the Washington Committee of the Save the Children Federation will be used to set up the first day-care nursery in wartime Washington, it was announced by the committee yesterday.

Preliminary plans call for a staff of full-time trained personnel, as well as volunteer workers. The nursery will be kept open 12 hours per day and serve two or three meals to each child.

Children admitted to the proposed nursery would have to be between 2 and 5 years of age and have mothers engaged in war work.

Air Raid Posts Need Messengers

Additional messengers, either boys or girls, are needed at air-raid posts in the Dupont Circle Civilian Defense Area, Deputy Air-Raid Warden F. Moran McConihe announced yesterday. Volunteers between the ages of 14 and 21 may register at area headquarters, 1323 Eighteenth Street Northwest, any day except Sunday, from 1 to 6 p. m.

Schmerler Heads Brentwood Defense

Samuel Schmerler, 1289 Brentwood Road Northeast, yesterday became temporary chairman of the Brentwood Civilian Defense Area, replacing Herbert Yocum, who is moving from the neighborhood. Reba Gibson, 2341 Fourteenth Street Northeast, has been named chairman of the education committee for the area and will be in charge of the blood donor and salvage campaigns.

Sector Warden Post Open for Inspection

Residents of Sector D, Zone 2, Manor Park defense area, are invited to inspect the sector warden post in the basement of 428 Peabody Street Northwest between 7 and 9 p. m. today and tomorrow, Sector Warden W. H. Hargrave announced.

Model incendiary bombs and new air raid prevention equipment will be on display and will be explained by sector wardens on duty.

Find War Cause, Eliminate It Loudon Urges

Dr. A. Loudon, Netherlands Minister to the United States, last night urged that the postwar peace conferences get to the core of war causes rather than achieve superficial international settlements.

Dr. Loudon spoke at the Ohio State Society's final meeting of the season at the Shoreham Hotel. He indorsed the establishment of a new League of Nations with international police power.

The society elected the following officers:

Harold H. Burton, president; Fred C. Croxton, Jacob E. Davis and Mrs. Robert A. Taft, vice presidents; A. R. Williams, secretary-treasurer; S. J. Hess, historian; Dr. J. S. Montgomery, chaplain; Miss S. Irene Neilert and Dr. J. Frank Kendrick, governing committee.

New System Will Salvage Waste Paper

Much of the loose waste paper, which comprises almost 30 per cent of the trash collected from Federal buildings, will be salvaged instead of being fed to the incinerators under a wartime economy measure announced last night by the District Salvage Committee.

Horace Walker, executive secretary of the committee, said the Penn Paper and Stock firm, which has the contract to salvage waste material from Federal buildings, had agreed to collect loose paper as well as the sacked waste. It will take about three weeks to install the new collection system in all the buildings, but the economy move will be inaugurated today in the Navy Building, it was announced.

The Post called attention to the wasteful burning of loose paper in an article Saturday which told of a shed in the Navy Building stacked to the roof with paper and pasteboard awaiting delivery to an incinerator. Loose paper has not been salvaged heretofore because of the difficulty of collection, it was explained.

"The Salvage Committee feels that The Post deserves the credit for taking the initiative, bringing the waste paper to light and getting measures to salvage this paper," Walker said.

The monthly paper collection from Federal buildings now averages between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 pounds.

In addition to extending its collection service, the Penn Paper and Stock firm announced it would furnish the Public Buildings Administration with six macerators to tear up confidential documents now sent to the incinerator, so they may be salvaged.

Tired Soldiers

1000 Seek Beds in Vain On D. C. Visit

First reports of a survey taken last weekend tend to confirm estimates that at least 5000 service men are unable to find sleeping quarters on weekend visits to Washington, Hugo Wolter, director of Recreational Services, Inc., said yesterday.

A total of 1000 soldiers, sailors and marines were turned away from three lodging places alone, according to initial results of the survey, taken by the recreational and hospitality committee of the District Defense Council.

Wolter said he expected by the end of this week to receive reports on the number of men refused lodging at other places.

The complete committee report then will be submitted to the Federal Security Agency, which has agreed to provide necessary funds for additional facilities, it was said. is established by the A meanwhile

Recreational officials disclosed that the number of soldiers making use of Washington recreational facilities available at the War Dept. in Arlington, just across Memorial Bridge, had increased tremendously over last weekend from 10 to 1 on the previous weekend.

The lack of adequate transportation is blamed for the failure of service men to make fuller use of the visiting the Army-operated camp, which can accommodate about 400. Efforts are being made to provide some sort of all-night bus or special bus service to the camp.

Student, 16, Drowned

Williamsburg, Va., April 7 (AP).—Lee Edward James, 16, Negro schoolboy of Philadelphia, drowned in Coleman's Creek near Williamsburg yesterday afternoon. He was on a visit to a Negro religious settlement.

2 Councilmen Are Unseated In Alexandria

Two members of the Alexandria city council were upset in their bids for renomination, and two others were successful, according to unofficial votes tabulated last night at the close of the annual Democratic primary, regarded as tantamount to election in the traditionally Democratic Virginia community.

Both of the incumbent councilmen who lost out were unseated in three-cornered races. Ernest E. Mankin of the Third Ward, yielded to John J. Ewald, a Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railway clerk, and James Armstrong, Fifth Ward representative, lost to Maj. Everett A. Hellmuth, executive officer of the Eleventh Battalion, Virginia Protective Force.

Councilman John D. Matter, of the First Ward, won the party nomination in a close race with Julian Beach, and inclumbent George K. Bender was renominated over R. Samuel Luckett, former Democratic committee chairman.

There were no elections in the Second and Sixth Wards, where Councilmen Paul L. Delaney and Charles L. Burgess previously had been declared official party nominees in view of the fact that they were without primary opposition.

In the Third Ward, Ewald polled 183 votes, while James H. Lyles, Alexandria florist, drew 141, and the incumbent, Mankin, trailed the field with 116.

The Fifth Ward race saw Maj. Hellmuth win over Councilman Armstrong, 291 votes to 195, while Joseph H. Kretschmer, a third entry in the ward race, polled 97.

First—Councilman John D. Matter, 152, and Julian Beach, 110, and Fourth, Councilman George K. Bender, 276, and R. Samuel Luckett, 168.

Fire Almost Ends Mellett Madhouse Controversy

Mellett's Madhouse might have died a-burning yesterday afternoon and suspended the whole controversy over its merits but for the swift action of District firemen.

In less than five minutes after construction workers turned in an alarm at 5:22 p. m., fire fighters had extinguished burning trash and tarpaper piled with iron piping behind the fence which surrounds the $600,000 information center at Fourteenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest.

Information, specialty of Lowell Mellett's Office of Government Reports, which is scheduled to move into the structure soon, is still centered elsewhere, it developed. Charles H. Tompkins Co. men on the job were unable to tell firemen how the flames started.

Homegoing traffic was delayed briefly when eight pieces of fire-fighting equipment responded to the alarm.

Destroyer Ward Fired First Shots Of Pacific War

Honolulu, April 7 (U.P.).—The Navy revealed today that the United States destroyer Ward, built in 1918, fired the first two shots of the Pacific war on December 7 against a Japanese submarine trying to enter Pearl Harbor more than an hour before the first Niponese bomb fell on the island of Oahu.

One of the shots, which slowed down the midget submarine in Pearl Harbor's channel entrance, was fired by the destroyer's No. 3 gun which now bears a plaque on which are inscribed the names of its crew. The second shot scored a direct hit.

The destroyer's commanding officer, Lieut. Comdr. W. W. Outerbridge, has been awarded the Navy Cross.

(The Roberts report on the Pearl Harbor attack mentioned that an American destroyer sank a Japanese submarine before the aerial bombardment but the ship's name never was revealed.)

Fenwick Aloof In Incorporation For Arlington

Charles R. Fenwick, delegate to the State Legislature from Arlington County, Va., told the county civic federation last night he would not take part in any campaign for incorporation of the county because "that is a matter for the people to decide."

Fenwick and State Senator William D. Medley were sponsors of a bill which will enable county residents to vote on whether they want to adopt a city form of government.

"My purpose in sponsoring the legislation was to give the people a chance to express themselves on the proposal," Delegate Fenwick said. He spoke at the civic group's monthly meeting in the Lyon Park Community House.

Malta Is Bombed In Heaviest Raid

Valletta, Malta, April 7 (A.P.).—Great concussions shook this fortress city tonight as mass attacks by German bombers increased in fury. The assault was probably the heaviest yet experienced by this much-bombed island stronghold.

Incomplete reports said antiaircraft gunners had shot down two bombers and two fighter planes during the day and it was confirmed that two bombers were destroyed last night.

Army Exhibits Portable Airport; Weighs 450 Tons

An Atlantic Seaboard Air Corps Field, April 7 (A.P.).—A lightweight, portable air field in the form of a metal "landing mat," which can be laid down in two days or less for emergency use, was exhibited today by the Army Engineer Corps and air forces.

It requires only a piece of flat land 3000 feet long and 150 feet wide with reasonably good terrain for "approach" purposes surrounding it. Unlike a mat known as the Marston Strip, which was tested during manuevers in North Carolina last fall, the new type consists only of a framework of bars and rods.

Part of it is being manufactured by a company which, heretofore, has made trays for electric refrigerators. It weighs only 1.9 pounds a square foot or 450 tons for the etnire strip.

An advantage of the new type is that grass, growing up between the bars and rods, can screen it against enemy observation and photographic planes a few weeks after it has been laid. The mat is designed primarily for observation, light attack and pursuit ships.

Film Company Extortioner Gets 8-Year Sentence

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean, Chicago nightclub and gambling-house operator, and described by prosecutors as "deputy collector" for William Bioff, convicted West Coast racketeer, was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 by Federal Judge Henry Goddard today following his plea of guilty to a conspiracy to extort more than one million dollars from major motion picture producers.

Characterized by United States Attorney Mathias Correa as a "typical Chicago gangster," Dean last month pleaded guilty to an indictment naming him and Louis Kaufman, business agent of the Newark, N. J., local of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes (A. F. L.) as defendants, and Bioff and George E. Browne, former president of the I. A. T. S. E., as coconspirators.

The indictment alleged a scheme to force motion picture producers to pay huge tribute under threats to call a Nation-wide strike of projection machine operators.

Bioff earlier was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and Browne to eight years.

All Norwegian Ministers Quit Pulpits in Protest

By International News Service

Stockholm, April 7.—An international crisis developed in Norway tonight due to the mass resignations of all Norwegian clergymen from their pulpits. This move was described by the Nazi-sponsored Vidkun Quisling regime as "tantamount to an act of insurrection and an act of war."

The churchmen resigned in protest against Quisling's church policy, particularly a decree ordering education of children removed from the jurisdiction of the church and placed under that of the state.

(The London radio in a broadcast heard by C. B. S. said 1100 Norwegian clergymen had resigned.)

Hotel Union Head Elected Trustee of C. L. U.

Ernest P. Spangler, head of Hotel Employes Union, No. 781, A. F. of L., has been assured election as a trustee of the Central Labor Union, it was learned yesterday. He has been nominated for the post without opposition.

An election to confirm the nomination will be held April 20. At the same time, the C. L. U. will choose two delegates to the Maryland-District Federation of Labor meeting scheduled for May 18 in Hagerstown, Md. Frank W. Lee, Charles Andre and D. C. Dow have been nominated.

Albert C. Hayden, retired president of Musicians Union, No. 161, who has been a delegate to the C. L. U. for more than 40 years, drew a round of applause at the union's Monday night meeting when he appeared there for the first time in three years.

Col. George Takes Over Plane Ferry

Assignment of Col. Harold L. George, a native of Somerville, Mass., to succeed Brig. Gen. Robert Olds in command of the Army Air Force's ferry command was announced yesterday by the War Department.

George, formerly a member of the war plans division of the air staff, already has taken over the command, freeing Olds for transfer to a new assignment of an undisclosed nature.

The ferry command, organized ten months ago with Olds in charge, is responsible for delivery of war planes from factories to Army bases and foreign nations allied with the United States.

The department said its operations now are on a larger scale than the commercial air lines.

First Aider Needs Aid

An entirely new problem was posed yesterday for Patrolman Lyman King, first aid instructor for the Arlington auxiliary police force, when an auxiliary policeman called to inquire if the first aid lessons he had received could be applied in the delivery of a new-born calf. Patrolman King recommended a veterinarian.

After 100 Years

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—They had to wait 100 years, but at last women are going to be let in on the secrets of the U. S. Secret Service. Capt. Thomas Callahan, Chicago district chief, announced today he had hired two women as stenographers. The rule limiting personnel to men was relaxed. Callahan said he believed women could keep secrets.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Farm Credit Scheduled To Start Moving May 15

Farm Credit is slated to start moving to Kansas City on May 15. The move is not expected to be completed before June 1 or the 15th . . . E. R. Ballinger will be appointed personnel director of General Accounting Office. He was formerly personnel chief at Treasury and more recently administrative assistant at Quartermaster General Corps . . . Thomas McNamara, former personnel director, will transfer to the Civil Service Commission . . . Government cafeterias are now rationing napkins to save paper. You get one flimsy napkin when you pay your check and that is all. No more helping yourself to a handful.

Moe Berg, the professor of baseball and languages, is undergoing training at the Rockefeller agency on Inter-American Affairs before being sent to South America on a goodwill mission. He is a former catcher on the Washington baseball club . . . Treasury has ordered its supervisors to compute efficiency ratings on the same basis as last year. The department attitude is that a general lowering of efficiency ratings would be damaging to morale, particularly in those cases where the efficiency of the employes has not changed.

Council of Personnel Administration is working on a uniform application blank that soon will be adopted by the Civil Service Commission and all other Federal agencies. Job hunters will not be compelled to fill out a score of different blanks at a score of different agencies once the uniform blank is adopted. And, incidentally, tons of paper will be saved . . . Alfred Hitchcock, the ace British movie director, has been advising the Office of Facts and Figures on public reactions and psychology

Maritime Commission is still looking for space in Baltimore for a regional office . . . Mrs. Roosevelt has not yet requested the Agriculture Department for a test of White House soil . . . Carey Cruikshank, chief of Fish and Wildlife service and training division, has transferred to OEM, where he will be assigned to fiscal work. Oscar Johnson Scott has been appointed special representative of Commodity Credit in charge of cotton . . . War Production Board is planning to build up a large compliance section of its own instead of using investigators from other Federal agencies. Incidentally, the compliance division would be highly decentralized.

The three Interior agencies —National Park Service, Fish and Wildlife Service and Bureau of Indian Affairs—will not move to Chicago before July 1, according to present plans. No building has yet been selected. It is reported the Government may buy the Drake building there. There is still some hope that the Division of Fisheries Industries will not be transferred, but the hope is slim. Interior officials are trying to promote a war fisheries board to coordinate the fish food industry for the duration and if the board is set up it's presumed the division would be a part of it.

Funds to set up an Army Specialist Corps were recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee but the House committee is opposed to the quasi-military organization. The matter will be worked out in a conference. The House also refused to make an appropriation for the proposed Women's Auxiliary Army Corps until after the Senate acts on the House-approved Rogers bill, which would set up the organization. Both organizations probably will be established.

However, some fears have been expressed over possible conflicts between WAAC and Civil Service employes. It is not clear but apparently some members of the women's uniformed army would be placed in clerical and other jobs now held by Civil Service employes. During World War I the Navy set up an organization of women, known as the Yeomanettes, which definitely conflicted with Civil Service, according to Navy officials. If WAAC is set up, it would be good job insurance for Government girls to join it. After the war they would be returned to their civilian jobs by law.

Women No Dumber Than Men About an Auto, Instructor Says

Women enrolled for defense motor corps training don't ask any dumber questions of their teachers than men garage customers do, declares Joseph F. Sullivan, who has trained approximately 45 members of the American Women's Voluntary Services to know what a camshaft is, how to stop a stuck horn, and what to do for a flat tire.

"Women ask why you do a thing, as well as how you do it," Sullivan declared yesterday, admitting the "why" often sent him scurrying to some of his books on automotive theory. Sullivan was a student at Henry Ford's Dearborn plant, has been with Parkway Motor Co. here for 13 years, and is training the ladies as a nonpaid volunteer.

Instead of resenting their wives' new information about what is wrong with the family automobile, husbands really like it, Sullivan believes. Men are asking him questions that make him think they may demand defense classes in automobile repairs for themselves before long.

He is convinced women mechanics could do lots of jobs around a garage in case of a manpower shortage, says more men mechanics would be willing to teach defense classes if it weren't for talking before women.

AWVS motor corps girls do not attempt to take motors down and put them together again. But they do learn what makes the motor turn over, how the power is transmitted to the wheels, and where to look for trouble generally, he said.

Day-Care Nursery Planned for D. C.

Voluntary contributions received through the Washington Committee of the Save the Children Federation will be used to set up the first day-care nursery in wartime Washington, it was announced by the committee yesterday.

Preliminary plans call for a staff of full-time trained personnel, as well as volunteer workers. The nursery will be kept open 12 hours per day and serve two or three meals to each child.

Children admitted to the proposed nursery would have to be between 2 and 5 years of age and have mothers engaged in war work.

Air Raid Posts Need Messengers

Additional messengers, either boys or girls, are needed at air-raid posts in the Dupont Circle Civilian Defense Area, Deputy Air-Raid Warden F. Moran McConihe announced yesterday. Volunteers between the ages of 14 and 21 may register at area headquarters, 1323 Eighteenth Street Northwest, any day except Sunday, from 1 to 6 p. m.

Schmerler Heads Brentwood Defense

Samuel Schmerler, 1289 Brentwood Road Northeast, yesterday became temporary chairman of the Brentwood Civilian Defense Area, replacing Herbert Yocum, who is moving from the neighborhood. Reba Gibson, 2341 Fourteenth Street Northeast, has been named chairman of the education committee for the area and will be in charge of the blood donor and salvage campaigns.

Sector Warden Post Open for Inspection

Residents of Sector D, Zone 2, Manor Park defense area, are invited to inspect the sector warden post in the basement of 428 Peabody Street Northwest between 7 and 9 p. m. today and tomorrow, Sector Warden W. H. Hargrave announced.

Model incendiary bombs and new air raid prevention equipment will be on display and will be explained by sector wardens on duty.

New System Will Salvage Waste Paper

Much of the loose waste paper, which comprises almost 30 per cent of the trash collected from Federal buildings, will be salvaged instead of being fed to the incinerators under a wartime economy measure announced last night by the District Salvage Committee.

Horace Walker, executive secretary of the committee, said the Penn Paper and Stock firm, which has the contract to salvage waste material from Federal buildings, had agreed to collect loose paper as well as the sacked waste. It will take about three weeks to install the new collection system in all the buildings, but the economy move will be inaugurated today in the Navy Building, it was announced.

The Post called attention to the wasteful burning of loose paper in an article Saturday which told of a shed in the Navy Building stacked to the roof with paper and pasteboard awaiting delivery to an incinerator. Loose paper has not been salvaged heretofore because of the difficulty of collection, it was explained.

"The Salvage Committee feels that The Post deserves the credit for taking the initiative, bringing the waste paper to light and getting measures to salvage this paper," Walker said.

The monthly paper collection from Federal buildings now averages between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 pounds.

In addition to extending its collection service, the Penn Paper and Stock firm announced it would furnish the Public Buildings Administration with six macerators to tear up confidential documents now sent to the incinerator, so they may be salvaged.

Tired Soldiers

1000 Seek Beds in Vain On D. C. Visit

First reports of a survey taken last weekend tend to confirm estimates that at least 5000 service men are unable to find sleeping quarters on weekend visits to Washington, Hugo Wolter, director of Recreational Services, Inc., said yesterday.

A total of 1000 soldiers, sailors and marines were turned away from three lodging places alone, according to initial results of the survey, taken by the recreational and hospitality committee of the District Defense Council.

Wolter said he expected by the end of this week to receive reports on the number of men refused lodging at other places.

The complete committee report then will be submitted to the Federal Security Agency, which has agreed to provide necessary funds for additional facilities if the need is established by the canvass.

Recreational officials meanwhile disclosed that the number of soldiers making use of lodging available at the Washington recreational leave area camp in Arlington, just across Memorial Bridge, had increased to 126 last weekend from 10 on the previous weekend.

The lack of adequate transportation is blamed for the failure of visiting service men to make fuller use of the Army-operated camp, which can accommodate about 400. Efforts are being made to provide some sort of all-night bus or special cab service to the camp.

Better Care Sought for Mentally Ill

Legislation Needed To Enable District To Board Out Cases; Savings Forecast

Special legislation will be required to put into effect the sweping modernization of the care of the District's mentally ill, which is expected to save the District a half-million dollars annually, as well as to bring its psychiatric methods more into line with progressive movements of other States, it was announced yesterday.

The principal change, which the Commissioners approved yesterday, is to board out old-age cases, for which the District now has to pay $1.80 a day per capita for care at St. Elizabeths Hospital. This move will require Congressional action which the Commissioners hope to effect before July 1.

In his recommendation to the Board of Commissioners, Budget Officer Walter Fowler declared that not only would this move cut down District expenses, but it would also have a therapeutic advantage, since many mental cases readjust themselves more quickly in a normal home environment than in that of an institution.

It was also recommended that a wing for patients with mental illness attributed to old age be erected at Gallinger Hospital. For this purpose Commissioner Young hopes to be able to use some of the 20 million dollars due the District under the Lanham Act.

A further saving for the District is expected from collections for the care of patients whose families or estates are able to pay for their care.

Fowler's report revealed that not only does the District pay more for the care of its patients, but it has more mentally ill persons per unit of population than any municipality in the country. The average here is 618 cases per 100,000, as against a national figure of 282.9 per 100,000.

There are more than 4200 patients in District care at St. Elizabeths, for whose maintenance some three million dollars is paid annually. About 500 of those could be boarded out, Fowler estimates. This would save $171,600, he believes. If 100 others were hospitalized at Gallinger, $200,000 more could be saved and $50,000 could be collected for the care of solvent patients.

Deportation of nonresident cases to their home States would save $65,000 more, he said.

Find War Cause, Eliminate It Loudon Urges

Dr. A. Loudon, Netherlands Minister to the United States, last night urged that the postwar peace conferences get to the core of war causes rather than achieve superficial international settlements.

Dr. Loudon spoke at the Ohio State Society's final meeting of the season at the Shoreham Hotel. He indorsed the establishment of a new League of Nations with international police power.

The society elected the following officers:

Envoy's Wife

Mrs. Evatt Backs A. E. F. Marriages

Romances, culminating in marriage between American doughboys and Australian girls, were approved yesterday by Mrs. Herbert Evatt, wife of the Australian minister of external affairs.

MRS. EVATT

Speaking to reporters at her first press conference since arriving in this country, Mrs. Evatt said:

"I see no reason why the A. E. F. lads should not marry our girls. Americans and Australians have a great deal in common, including the way of life which we are both fighting to preserve."

Mrs. Evatt, who was born in Ottumwa, Iowa, drew a parallel from her own life. "After all," she said, smiling, "I am American-born."

Mrs. Evatt's discourse on romance between American soldiers and Australian girls was prompted by a reporter who said he had heard a radio broadcast urging Australian girls "to be nice to our boys, but don't marry all of 'em."

"Australians," she said, "already think much along the same lines as Americans. I'm sure that our boys coming over here would be as attracted to your girls as your boys are to our girls."

Filipinos Eligible For Flying Cadets

Filipinos in the United States have been made eligible by Secretary of War Stimson for enrollment as flying cadets in the Army Air Force.

"I have directed that the existing provision of Air Force regulations in connection with citizenship of aviation cadets be waived insofar as it pertains to Filipinos," Stimson yesterday wrote Joaquin M. Elizalde, Philippine resident commissioner in Washington.

Thousands File District Tax Returns

500 Persons Daily Receive Assistance From City Aides in Filling Out Returns

With deadline for payment of District income taxes only a week off, 500 persons a day are going to the District Building for help in filling out the returns, Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent announced last night.

Already between eight and ten thousand of the 115,000 eligibles have sent in their returns, which are expected in increasing numbers during the next six days.

Thirteen employes of the Tax Department have set up desks in the first floor corridor of the District Building, where they help people at the rate of one a minute to fill out forms. During slack hours these clerks return to their regular desks to handle the mailed returns.

Dent estimated that $1,825,000 will be collected this year in personal tax, and $2,400,000 in corporation taxes.

All persons who were domiciled in the District January 31, 1941, are required to pay tax on their entire earned incomes, no matter where it was earned.

The only change in the tax procedure this year is that it is no longer necessary to have the forms notarized, Dent said.

The District personal income tax, much milder than the Federal, allows $1000 deduction for a single person, $2500 for a married one. The tax is estimated at 1 per cent on a net income below $5000, 1½ on incomes between $5000 and $10,000; 2 per cent between $10,000 and $15,000, 2½ per cent between $15,000 and $20,000, and 3 per cent on all incomes above $20,000.

Dent advised persons who want to come to the District Building for assistance in filing their returns to bring along copies of their Federal tax returns to help simplify the tax collection.

GOLFDOM'S SPOTLIGHT ON AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., April 7.—Under an alias, they're staging the National Open Golf tournament here this week. The U. S. G. A., in a burst of patriotism, called off the National Open after Pearl Harbor, but all they were doing was cancelling a name. They didn't disturb Augusta's Ninth Annual Masters Tournament which has everything a National Open could offer, plus a fancier setting.

The fellow who wins the Masters will have won the top prize of golf in 1942, a title synonymous with the Open. Save for Vic Ghezzi and Ed Oliver, who were called by Uncle Sam, all of golf's big shots are in Augusta this week. And the $1500 first money the Masters offers tops even the cash prize of the Open.

For most of a week now the top flight pros have been testing their game on the deluxe Augusta National Country Club course and like the golf pros evermore they're grim about it. This is the week they can come into that big dough in the form of endorsements, manufacturer's tie-ups and other honorariums.

The Augusta course is a golf links apart, probably the Nation's most perfect layout with its par of 36-36—72. The pros agree that "it's tough, but fair." Folks pay big money just to be members of the Augusta National Country Club. The membership hails from 26 States. The club is closed in the summer time. The heavy-dough duffers from the North who comprise most of the membership pay for the privileges of rubbing elbows with the big shot stars the course attracts.

Bobby Jones is here. He comes out of competitive retirement annually to play in the Masters. He can't win it because at 40 and a bit paunchy, he no longer has the right approach to big-time golf. He was talking about that today.

Jones Explains His Present Golf

"I've got most of the shots I always had," said Jones, "because I play as much golf as I ever did, but not competitively. I can't put my good shots together because I find it hard now to concentrate on the game. I've found out that there are more important things in life than golf, I guess. When I was winning tournaments, I used to live the game. But you can't shoot golf and be thinking about other things, such as your business and the war. Golf has to be almost your only interest if you want to stay in the top flight."

What is Jones' reaction to his failure to score as well as he used to?

"That's easy to answer," he said. "I'm only human. When I don't lay that ball up there like I used to, I get more than exasperated. I get mad as hell. Then I forgive myself and feel better."

The crowds will be following Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Sammy Snead when the tournament gets under way, but Jones will have a sentimental gallery. That's more than the one-time great Walter Hagen and Chick Evans had two years ago when they were completely ignored by tournament fans who were following a foursome of Ralph Guldahl, Snead, Hogan and Nelson.

On the eighth hole Hagan turned to Evans and said, "Well, I guess we're passe as gallery attractions, but it has its compensations just the same." Whereupon he walked over to a tree, took off all his clothes and stripped himself of his underwear. "That stuff was too tight and was hurting me every time I took a swing," said Hagen.

"If I was still a big-shot champion, I'd have had to suffer that torture for ten more holes. This is wonderful."

Hogan, Nelson and Snead Favored

It will be a surprise to the 40-odd pros in this year's tournament if the winner does not turn up among Hogan, Nelson and Snead. The yearly pre-tournament poll taken among the pros by club officials bracketed that trio at the top. The pros rarely miss in their predictions. Last year their pre-tournament consensus choice was Craig Wood. He won it, never being headed at any time during the three-day competition.

The Masters was the locale of the most thrilling golf finish of all time in 1935, you remember. That was the year when Craig Wood was in the clubhouse, at the end of his last round, posing for photographers and ready to accept the $1500 first-money check when a small radio blared that "Gene Sarazen has just sunk a 220-yard spoon shot on No. 15 for a double eagle two on the par-five hole."

The miracle shot by Sarazen wiped out the three-stroke advantage Wood had held at the same point, and Sarazen parred the last three holes to tie Wood for the title. He won in a 36-hole play-off the next day.

Bobby Jones was talking about that Sarazen finish. "To me, Sarazen's last three pars were just as thrilling as his double eagle deuce. Another fellow might have had a relapse after an experience like that and taken a couple of sixes on the last few holes, but not Sarazen. On that last hole, needing his par four, he was wonderful to watch. He missed the green with his second shot and had to chip on. He didn't give himself time to get nervous or unsteady. He walked up and hit that chip without stopping, and he canned his putt almost before that chip shot had stopped rolling. It was whirlwind stuff."

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

FRICK'S 'GAG' RULE IS O. K.

New York, April 7.—Switching suddenly from his stirring campaign to eradicate humor from baseball writing, Ford Frick, president of the National League, has put through a league rule which promises to send at least a couple of managers to the nut hatch.

CONSIDINE

For the duration of the national emergency, it will be against National League regulations for a manager, coach or player to catapult out of his dugout, rush on the field and raise cain with the umpire. To speed up the game, they will not be permitted to interrupt the contest to get in their list of sour reflections on the eyesight and brains of the arbiter. Verily, the revolution has come.

The indignant managers, coaches and players may advance profanely as far as the white line which indicates the beginning of the infield. But beyond that, no. Before a week of the impending season has passed, we expect to see Leo Durocher and Frank Frisch fall prostrate on the baseline in a mad fit of frustration, while trying to argue about a decision at long range.

What Frick is doing, aside from promoting within Durocher and Frisch a blood pressure and unspent nervous energy strong enough to light up Broadway from Times Square to Columbus Circle, is putting old Bill Klem's famous "line" into broader operation. Forty years ago, old Bill, for some reason which he was never able thereafter to explain, stopped the charge of a big tormentor by suddenly drawing a line in front of him, with Bill's spiked shoes, and shouting, "Take one step over that line and yerrout of the game."

Real Managers Don't Squabble

The flabbergasted bum didn't know what to say or do, and in that instant of indecision, he heard Bill roar, "Now get back to your position." The bloke trotted back to centerfield, still wondering why he had neglected to kill Klem. And that night John L. Sullivan, himself, who happened to witness the game, slapped Klem on the back and complimented him on his daring maneuver. Klem was still drawing the line last October when he umpired the final game of his noble career. He dammed up a lot of raucous men in his day.

Frick's rule is a good one, we think, and the men it will affect most have long needed a harness or gag of this nature. Durocher especially is a mob-inciter. There seems to be a mistaken opinion that the fans demand a fiery umpire-baiting manager, to put some "fight" into his ball club and defend its rights. That's a ridiculous throwback to the bully-boy antiquity of the game. We don't recall having seen many demands for the dismissal of Joe McMarthy and Connie Mack, for not bursting out of the dugout on every silly pretense. McCarthy and Mack are pale as sheets all season—so rarely do they expose themselves.

Will Harridge ought to do something like this in the American League. The men it would most affect there are Joe Cronin and Jimmy Dykes, but we suspect that each would be smart enough to burn up all of his unconstitutional vehemence in some more constructive manner. So, we hope, will Durocher and Frisch.

Another Silly Practice Eliminated

Another Frick rule which is going into effect is the extermination of the old round-table discussion at the pitcher's box. This reached its depth under Bill Terry. The enemy makes a couple of hits off the pitcher, at a critical moment, and the infielders, coaches and manager congregate around the seaty artist like speculative student-internes around a new criss-cross appendectomy. There is much muted talk all around, punctuated by spitting, while the crowd squirms restlessly. Out in the bullpen, the sleepy batterymen open another notch or two in their warming up endeavors. The manager peers sharply out toward the distant pen. The pitcher who has been working the game stands there with head down, pounding the ball into his glove and pawing at the earth. Sample dialogue:

Manager: How you feel?
Pitcher: I feel okay.
Manager (to catcher): How's his stuff?
Catcher: He's got his stuff.
Manager: You tired?
Pitcher: I feel okay.

At this point the manager, carried away by the Noel Coward brilliance of the patter, invariably beckons to the bullpen and brings on a new guy. His mind was made up before he went out there. Mostly he wanted to give the new pitcher a little more chance to warm up. Frick's rule will stop this stalling.

Frick may justly take a bow for these two innovations. Once the rules are in operation, and running smoothly, Ford can then return to his great uplifting crusade against humor in baseball reporting, the happy completion of which would make every baseball writer as dull and as Pollyannish as good old Ford himself was.

Fielder Hits Fence Trying For Triple

7500 See Bombers Unloose an 18-Hit Barrage at Norfolk; Priddy Slaps Homer

By the Associated Press

Norfolk, Va., April 7.—The New York Yankees squared the spring series with the Brooklyn Dodgers today by defeating their opponents in last fall's world classic, 15 to 4, before approximately 7500 fans.

Not only did the National League champions lose the ball game but in the sixth frame Pete Reiser, their star sophomore center fielder, was injured as he crashed into the fence while making a futile effort to catch Charlie Keller's triple.

Keller's triple was only one of the 18 hits collected off Fred Fitzsimmons and Chet Kehn. Fitzsimmons toiled the first four frames and was touched for 10 runs.

Included in the Yankee barrage were a homer by Gerry Priddy, a triple by Tommy Henrich and five doubles. Bill Dickey got a pair of the two-base knocks and Keller also had three singles, plus the triple.

Despite their heavy firing the winners' five runs in the sixth were manufactured with only two hits. Brooklyn made five errors in the contest.

Cards Blank Tigers

Durham, N. C., April 7 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals today defeated the Detroit Tigers, 6 to 0, for the sixth time in seven starts, and this time the hustling National Leaguers produced victory on a single pitch.

Frank (Creepy) Crespi, Cardinal second sacker, blasted Paul (Dizzy) Trout's first pitch for an inside-the-park home run, and that was ample working margin for Southpaw Ernie White, and Johnny Beazley, rookie right-hander, who together limited Detroit to six hits.

The Tigers threatened to score only in the first inning when Roger Cramer and Barney McCosky hit successive singles but White got Rudy York on strikes and McCosky was nailed in a double play.

Browns Win, 7-6

Anderson, S. C., April 7 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns defeated Atlanta, of the Southern Association, 7 to 6, in an exhibition game featured by three home runs here today, but the minor leaguers gave them a pretty rough afternoon.

Two homers, by Brown with one on in the seventh and Glock in the ninth, kept the Crackers in cracking distance and as it turned out only George McQuinn's circuit clout in the ninth for St. Louis kept the game from going into extra innings.

Both Atlanta homers were off Elden Auker, who relieved Bob Harris in the sixth, with the Browns leading, 6 to 3.

Giants Honor McGraw

By the Associated Press

Oklahoma City, April 7.—With their game against the Cleveland Indians canceled because of weather conditions today, the New York Giants honored the memory of John J. McGraw on the anniversary of his birth with a barbecue.

Manager Mel Ott, one of the last stars developed by McGraw, said he wasn't too perturbed about the present club despite its poor record in spring games because of recent batting outbursts by Johnny Mize and Hank Leiber.

Carl Hubbell, who was to have pitched before the home folks, was toastmaster at the barbecue.

Braves Top Airmen

Jacksonville, Fla., April 7 (AP).—After being warned by Manager Casey Stengel that they must "win this one or stay here and enlist," the Boston Braves made every one of their half-dozen hits count today to defeat the United States Naval Air Station team, 6-1.

Most of the Braves' runs resulted from the passes issued by Anso Belardinelli, former University of Vermont pitching star, who went the distance for the student fliers. Others in the line-up to face the Braves were Bostonians Joe Walsh, who had a tryout with the Red Sox; Bob Leahy, late of Boston University; Joe Jayne, formerly of Dartmouth, and Tom Gulinello, a recent schoolboy star.

Bucky Walters went the distance for the victors and held the American Leaguers to nine hits.

Manager Joe Cronin hade his first Boston run in the fifth inning. He hit safely and, after Ted Williams was passed, scored from second on Cookie Lupien's single.

Miss. to Hold College Sports If People Come

By the Associated Press

Jackson, Miss., April 7.—Intercollegiate sports competition by Mississippi's public colleges will depend entirely on the fans' support of the fall football program, a committee of the State college board decided today.

A proposal that competitive sports be abandoned immediately for the duration of the war was shelved by the investigating committee in favor of a new policy making all athletic expenditures, including practically the whole fund for coaching salaries, depend entirely on gate receipts.

State Senator Means Johnston, who several weeks ago proposed the wartime abandonment, said today the coaches had agreed to the arrangement, with the additional provisions that a compulsory athletic program for all students be instituted and that in the event of curtailment because of failing revenue, salaries would be the first item cut.

State Not Responsible

Board members explained that under the new policy the State would guarantee no athletic expenditures out of general educational funds except that portion of the head coach's salary at each institution representing compensation as professor of physical education.

In the past coaches and their assistants have been paid faculty salaries out of educational funds and additional sums out of gate receipts.

The committee's action is not final until ratified by the full board, but it seemed certain that this body, due to meet in the latter part of the month, would support the decision of the group.

Virginia Shells Terp Pitchers to Win, 16-5

Total of 34 Players See Action as Maryland Drops Sixth Straight; Pitcher Cave Stars

Special Dispatch to The Post

Charlottesville, Va., April 7.—Virginia's nine collected 16 hits off of four Old Line twirlers here today to turn back Maryland, 16 to 5, in a slow contest. Thirty-four players saw action. It was Maryland's sixth straight loss.

Alex Cave on the mound for Virginia, for eight innings, held his opponents to only three hits and one run. His successor, Campbell, was pounded freely. A single, double and circuit smash, by Whitt, netted four runs for Maryland in the final frame.

The Cavaliers registered 11 runs off Bob Smith, Maryland's big right-hander. Five of these came in the third inning, featured by a home run by Merritt, with two on.

Four additional runs were scored in the fourth frame on successive hits by Flechter, Patton and Merritt, and Farquhar's long fly to deep left-field.

Whoopengard, Maryland's second twirler, was soon forced to give way to Crist, who was touched for six hits. Webster, who twirled for Maryland in the eighth inning, was unscathed.

Staunton Boy Wins No-Hit Shutout, 6-0

Special Dispatch to The Post

Staunton, Va., April 7.—Capt. Bob Savage, sensational Staunton Military Academy pitcher, yesterday achieved the goal of all pitchers, when he blanked University of Virginia freshmen without a hit, to turn back the Yearlings, 6-0. Savage permitted nothing resembling a safety and set down 19 via the strikeout route. Four Cavaliers reached base by walks and two by obvious errors. All died on first.

Staunton jumped into a three-run lead in the first inning and added single runs in the second, sixth and eighth. Muse, with four safeties and four runs batted in, paced Cadet eleven-hit attack. Warren, Virginia centerfielder, cut off more S. M. A. runs with clever catches in centerfield.

Guldahl Good Hunch Bet In Masters at Augusta

Snead, Nelson, Picard And Dudley Liked; Notes on Past Play

Oldest player invited to the tournament this year is H. J. Whigham, national amateur champion in 1896 and '97 . . . Findlay S. Douglas, the '98 amateur champion is among the invitees as is Aleck Ross, the 1907 Open Champion.

Charley Yates is the only player qualifying as a former British Amateur champion . . . Ed Dudley, the home pro, is probably the most overlooked player to outsiders. Big Ed, the National P. G. A. president, has finished in the money every year, and only twice has been out of the first ten . . . Sammy Byrd, the ex-ball player whose Greensboro Open triumph was his first major golf victory, almost won the Masters last year. . .

Fred McLeod, Washington's only eligible player, by virtue of his 1908 National Open triumph, will pass up the event for the third straight year. Of the field of 88 which qualifies under the 13 varied conditions, less than 50 are expected, but they will be the best . . . Horton Smith is the only two-time winner over one of the world's finest golf courses, which Bobby Jones had a hand in designing. Jones' only finish in the first 25 was in 1934 when he pulled up fourteenth.

This department likes Ralph Guldahl as a hunch favorite . . . Big Ralph, who has been having a tough time on the winter circuit, apparently found his game at Asheville with a 283 score. That undoubtedly helped his morale—and—the colorful former Open champion likes the Augusta course. He finished second in 1937, again in '38 and won with a record 279 in 1939. Guldahl undoubtedly wants to win this one badly, to bolster his fading prestige. We think the big fellow can do it, and will be followed by, in order, Sammy Snead, Byron Nelson, Ed Dudley and Henry Picard.

Gene Sarazen and Byron Nelson lead in qualifying in the most departments. Sarazen is a former National and British Open, P. G. A. and Masters champion. Nelson won all but the British, and finished well up in the major affairs last year, plus his performances on the winter tour.

WHITTLESEY.

Richmond Game Canceled; Nats Play Here Friday

A change in the exhibition game schedule will move the Nats back to Washington on Friday morning, one day earlier than they were originally scheduled to return to the Capital from the South.

A game with the Richmond club of the Piedmont League, originally listed for Friday, has been canceled due to condemnation of the Richmond stands by fire authorities. The Nats will play the Phils on Friday afternoon at Griffith Stadium.

Nova, Simon Matched Here For Benefit

By the Associated Press

New York, April 7.—Lou Nova, California puncher, and Abe Simon, huge Long Island boxer, have been signed by Promoter Mike Jacobs for the main event of naval relief boxing show at Washington on May 20. It will be a 10-round fight.

The bout was made at Miami, Fla., where Jacobs is cacationing. Nova and his manager, Ray Carlen, also are spending their vacations there.

Jacobs had planned to pit Buddy Baer against Simon but Baer asked to be excused as he expects to be inducted into the Army shortly.

Simon will have one tune-up fight before tangling with Nova, being scheduled to oppose Harry Bobo at Pittsburgh April 27.

Originally Jacobs hoped to have Red Cochrane, now a U. S. sailor, defend his welterweight crown against Ray Robinson of New York, in the Washington ball park but Cochrane was unable to get long enough leave to prepare for a title defense.

Simon's last outing was against Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, last month in which he lasted six rounds. Nova has not fought since Louis stopped him in the sixth last September.

Hutchinson Stars As Naval Station Beats Newark, 4-3

By the Associated Press

Norfolk, Va., April 7.—Freddie Hutchinson hit a two-run homer in the eighth here today, enabling the Norfolk Training Station nine to nose out the Newark Bears, 4-3.

Hutchinson, who relieved Bob Feller in the eighth, hurled two innings of perfect ball also, whiffing four of the six Bruins to face him. Feller took over the mound duties from Maxie Wilson in the fifth and yielded one hit in his three-inning stint.

Henry Majeski hit a two-run homer for the Bears in the third.

Shows Speed And Cunning In 7 Innings

Mickey Vernon Ends Batting Slump, Hits Long Homer to Pace 14-Hit Barrage

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

Augusta, Ga., April 7.—The Nats stopped off here today for their daily exercise of beating the Phils. It was all very zestful. The Nats licked the Phils for the fourth time in as many days, 14-1.

Sid Hudson qualified handsomely for his opening-game pitching job in Washington next week by holding the Phils to five hits and one run in the seven innings he pitched. Alex Carrasquel held the Phils to two hits and no runs in the last two innings.

The Nats really poured it on the hapless Phils, unloading 14 hits against four of Hans Lobert's pitchers. Three Philadelphia errors didn't hurt the Nats, either.

Nats Bombard Melton

The Phils were out of the ball game almost before they were in it. The Nats banged Rube Melton for three runs in the first inning with the aid of some sloppy fielding by the Phils and after Vernon banged his homer in the second, the Nats stirred up three more runs off Melton in the third inning.

George Case and Stan Spence led off the productive first inning with singles and a bit later Bruce Campbell poked a single into the infield. In the big third Estalella and Croucher whaled doubles to left, and Hudson, himself, singled.

Mickey Vernon roused himself from his batting slump with great violence. In the park where he had played as a Sally Leaguer a couple of years ago, Vernon lifted a home-run far over the rightfield fence in the third inning, and later collected a second hit.

The Nats had two other three-run innings. Walter Beck forced a run home in the sixth, and later, with the bases full, Bob Repass scored two more with a single to left.

The Nats' three runs in the eighth were a soft touch. After Vernon singled and Ortiz walked, Evans bagged a single through shortstop. Leftfielder Danny Litwhiler played the hit as if it bristled with horns and when the ball rolled to the fence two runs scored and Evans reached third. Croucher drove him home.

The Phils' lone run was scored in the fifth, when Hudson eased up with two out and threw a fat pitch to Pitcher Beck, who banged it to center for three bases. Murtaugh doubled off the left field wall to get the run home.

Hudson Impressive

Hudson was a very impressive pitcher this afternoon. . . . His fast ball was crackling and he was keeping it low to the consternation of the Phils. . . . He walked nobody, and Manager Bucky Harris counts him ready for the opener. . . . Bob Repass thrilled the 400 fans with his sensational shortstopping all afternoon. . . . He made four thrill plays of the backhanded variety and got his man with a throwing arm that Harris puts down as one of the finest in the league. . . . Jake Early and Bobby Estalella are in dismal hitting slumps, although Estalella's is excusable inasmuch as he was absent from the line-up for three weeks. . . . The more Harris sees of Stan Spence's hitting and fielding the more he congratulates himself for getting the centerfielder from Boston. . . . The Nats have now won 19 and lost 7, which makes them the undisputed champions of the Grapefruit League at this point. . . . The pathetic Phils have now lost 11 games in a row to big league opposition. . . . Tomorrow the Nats move on to Atlanta to meet the Southern Association Crackers.

Coolidge, Once 7 Runs Behind, Noses Out Gonzaga, 14-13

16 Errors, 23 Hits, Four Passed Balls And 15 Strikeouts Feature Weird Game

If a lot of action was what they wanted, baseball teams of Gonzaga and Calvin Coolidge High got plenty of it yesterday. They battled for three hours and six minutes before Coolidge, after trailing by seven runs at one point, eked out a 14-13 decision on its home field.

About the only thing the teams failed to perpetrate as they both opened their seasons was a "bean" ball, and four hit batsmen made up for that. Listed along with such items as two home runs, as many triples and a total of 23 solid hits were 16 errors, two wild pitches, a balk, four passed balls, one double play and 15 strikeouts.

Briefly, the running score went like this: Trailing by 2-1 going into the fifth inning, Gonzaga scored 8 runs for a 9-2 lead. Coolidge came back with five runs in the bottom of the fifth, added four more in the sixth to knot the count at 11-11. Two more Colt tallies in the seventh and another in the eighth voided single points by the losers in the last two games.

Here's the Victim

Les Melnicove, the Colts' starting pitcher, was the victim of the Purple's big fifth inning. After hurling hitless ball for four stanzas he was able to retire only one hitter before Bernie Shankman was called in. Seven runs had come over by then, however.

Shankman lasted until the eighth when he, too, had trouble retiring the side. He went out with a 13-12 lead, however, and thus got credit for the game. Ralph Meiklejohn took over with two out, forced Bob Smith to ground out, pitcher to first, and held matters safe from there in.

If there was an individual star of the free-for-all, Meiklejohn took the honor. He pounded out four hits, including a sizzling triple in the seventh, in five trips, and topped off a good day at shortstop with his 2-hit hurling in the last one and a third innings.

Elmer Raba, the Purple's big gun in centerfield, ran Meiklejohn a close second. He got only three hits, but pasted a four-bagger through Outfielder Martin's legs in the sixth. His feat was duplicated by Bill Penn, the Colts' left fielder, on a drive down the third base line in the same inning.

30 Matches In Badminton Play Tonight

Defending champions will be on hand for all five events and all are favored to repeat, although Charlotte Decker is expected to have a battle on her hands to repel the challenge of Elinor Behr in the women's singles. Miss Behr is a former national fifth ranking player, present Baltimore city champion and former Maryland State titlist.

Schedule of Play

Ladies' singles—7 p. m., Jane Stauffer vs. Virginia Junkin, Roselyn Pope vs. Bernice Sullivan; 7:30, Lillian Somervell vs. Rose Mary Trone, Margaret Graham vs. Glenn Neddy; 8:30 p. m., Charlotte Decker, Bernice Stamford, Polly Thompson and Elinore Behr vs. winners of first-round matches.

Men's singles—7 p. m., Dannie Taran vs. Cleveland Stauffer; 7:30 p. m., Don Longman vs. John Wilkinson; 8 p. m., A. D. Robertson vs. Jim Edmund, Lem Penson vs. Arthur Somervell; 9 p. m., Joe Baker and A. Deacon play winners of first-round matches.

Ladies' doubles—All matches scheduled for 9:30 p. m.

Men's doubles—All matches scheduled for 10 p. m.

Mixed doubles—All matches scheduled for 10:30 p. m.

F. & M. Golf Team Defeats Terrors

Westminster, Md., April 7 (AP).—Franklin and Marshall's varsity golf team easily defeated Western Maryland, 6 to 3, today in the opening intercollegiate match of the season for both teams.

Play generally was spotty with a number of high scoring rounds by players of both teams. The course was soft and boggy from recent heavy snow and rains and the greens still were rough and bumpy. Western Maryland took the final foursome of the three played to escape a shutout.

Crawley Wins Open Badminton

For the second successive year Ira Crawley last night upset "Flip" Jackson to win the men's title of the District of Columbia Recreation Department Open badminton tournament. The scordes were 11—15, 15—8, 15—6.

In mixed doubles, new champions were crowned as Mrs. Barnes and David Brown whipped Miss Patterson and Jackson, 16—14, 9—11, 16—14.

Briarley Wins Opener, 7 to 4, From N. T. S.

Briarley Military Academy nine, behind the 7-hit hurling of Artie Reed, got its 1942 season under way yesterday on the home diamond with a 7-4 triumph over National Training School.

Reed, one of several veterans on the Briarley club, contributed 14 strikeouts to the winning effort and walked no one.

Pairs of runs in the first two and fourth innings decided the game in the Cadets' favor. N. T. S. meanwhile managed for single runs in the first and third and two in the eighth. Bottomley, who went the distance for the losers, was touched for 11 hits.

Plans for a fencing festival, sponsored by the Latin American Diplomatic Corps at Georgetown University on April 21, were revealed yesterday.

Among the schools invited to participate are Temple, George Washington, V. M. I., Princeton, Cornell, Harvard and Gettysburg. Prizes will be presented by Miss Erma Castillo Najera, daughter of the Mexican Ambassador to the United States.

Hurst's Golf Winner to Get $5000 Prize

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, April 7.—The Hurst Invitation Tournament was lifted into golfdom's top money spot today with an announcement by Backer Henry A. Hurst that first prize for 1942 will be boosted to $5000 and other awards raised to bring the total to the $12,500 mark.

Hurst said the increases—last year's top award was $1500 and grand total $7500—were made because of greater interest in the tourney.

The 1941 contest drew a star-studded field, including Sammy Snead, who took first place; Terl Johnson, Billy Burke, Johnny Bulla, Ed Oliver and Harold (Jug) McSpaden. Prospects for this year's matches, slated for September 16 to 20, are even better.

Detroit Beats Toronto, 4-2, For 2 in Row

By the United Press

Toronto, April 7.—The Detroit Red Wings fought their way to a surprise 4-to-2 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a rough, fast game before 14,079 fans tonight for their second straight victory over the favored Canadians in their best-of-seven National Hockey League Stanley Cup finals.

Toronto, which finished second in the regular league race and then ousted the champion New York Rangers in the cup semifinals, thus had lost the first two games on its home ice. It must win four of the remaining five games to stop Detroit, which wound up fifth in the season campaign.

The Red Wings got off fast tonight with two first period goals while holding the Leafs scoreless. Toronto scored the only second period counter but Detroit came back with two quick final period tallies before allowing the Leafs their second and final tally.

Standouts in the Red Wing victory were Center Don Grosso and Goalie Johnny Mowers. Grosso, flanked on the top Detroit front line by Eddie Wares and Syd Abel, rammed home two goals. Mowers time and again halted the Leafs on breakaways that appeared certain to end in scores.

Grosso opened the Red Wing scoring at 11:47 of the game on a pass from Wares and then Bruneteau made it 2 to 0 by netting Carl Liscomb's relay at 14:17. Schriner put Toronto back in the game with his second period goal on passes from Wally Stanowski and Taylor.

Grosso scored his second goal of the game at 4:15 of the third on a pass from Wares and Detroit went further out in front at 10:08 when Jerry Brown tipped in Eddie Bush's long shot on a three-man Detroit breakaway. Stanowski's tally at 14:39 on a solo dash ended the scoring.

Detroit	2	0	2—4
Toronto	0	1	1—2

First period: Detroit—Grosso (Wares), 11:47. Detroit—Bruneteau (Liscombe), 14:17. Toronto—Nothing.

Second period: Toronto—Schriner (Taylor, Stanowski), 11:13. Detroit—Nothing.

Nats Picked to Finish Seventh by AP Expert

Yankees, of Course, Are Figured Cinch to Win, With Others Repeating '41 Places

By Judson Bailey
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, April 7.—The major league clubs have been grooming themselves for six weeks in preparation for the opening of the season next Tuesday and in the American League, at least, not one has shown enough to make fans expect any real change from last year's standings.

There were ties for two spots in 1941 and a total of only five games separated fourth and seventh places. This congestion probably will be cleared out, but the race in the junior league again shapes up on the familiar pattern of the New York Yankees swooping to victory and the other seven clubs scrambling to make the best out of what is left.

The war may be the decisive factor in how the teams eventually line up behind the Yanks. The draft already has reached into baseball's ranks for various key men and seems certain to take others during the summer. Just as important will be the way attendance is affected. If crowds are off, the poorer clubs may have to sell players to more prosperous rivals.

How They're Picked

1. New York.
2. Boston.
3. Chicago.
4. Cleveland.
5. St. Louis.
6. Detroit.
7. Washington.
8. Philadelphia.

The Yankees are the same smooth and confident campaigners they were last year, although the siege of holdouts kept them from shaping up as quickly as some of the other members of the circuit. There is not a single manager in the big leagues who does not think the Bombers can barge to their sixth pennant in seven years.

The real race, therefore, will be between the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox for second place, and between all others except Philadelphia for fourth place.

The Red Sox looked better in spring training than they did a year ago. Manager Joe Cronin has found a real successor at shortstop in the person of Little John Pesky, and in spite of the retirement of Lefty Grove and the transfer of two other good southpaws to the Army, the Boston pitching staff is satisfactory. A team that has Ted Williams, Jimmie Foxx, Jim Tabor and those other Red Sockers does not require perfect pitching.

The White Sox have the pitching, all right, but an uncertain infield and little power. They acquired Wally Moses during the winter, but he is not likely to bridge the gap of seven games which separated them from second place last season.

All of the other clubs have gaping vacancies left by the draft, yet oddly the Cleveland Indians, who lost Bob Feller, may be affected the least. Lou Boudreau, a 24-year-old novice at managing, had his club keyed high in Florida. He has the only dependable infield among the five clubs comprising the rear guard and has apparently adequate reserves.

The St. Louis Browns are hopeful of moving up from a tie for sixth to at least fifth place. The Browns

Jockey Wahler Wins on Gondalina; Scores Another Triple

Young Star Beats Woolf In Feature

Outrides Veteran In Magnificent Duel Down Stretch; Victor Pays $10.70 Mutuel

By Walter Haight
A Staff Correspondent

Bowie, Md., April 7.—Charlie Wahler, a Philadelphia boy who learned to ride as an exercise boy in Maryland, was the saddle toast of a crowd of 10,000 here this afternoon. After riding winners in two minor races on the card, Wahler put up a masterful saddle exhibition in the Charlotte Hall Purse, featuring the program, to bring victory to G. R. Watkins' Gondalina, a $10.70 shot.

Not only did Wahler win but in doing so, appeared to outride George Woolf, the veteran jockey and considered the Nation's No. 1 money rider. The two—the kid and the vet—hooked up at the eighth pole and young Wahler looked every bit as good as his rival, wh owas aboard W. L. Brann's Moon Maiden, the favorite in the field of six.

Weatherite Is Third

Gondalina came into the wire three parts of a length ahead of Moon Maiden, with G. O. Russell's Weatherite third in the three-quarter mile affair. The "also ran" department included Night Glow, Blustering and Charm Bracelet.

Blustering and Charm Bracelet, a pair of horses with fast workouts to their credit, set and forced the early pace. Weatherite was close up and Woolf and Wahler were rating their mounts within striking distance. Approaching the stretch, the fast pace began to tell on Blustering and Charm Bracelet and they folded. Weatherite then took up the front running.

Woolf then sent Moon Maiden after Weatherite as Wahler, who had been saving ground on the rail, brought Gondalina out for racing room. In midstretch, Weatherite and Moon Maiden came together briefly and the latter went out to the lead. Then Wahler put Gondalina to pressure and the filly responded to come up abreast of Moon Maiden. Of course, in the ensuing drive, Gondalina pulled away. Weatherite was a tiring third ahead of a rather listless, despite being well-played, Night Glow.

Start of Wahler's Triple

Wahler's first victory on the program came in the third race. He was aboard Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Uvalde, a $4.10 favorite. The boy had only to guide this one and Uvalde scampered home ahead of Radio Wave and Crius.

He came back in the fourth race to succeed with another favorite, This time he had to use his riding skill in a stretch drive to get W. W. Crenshaw's Neddie Boy to the wire ahead of the Cannaday Farm's No Dough. It was a close one, but young Wahler has a knack of winning this kind. The veteran Ken McCombs was on No Dough. This winner paid $4.80.

Jockey "Red" Pollard suffered a concussion of the brain in today's second race. The widely known rider fell with Sun Triad shortly after the start of the 6-furlong sprint. He was examined by the track physician and was transferred to the University Hospital in Baltimore by the track ambulance.

In the fifth race, Apprentice Jockey L. Gysin was thrown off his mount, Valdina Zest, at the start, but escaped injury.

Dot Kirby Meets Louise Suggs in Augusta Finals

By the United Press

Augusta, Ga., April 7.—The Georgia giant-killers, Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, and Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, won their semifinal matches today to enter the finals of the eighteenth Forest Hills Augusta Women's Invitational Golf tournament.

Miss Kirby, the defending champion, defeated Medalist Georgia Tainter, of Fargo, N. Dak., 1 up, before a large gallery.

Miss Suggs defeated the University of South Carolina coed, Jane Crum, of Orangeburg, by the same score.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OLD ROSEBUSH, $3.50, $3.10, $2.90; GINOBI (entry), $7.20, $4.90; HADA STAR, $3.60.

OLD ROSEBUSH, off in the first flight and steadied early, assumed command when asked and drew out without effort to win eased up. GINOBI was well placed from the start and closed with good energy. HADA STAR, sluggish early, came with a bold move in the stretch run. SEE SEE was in the thick of forward contention early and weakened gradually.

Daily Double of Direction and Old Rosebush paid $12.70

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1200. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 3:33. Off at 3:33½. Winner, Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—UVALDE (entry), $4.10, $2.70, $2.30; RADIO WAVE, $5.30, $3.10; CRIUS, $2.60.

UVALDE, much the best, was steadied in the first flight early, took command when asked and drew out gradually to win handily. RADIO WAVE forged to the front in the opening quarter, was no match for the winner, but closed gamely under pressure. CRIUS raced forwardly on the outside, moved up menacingly and then faltered in the closing test.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1500. For 3-year-olds and upward; maidens; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 4:00. Winner, W. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEDDIE BOY, $4.80, $3.20, $2.50; NO DOUGH, $3.90, $2.90; MARVAL (entry), $2.90.

NEDDIE BOY, under restraint while within striking distance of the leaders for the half, went to the outside to take command approaching the stretch, but had to be put to extreme pressure to stave off the closing bid of NO DOUGH. The latter was in the first flight from the break, responded gamely when shaken up in the stretch run and fought it out with excellent courage. MARVAL improved his position gradually along the backstretch and appeared to be hatlessly handled in the closing stages.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1500. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:25. Off at 4:25½. Winner, J. H. Louchheim's blk. g. (3) by Ariel—Keyword. Trained by J. Loftus. Value to winner, $1000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 1:14⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHOP STICKS, $12.10, $7.80, $5.10; PETES BET, $11.00, $6.70; MISS I. Q., $5.40.

CHOP STICKS, close up from the start, responded gamely when placed to a drive and was drawing out gradually at the end. PETES BET moved to contention early while racing wide, came willingly in the stretch run and was second best. MISS I. Q. had speed in spots. SOLAR STAR set and forced the pace with HAPPY GALLOP and weakened.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $2000. For 3-year-olds and upward; fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:50½. Winner, G. B. Watkins' b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GONDALINA, $10.70, $4.10, $2.70; MOON MAIDEN, $3.20, $2.40; WEATHERITE, $3.90.

GONDALINA saved ground early, was taken out for racing room entering the stretch and withstood a long drive to win going away. MOON MAIDEN was steadied while close up, responded when placed to a drive, was slightly bothered by WEATHERITE, took a brief lead, but could not resist the winner while under punishment. WEATHERITE was in the thick of forward contention from the break, took command in midstretch, but faltered after swerving. NIGHT GLOW, outrun early, failed to rally. BLUSTERING set a strong pace in the early stages and stopped.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1500. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:13. Off at 5:13. Winner, F. Reda's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VALDINA VALET, $4.60, $3.20, $2.40; FLASHALONG, $6.30, $3.70; ISLE DE PINE, $3.30.

VALDINA VALET, rated while lapped on the outside of ROSCOE K.'s pace, took command when asked to open a good lead, but had to be put to pressure to stave off the closing bid of FLASHALONG. The latter was steadied while within striking distance, responded when shaken up in the stretch and just missed getting up. ISLE DE PINE moved up menacingly in the stretch run and weakened at the close.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1200. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:40. Off at 5:41. Winner, Mrs. D. B. Miller's ch. g. (6) by Ladkin—Helenita. Trained by H. Barnes. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:58.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HELEN'S LAD, $12.60, $6.60, $4.50; COVE SPRING, $4.90, $3.20; BUSY MAN, $3.00.

HELEN'S LAD, rated in the early stages, responded willingly when sent up on the outside approaching the half-mile pole, took command boldly entering the stretch and drew out to win easily. COVE SPRING was taken up sharply when in close quarters going to the first turn and showed a winning effort thereafter. BUSY MAN raced along with TRIPHAMMER in front, but had nothing left for the final test.

Selections at Bowie

Dear Al: Business here has been O.K. so far and Manager Joseph A. Farrell has announced that for the meeting the minimum pay for mutuel clerks will be $10 a day, which is as it should be. Maryland is going to lose Apprentice Jockey Charlie Wahler to New York. The youngster, who has been a sensation here, goes to Jamaica and plans to stick around the big city, we are going to miss him. If you are one of those interested in playing post position, No. 6 in sprints and No. 4 in distance races are leading the post numbers by a wide margin. Charles Erickson, son of former Jockey Henry Erickson, who used to ride for J. K. L. Ross and who now is track superintendent at Charles Town, made his saddle debut here yesterday aboard War Grand in the third race. Here are some facts on the Kindergarten Stakes, featuring today's program: The $5000 race is the richest spring juvenile test in Maryland; today's running will be the sixteenth; the event has been won by Red Rocket, Rapid Transit, Sand Fiddler, Vander Pool, Portam, Acautaw, Wise Daughter, Angelic, Bright Light, Irrepressible, Benjam, Charlotte Girl, Rumba Gus, Omission and Joe Ray in the order named; Vander Pool, winner in 1930, holds the stake record, having run the half-mile in 0:47. Johnny Gilbert, scheduled to ride Samhar today, already has won four Kindergartens aboard Wise Daughter (1933), Angelic (1934), Bright Light (1935) and Omission (1940). Thirteen 2-year-olds have been named overnight for today's test. By the way, Walter Haight goes in the second race. He crossed me up last out by finishing up the race track. I look for him to be closer today. Bright Willie, a Kentucky Derby candidate, arrived at Havre de Grace yesterday. He belongs to Ralph McIlvain, of Louisville, Ky., and goes in the $15,000 added Chesspeake Stakes. Harry Parr, of Pimlico's official family, has proven something of a weather prognosticator. When horsemen asked to have straw removed from the inside of the Pimlico track, Parr said that a big snowstorm was due and that afterward he would have the straw taken away. A few days later came the blizzard and 22 inches of snow fell on the Baltimore track. See you on the rail.

BILL.

First race—CRACK FAVOR carries top weight in this field but appears to be headed for a set of brackets. MYSTIQUE, in with a feather assignment, seems well placed and is dangerous. RISSA was a winner here and should be close.

Second race—OLMPIAN has worked well and appears the best in this cheap field. JACK BUCK is a fair sort and belongs close. WALTER HAIGHT had no excuses last out but is due to improve.

Third race—WOODVALE LASS is tossed in this with 103 pounds and looks like the goods. Needs only the right handling. DUSKY FOX fits in here nicely and is a threat. The Bedwell entry of CREEPY MOUSE and VALDINA LEO should get part of the pay.

Fourth race—HAPPY LARK barely failed to last in that test last week. Should go the full distance and beat these sprinters. ALAKING had some trouble in that recent effort and is a threat. HALCYON BOY to take care of the others.

Fifth race—TRUE NORTH has done about everything asked of him and deserves the top pick in the 2-year-old stake. SAMHAR showed a keen liking for the going here in his first outing and is dangerous. KOPLA was a star in Florida racing.

Sixth race—DOUBLE B. came here fit as a fiddle and looks ready to turn back this brand of sprinters. The Bedwell entry of CLINGENDAAL and FOGOSO is formidable and belongs close. BRIGHT AND EARLY must be better than that last.

Seventh race—NAVY has a spot here that he should make the most of and I'm going to string along. BELLE d'AMOUR'S last left nothing to be desired. TOTAL ECLIPSE should account for the show money.

Eighth race—MISRULE favors the route and has all the earmarks of a winner. WHO REIGH won nicely last out and is going to be in the thick of contention. ROUGH GOING was blocked early in that last and can do better.

Best bet—NAVY.

Poloist Gerry Given Commission In Army Air Corps

By the Associated Press

New York, April 7.—Elbridge T. Gerry, chairman of the United States Polo Association and the New York State Harness Racing Commission, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps.

Enlistment of Gerry, a nine-goal polo player, was revealed today when the association announced the organization would be run by Vice Chairman Devereux Milburn and Secretary-Treasurer Gouverneur M. Carnochan.

Frank Wiswall, secretary of the harness racing body, said he had no word of the resignation of Gerry from his organization but when he does, Gov. Lehman has the power to fill the vacancy on the three-man commission. The commission names its own chairman.

Science Triumphs Again—This Time Over a Piscatorial Foe

Prof. Henry Unkauf, of Syracuse University's chemistry department, joyfully (and we do mean joyfully) displays the 17-inch, 2½-pound brown trout he landed near Syracuse. He was one of hundreds of anglers who welcomed the season

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Fishing with JACK BELL

Izaak Walton, who wrote "The Compleat Angler," some time in the seventeenth century and who has ever since been worshiped as "the father of the angle," says that it is the preparation rather than the realization in angling that makes it so fascinating to the real lovers of the rod and line. We find that no matter how patient the angler may be in the actual pursuit, he is very impatient when the season takes on that earliest promise of fishing time.

JACK BELL

With the opening of trout season in Maryland, April 15, and in Virginia, April 20, anglers are now busy with their last minute shopping, impatient just like a bunch of women at a rummage sale. A survey of the local sports stores show a shortage of certain popular items. However, it is gratifying to see the number of new items they are now displaying.

One item in particular attracted our attention and that is a paste in tube form, to be used on leaders, especially nylon gut, to sink it. About this time last year we recommended a formula for this same purpose. It was found to be quite satisfactory, but with frequent use the pumice abrasive used has a tendency to weaken the leader.

Towards the end of last year's trouting season we received a trial tube of this same paste, and found it better than our make. This new paste does not contain any abrasive, and is colorless.

Sinking nylon leaders has always been a headache to the dry and wet fly angler. For succeesful fly-fishing it is desirable that the leader should be submerged, otherwise on a clear day the floating leader casts a very broad and dense shadow which frightens the fish. The use of this paste, rubbed on the leader, removes this objection. It is also well to use a streamer and wet flies, to help sink them, and also eliminate those fish annoying little bubbles that so often cling to your submerged fly.

The heavy snowfall of Sunday week upset the stocking schedule of Maryland's trout streams. Many roads early last week were found impassable, causing a setback in planting the streams of the eastern part of the State. However, it simply means that they will have to work a bit harder during the days remaining before the opening of the season.

According to Frank Bentz, chief clerk of the State Game and Inland Commission, approximately 70,000 will be planted in the State's trout streams. All fish are legal in size, many of them 10 inches and better. Frank says that all the streams in the extreme western part of the State have already received their preseason quota of trout.

Albert Powell, State fish culturist, says that the heavy snowfall of last week was not an unmitigated blessing. It has added much needed water to the State's trout streams and with the slow run-off will keep the streams in shape for some time.

Virginia has now speeded up its trout stocking program now that additional equipment that had been tied up since last November, moving bass from Back Bay, has been released.

Abaut 50 per cent of this year's supply of trout has been shipped to streams where angling will begin April 20. Trout stocking in the southwestern counties was delayed two weeks by the heavy snowfall early in March, but this snow, like Maryland's, proved to be of great benefit, as many streams are now carrying a normal flow of water instead of the mere trickle before the snow.

Thursday night, April 9, at 8 o'clock, the Alexandria (Va.) chapter of the Izaak Walton League will hold an open meeting in the Old Dominion Club at the foot of King Street. If you're interested in what is being done about black bass netting in tributaries of the Potomac, many problems are going to be discussed.

E. J. Douglas of the Fish and Wildlife Service has arranged to show three films on fishing, "The Fishing Parson," "Fish Fun in Florida," and "Just What the Doctor Ordered."

Cushion "All-Out" Effort with a Good Cigar

Hard work these days?

Well—

"A cigar," said a famous diplomat, "somehow helps in keeping one's emotions under good control."

COUNTLESS thousands of men find emotional relaxation in the mild, distinctive character of fine cigars—especially when the going is tough and the hours are long.

A pet brand helps mightily. And for American smokers, El Producto long has been the pet brand. Mild, and different in its character, El Producto is blended from the choicest tobaccos. Quality workmanship adds the finishing touch to give a cool, even-burning cigar that holds its fire, no matter how slowly you smoke.

Make a pocketful of El Producto your daily companion.

G. W., A. U. Nines Oppose In Opener

The college baseball season hereabouts opens at 2:30 today at American University when the Eagles play host to George Washington in a grame that looms as a tossup.

Ordinarily, George Washington would rate a decided favorite over Staff Cassell's team. But this is no ordinary year. The Colonials lost their top four pitchers from last year and now must carry on with only one tested hurler and even he is unpredictable.

G. W.'s one seasoned pitcher is "Red" Kloak, a big rightnander who is slated to get the starting role today against an A. U. team depending largely on freshmen. Opposing Kloak will be a youngster Coach Cassell describes as "our best prospect in years," one Herman Byer, a transferee from Georgetown.

Should Kloak need assistance, Vinny DeAngelis, newly appointed G. W. coach, will be in a bad way, for the lone reserve pitcher he can trust at all is Aaron Silverman, a sophomore and formerly of Roosevelt High School here.

Catching Kloak will be Billy Robertson, adopted son of Owner Clark Griffith of the Nats, while Byer's battery mate is the Shanty Shepherd, 1940 all-metropolitan high high school catcher with Washington-Lee.

Holdover George Washington regulars are Bobby Gilham, shortstop; Jack Fitzgerald, third baseman; Bobby Kilham, second baseman, and Len Sokol, leftfield.

There will be four freshmen in A. U.'s opening line-up, with the only veterans being Capt. Harry Newby, leftfield, and Bob Lanzilloti, a sophomore who played outfield last season, but has been shifted to second base.

Shaw Bowling Trophy Is Won By Oberheim

Harold Oberheim, of Mount Pleasant Lodge, rolled a gross 385 at Convention Hall last night to take the Shaw Cup, a traditional award in the Masonic Bowling League.

The Shaw Cup competition is open only to Masonic bowlers who have made an all-but-one full schedule in league competition. It is a handicap affair.

Oberheim won the event with a 24 handicap. Second was Clayton Brown, Whiting, who rolled a 380 from scratch. Pete Lawrenson, Centennial, finished third with 373 (handicap 27).

ICE PALACE

The Office Appliance boys at the Ice Palace were topped by a 144 single rolled by Larue Keagle, I. B. M. Service, and a 381 set chalked up by Jim Boteler, I. B. M. Factory. The latter's count aided in a whitewash of Dictaphone and the posting of top set of 1706. The Underwood boys had 598 for best team game and won three from Procurement, as both A. B. Dick and Remington-Rand whitewashed opponents.

NORTHEAST TEMPLE

The Naval Observatory boys at Northeast Temple found that Al Arnold, Cruisers, was the hero for the night with his 134 single and 348 set that sparked his mates to team highs of 534 and 1563.

CONVENTION HALL

The Washington Gas Light team in the Merchants League at Convention Hall won its fifth consecutive flag last night when Ham Miller sparked a sweep over opponents with his 158 game, which later aided in highs of 589 and 1729. Bob Wallach rolled 432 for high individual set with M. Fletcher, Holmes Baking, close with his 414.

Nats Are Picked To Finish Seventh

became one of the best clubs in the league last season after Luke Sewell took charge and they are set to make a good start this spring. They are too weak "down the middle" to figure actively in first-division consideration, but are sure to continue as troublemakers for stronger foes.

Detroit is in the throes of reorganization and might finish anywhere from fourth to eighth. The Tigers, Senators and Athletics all have pitiful looking defensive clubs, in fact, and there is little to choose among the three.

Lamotto Kayoes Schwartz in Ninth

New York, April 7 (AP).—Jack Lamotto, New York welterweight, won his twenty-second straight professional fight tonight with a ninth-round knockout of Lou Schwartz, 166, Brooklyn. Three solid rights to Schwartz's chin followed by a long left to the body ended the bout.

Lamotto, weighing 160½, was in distress only during the seventh round.

Fans Enjoy Fights During Long Blackout

White Plains, N. Y., April 7 (AP). What is believed to have been the first boxing show in the United States held during a blackout was staged tonight with 6000 spectators kept in the Community Center for 80 minutes.

In the main attraction, Frankie Zezema, 138½, Stamford, Conn., and Cobby Lisbon, 141, New Orleans, fought to a six-round draw.

The surprise blackout was called at 8:50 p. m. (Eastern War Time) just after the ring show opened. It ended at 10:10 p. m., with most of the spectators unaware of its existence.

Potomac Boat Club Will Meet Tonight

The seventy-third annual meeting and election of officers of the Potomac Boat Club will be held tonight at the clubhouse, Thirty-sixth and K Streets Northwest, it was announced last night. Starting time will be 8 p. m.

Citizens Protest To Roosevelt in Closing of Street

A protest direct to President Roosevelt against the "illegal" closing of Van Ness Street Northwest between Reno Road and Connecticut Avenue, at the Bureau of Standards, was voted last night by the North Cleveland Citizens Association.

Copies of the protesting resolution will be sent to the President and members of the House and Senate District Committees.

The association also voted to establish a committee to raise $2000 in the area for civilian defense equipment and emergency food supplies.

A committee including Z. A. Jones and William King was named to seek repairs to sidewalks and alleys in the North Cleveland area.

Divine Cult Seeks $500,000 for Hotel

Brigantine, N. J., April 7 (AP).—Members of Father Divine's cult who recently bought the skyscraper Brigantine Hotel in this seashore island community for $70,000, have offered to sell it to local residents for $500,000.

City Commissioner John Lloyd, jr., announced today he received the offer from Ila B. Hall, New York, one of the purchasers, in response to urgent pleas by a group of local taxpayers that they be given opportunity to buy the property. "This $500,000 offer didn't even include the hotel's furnishings," said Lloyd. "The offer is out of the question, and an insult to our intelligence."

Cost Lowering Seen on Homes, Cars After War

By the Associated Press

New York, April 7.—The head of a magazine to the steel industry, predicting a 30 to 40 per cent increase in American purchasing power after the war, said today that:

In the post-war period better houses would cost less, automobiles, made of lighter metals such as aluminum and magnesium, would run 40 miles on a gallon of gasoline, and Americans would learn to get 40,000 to 50,000 miles from a set of tires.

John H. Van Deventer, president and editor of the Iron Age, said in an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon of the sales executives' club of New York that the increased purchasing power would come from two sources, producers and consumers.

Cost Emphasis Seen

"Producers," he said, "fall into two classes, those who build production machinery and those who use it to make products. Builders of production machinery are not now putting out new models, since their plants are fully occupied in getting all of the output possible out of established models.

"However, nearly every maker of production machinery has in design or development new and improved models to be brought out after the war, when the national emphasis will shift from production to cost reduction.

"Users of production machinery meanwhile are getting an intensive education in the use of alternative materials, in waste reduction and salvage, and in managerial efficiency.

"After the war our motor cars will run 40 miles to the gallon of gas, thanks to the experience the motor car industry is getting in aircraft manufacture and to the use of light metals such as aluminum and magnesium, whose productive capacity is being so greatly expanded.

Better Homes Forecast

"Manufacture of tin plate for the canning industries is being revolutionized by the electrolytic process which enables 1 pound of tin to do the work of several pounds formerly required.

"Public pressure for abolition of archaic union restrictions on output will enable one to buy a better house for $6000 than he could formerly get for $10,000 These achievements and hundreds of others will build a new world of production efficiency.

"Every cent shaved from the cost and price of an item of goods or services increases national consuming power by that amount.

"Heretofore, most of us have been satisfied to get 15,000 or 20,000 miles from a set of tires. Now we are going to learn to get 40,000 or 50,000 from them. We are learning how to save and salvage paper and metal and rubber and almost everything else that we have heretofore considered inexhaustible or easily replaceable. The lesson is going to carry over after the war and make us better stewards of our possessions."

Late Earnings Statements

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. reported 1941 net earnings in the Western Hemisphere of $6,604,891, or $3.09 a common share. The dividend income and profits from subsidiaries outside of the Western Hemisphere, aggregating $535,584, were added to the reserve for contingencies which now amounts to $3,327,933. Earnings in 1940, based on Western Hemisphere operations only, were equal to $1.62 a share. President E. H. Little reported that last year's sales of $105,405,550 were the highest in the company's history.

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation reported for 1941 net profit of $4,921,926, equal to $2.03 a share on the common stock. In 1940 there was a net loss of $17,336 after provision of $2,800,000 for foreign assets. In the December quarter net profit amounted to $3,372,726, compared with $687,886 in the September quarter.

Ingersoll-Rand Co. and domestic subsidiaries reported net profit in 1941 amounted to $8,125,202, equal to $8.18 a common share, against $6,999,390, or $7.03 a common share, in 1940.

Northrop Aircraft, Inc., reported net profit of $282,408 for the quarter ended January 31, equal to 78 cents per share on combined Class A and B shares outstanding. Earnings in the preceding quarter were $44,309, or 12 cents per share of outstanding combined Class A and B stock. Figures for the quarter ended January 31, 1941, when the company was in the development stage, were not announced.

National Sugar Refining Co. reported 1941 net profit of $1,428,530 after Federal taxes of $370,000 and $150,000 provision for contingencies. The net was equal to $2.51 on 568,815 shares of capital stock. Net loss in 1940 was reported as $113,930.

Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. reported 1941 net of $1,440,959 equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.84 a common share, compared with $1,571,767, or $2.01, in 1940.

New York Cotton

New York, April 7 (AP).—Cotton futures prices today took the biggest dip since February 23, sagging 45 to 85 cents a bale under the weight of liquidation and profit-taking.

Buying enthusiasm apparently was cooled by the knowledge that free supplies may be augmented next week by more than 350,000 bales of cotton when the Commodity Credit Corporation accepts bids on the April quota of loan cotton and on a small quantity of pool cotton it still holds.

Persistent reports the Government would take over 1941 loan stocks of about 1,600,000 bales and form a pool for its distribution into trade channels further unsettled the market.

Commission houses and New Orleans supplied the bulk of the day's contracts. Stop-loss selling orders uncovered on the way down added momentum to the decline.

Court Dismisses Shareholder's Suit Against Pennroad

Philadelphia, April 7 (AP).—Federal Judge A. Welsh dismissed today a stockholder's suit which had asked that officers and directors of the Pennroad Corporation be held liable for losses the stockholder computed at more than nine million dollars on the purchase by Pennroad of stock of Boston & Maine Railroad.

The stockholder, David Steckler, of New York, who owns 14 of the one million Pennroad shares, contended the acquisition, between 1929 and 1931, by Pennroad, of 19½ per cent of Boston & Maine stock for $20,138,700 violated the corporate laws of New York and Massachusetts. He declared the laws limited a holding or investment company to ownership of 10 per cent of any corporation organized under the State's laws.

Judge Welsh held that neither the New York nor Massachusetts statutes applied to the Pennroad purchases and that Steckler had not proved Pennroad sustained any actual loss in the transaction. He also absolved 17 officers and directors, many of whom have since died, of any violation of their duties. The suit was filed in 1939.

Anaconda Confirms Park Utah Stock Deal

New York, April 7 (AP).—The Anaconda Copper Mining Co. today announced it had acquired through private purchase 408,428 shares of the capital stock of the Park Utah Consolidated Mines Co., making its total holdings in the latter firm 478,228 shares.

A spokesman for the copper company said that of this newly acquired stock, purchased through a Salt Lake City bank acting as agent, about 150,000 shares had been held by Otto Luedeking and Charles Lange.

Lange and Mrs. Catherine Ludeking, widow of the late wealthy haberdasher, were director of Park Utah. Luedeking at the time of his death several years ago held approximately 94,000 shares in Park Utah, while the remainder represented holdings of Lange and several associates.

March Steel Output Sets Another Record

New York, April 7 (AP).—The American Iron and Steel Institute today said all previous records for total monthly output of steel ingots and castings were broken by the industry in March with a production of 7,392,911 net tons of steel.

This total exceeded by 150,000 tons the previous peak production of 7,236,068 tons in October, 1941, and was more than 260,000 tons greater than the output in March, 1941.

Total steel production for the first quarter of this year was 21,038,889 tons, or nearly 4 per cent above the 20,276,709 tons turned out in the first three months of 1941.

For the first three months of this year the industry's production averaged 96.3 per cent of capacity.

7th Street Bank Final Dividends To Start Today

Starting today depositors of the closed Seventh Street Savings Bank will receive their fifth and final dividend, it was announced by Justus S. Wardell, receiver. The disbursement will approximate $124,100 and will be made to 2695 claimants.

Mr. Wardell pointed out that postcards notifying depositors when to come in to the offices at 1329 I Street Northwest will be mailed.

With the payment of the final dividend, depositors will have received 100 per cent of their claims plus 6.8 per cent interest it was pointed out. The grand total was estimated at $1,128,989.

A final dividend in the closed Commercial National Bank, of which Mr. Wardell also is receiver, is expected soon. It was indicated that a disbursement of about 12.57 per cent will be made for the final payment.

Price Ceiling Placed On Lake Superior Ore

By the Associated Press

Lake Superior iron ore, just starting to move through the Great Lakes for an expected record-breaking season yesterday was brought under a price ceiling of approximately last year's levels.

The order, effective April 10, forbids sales of ore under continuing long-term contracts—under which the bulk of the ore is sold—"at prices exceeding those at which deliveries were made last season."

Textile Trade Head Warns Of Conversion

Charlotte, N. C., April 7.—Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, predicted here today that the War Production Board would issue "a drastic conversion" program for the textile industry within the next two weeks.

Speaking to a meeting of carded yarn manufacturers, Murchison said that while this program probably would not entail rationing to consumers, it would almost certainly severly restrict the supply of goods available for nonessential and civilian uses.

If adequate quantities of fabrics needed for military purposes are to be produced, he said, "many more looms must be brought into this production."

"That means," he added, "that the mills which have been producing other things have got to be converted."

Dr. Murchison expressed concern over the future supply of cotton for the industry.

"We will come to August 1 with a 10-million-bale carryover, of which four million bales will be extremly low grade," he said. "Of good cotton, there will be only a normal carryover and the burdensome surplus we had several years ago will have completely disappeared.

"Also, I am worried over this year's crop. There will be shortages of fertilizer, insecticides and farm labor. The crop possibly will be actually under domestic consumption.

"In 1943 we will be facing a very real shortage of cotton."

Rails Lauded By ICC Aide On War Effort

By the Associated Press

Chicago, April 7.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner J. Monroe Johnson said today American railroads were doing "a lovely job" in meeting war needs, and that the performance pointed toward their post-war representation in the Cabinet.

Assering "this war means transportation more than fighting," Johnson told the Midwest Shippers Advisory Board that "we are doing better than you think."

"If the supplies continue to roll," he said, "they will hold Australia and retake Java and the Philippines and start the drive on Tokyo."

Addressing the railroads particularly, he said:

"After he war, if you keep on as you are now, you will have a department of transport, with a secretary of transportation as representative at he Cabinet table.

"The Government looks with confidence on you. The Government knows that, consecrated cooperatively to the task, you can do a better job than any Government can."

Means for accomplishing maximum utilization of freight equipment were discussed at the board's session, keynoted by a declaration from A. W. Vogtle, Birmingham, Ala., president of the National Association of Advisory Boards, that "every freight car must do more work."

"We simply cannot load a car at half capacity and ask for diversion of critical materials from the war effort to build a new car likewise to be loaded at half capacity, when the existing car would accommodate both loadings," he said.

L. M. Betts, manager of the Association of American Railroads Car Service Division, told the session that "literally thousands of car-days are being saved" through the functioning of "vigilance committees" in communities over the country to stimulate cooperation in the prompt release of freight cars to keep war and commercial traffic moving.

Chicago Grain

Led by corn and oats, which responded to continued gains in the hog market, where prices reached new peaks for the past 16 years, the cereal market showed signs of advancing at times. Corn rose as much as ⅛ cent and oats ⅜ cent, pulling wheat and rye out of an early decline of about ½ cent. The bread cereals registered gains of about ⅛ cent at one stage.

Later, however, the modest buying power faded. Wheat closed ⅛ to ½ cent lower than yesterday, May, 1.23½@1.23¾; July, 1.25⅛@1.25¾; corn, unchanged to ⅛ higher; May, 88¼; July, 90¾; Oats, ⅛ to ⅜ higher; rye, ½ to ⅝ lower; soybeans, ¾ lower to ⅛ higher, and lard, unchanged at ceilings.

U. S. Will Shut Down 25 Gulf Oil Refineries

By the Associated Press

Houston, Tex., April 7.—The Houston Chronicle said today it had learned that refineries in the Southwest, chiefly the Texas Gulf Coast, which are not producing essential war products will be closed down and only those whose products are considered essential to the war program will be allowed to remain open.

The present plan, decided upon in conferences between Government officials and refineries, calls for the shutting down of about 25 refineries, the paper said.

"Profits of those plants which are operated will be pooled and shared on a pro rate basis among the companies participating in the plan," the Chronicle reported.

One Already Closed

"The first of the plants to be closed under this program was the Texas Co.'s Houston refinery. Closing of this plant was announced yesterday by the Texas Co.

"It was said that refineries and the Government were faced either with shutting down a number of plants or prorating the crude oil runs at refineries so that it would be economically impractical to operate some of the plant...

"This action was made necessary by a shortage of transportation facilities which caused a subsequent piling up of stocks at refineries.

"It was said that the Government officials and the refineries, at the conferences, agreed on plans to absorb as far as possible in the plants which will remain open the workers whose jobs are lost by the shutting down of the 25 plants.

Mostly Small Refineries

"The plants which reportedly will be shut down are mostly small plants, one in Louisiana and the remainder in Texas, mostly in the Houston, Corpus Christi or the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

"Several plants in inland Texas, a few operated by major companies, are scheduled for closing," it was said.

"All of the refineries will not be closed at once, but the closings will follow each other shortly, it was said."

Rayon Deliveries Spurt in Period

New York, April 7 (AP).—The Textile Economics Bureau, Inc., today through its publication, Rayon Organon, said rayon deliveries to domestic mills—yarn plus staple fiber—totaled 153,500,000 pounds in the first quarter of 1942, a 23 per cent increase over the 124,700,000

JOE PALOOKA — The Layout — BY HAM FISHER

IT'S A NICE LAYOUT, SIR.
IT USED TO BE USED FOR COUNTY HORSE SHOWS. THEY USED TO BE VERY HORSEY AROUND HERE BEFORE THE WAR. IT'S USED NOW FOR DRILLING.
THERE WILL PROBABLY BE TWELVE THOUSAND ALLIED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS ON HAND TONIGHT.
WHERE'S THE DRESSIN' ROOMS, SIR?
OVER HERE. BY THE WAY, WHY DIDN'T YOU BRING LEEMY ALONG THIS MORNING?
I WANTED HIM T'STAY AT THE INN AN' REST. I DON'T WANT 'IM GITTIN' IN NO TROUBLE AROUND TOWN.
GOOD. AND OH, BY THE WAY--SOME OF THE MEN ARE BETTING YOU'LL PUT PARRY AWAY BY THE SEVENTH ROUND.
HE'S A VERY GOOD MAN, SIR, AND UH-- I RISPECT HIS ABILITY--BUT IF THE FELLAS EXPECT THAT--WELL--I--UH I'D SAY--WELL I'LL TRY TO OBLIGE 'EM.

WINNIE WINKLE — Bibbs Takes His Cue — BY BRANNER

DON'T YOU LIKE YOUR JOB HERE, WINNIE?
I LOVE MY JOB HERE, MR. BIBBS!
THEN WHY DO YOU WANT TO RESIGN?
I DON'T WANT TO RESIGN!
YOU LOVE YOUR JOB HERE--- YOU DON'T WANT TO RESIGN, AND YET YOU HAND ME THIS FORMAL RESIGNATION! HOW COME?
WELL, YOU'VE BEEN TRYING TO MARRY ME OFF TO DAN-- SO I THOUGHT YOU WERE TRYING TO GET RID OF ME!
OH, I GET IT! JUST A GENTLE HINT FOR ME TO STOP PLAYING DAN CUPID! OKAY, WINNIE!

NAPOLEON AND UNCLE ELBY — BY CLIFFORD McBRIDE

BY GOLLY, NAPOLEON'S IN FINE SPIRITS THIS MORNING. I MUST CATCH A FEW MOVIE SHOTS OF HIM FRISKING ON THE LAWN.
CONFOUND YOU, THIS IS A MOVIE! YOU'RE WASTIN' FILM!
COME ON! COME ON! YOU'RE NOT AN IRON DOG. LET'S HAVE SOME ACTION. DO SOMETHING.
NOT THAT! COME OUT OF THERE, YOU BLOOMIN' IDIOT!

JANE ARDEN — Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. — What Are We Waiting For? — BY MONTE BARRETT and RUSSELL ROSS

WE'VE ROUNDED UP MANY RINGS OF NAZI AGENTS BUT WITH "DR. Z" IT'S BEEN DIFFERENT-- HE'S THEIR MASTER SPY--WE MUST CATCH HIM!
AND THE ONLY TWO MEN WHO HAVE PICKED UP HIS TRAIL WERE KILLED--
EXACTLY--AND NOW WE'VE CAUGHT ONE OF HIS MESSENGERS --A WOMAN--WIFE OF A SPANISH DOCTOR IN MEXICO-- SHE'S ABOUT YOUR AGE.
I SEE-- I COULD TAKE HER PLACE--
IF YOU'RE WILLING TO TAKE THE RISK-- WE HAVE HER PAPERS-- SHE HAS CONFESSED --AND WE ARE SURE "DR. Z" DOESN'T KNOW ANYTHING HAS HAPPENED TO HER.
WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?

"These are bad times for us missionaries, Snodgrass—religion we can explain to the natives, but how are we going to explain civilization?"

Listen! with Glynn

When you hear some such somewhat peculiar title for a musical selection as "Dinner Music for a Pack of Hungry Cannibals" or "War Dance for Wooden Indians" you probably know, if you know anything about popular music, that they're associated with a gentleman named Raymond Scott.

If it were just a matter of queer titles, the matter might not even be worth mentioning. But, as it is, Mr. Scott's music also has a habit of becoming immensely popular without benefit of them, and such records of his as "Powerhouse," "Huckleberry Duck" and "Tuxedo Junction," not to mention his "In an Eighteenth Century Drawing Room"—where he ever got the orthodox title for that one, no one can seem to find out—have established some sort of record sale for records.

Scott wrote all these things when he was a C. B. S. staff conductor and then, so great was the demand for his services, he formed his own orchestra and went on a tour of the country, a tour on which he's been engaged for the past year or so.

All this is preliminary to announcing, with as much fanfare as is possible in chaste print, that he has returned from that tour and tonight at 8 o'clock—over WJSV and the Columbia network — starts a new series of programs, largely devoted to his own music.

One of his new selections to be played should be of particular interest to Washington. It's titled "Careful Conversation at a Diplomatic Luncheon."

Bridge

At the recent Eastern women's bridge tournament Mrs. Doris Fuller frightened the defense into a favorable opening lead by her bold bidding and ran in a doubled five-diamond contract that had no business to be made.

Mrs. Fuller, whose partner was the blonde Mrs. Donald B. Tansill, jumped right into five diamonds as soon as the bidding swung around to her. She was lucky to make the hand when the defense failed to open spades and she was able to develop a discard for one of her losers by catching a doubleton queen. The cards and bidding are presented in today's box here is the play:

West followed up her questionable double with the unfortunate choice of the club king as her opening lead. Mrs. Fuller trumped and played the ace and king of diamonds. She then led her singleton heart and finessed the jack when West followed low. East won the heart ace and played a spade, but it was now too late. Declarer won with the ace of spades, cashed the heart king, discarding a spade, and catching West's queen. The ten of hearts provided another spade discard which West trumped with the diamond queen. Thus declarer made five diamonds, losing a heart and a trump trick.

Had West opened the queen of spades, knocking out the ace at once, declarer would have been set two, losing a heart, two spades and a diamond. East and West can make five clubs, giving up a spade and a heart.

...NIP-NIP MAKE SUDDEN HURRY TEA AN' EAT THINGS FOR MAMA. PAPA AN' GIRL-CHILD!
PAT, THIS IS DIFFICULT! THAT AMAZING LITTLE MAN SEEMS TO HAVE TAKEN US IN BECAUSE HE THINKS I AM YOUR WIFE AND MERRILY IS YOUR DAUGHTER...AND IT REMINDS HIM OF HIS OWN WIFE AND CHILD...
HE'S GETTING SUCH A BOOT OUT OF IT...I HATE TO TELL HIM! FOR THAT MATTER, I WISH IT WERE TRUE!... I'LL TAKE HIM ASIDE AFTER WE EAT!.. HERE COMES THE GRUB!
HMM—GOOD!
MUZZ!, THE CHINESE PEOPLE ARE SO NICE TO US...WHY WAS DADDY SO VERY FRIENDLY WITH THOSE JAPANESE SOLDIERS?

MARY WORTH'S FAMILY — BY DALE ALLEN

YOU DON'T SEEM LIKE AN ORDINARY CHAUFFEUR, PAT BURKE!
YE MEAN, BECAUSE I PUT ME SIXPENCE'S WORTH INTO THE TALK ABOUT MISS BABS!
PARTLY--BUT THERE'S SOMETHING--MILITARY ABOUT YOU!
SURE 'TIS A KEEN EYE YE HAVE, MRS. WORTH!
UP UNTIL SIX WEEKS AGO, I WAS FLYIN' WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE--THEN I CAME DOWN WITH A SPLINTER FROM AN ACK-ACK SHELL IN ME LEG--
BUT WHAT BROUGHT YOU TO THIS CITY--OF ALL PLACES?
THIS PRECIOUS BIT O' PAPER--! CAN YE KEEP A SECRET, MRS. WORTH?

MICKEY FINN — Contact! — BY LANK LEONARD

YOU'RE MIGHTY LUCKY TO BE GOING HOME TODAY, MR. FINN— THEY THOUGHT YOUR SKULL WAS FRACTURED, DIDN'T THEY?
YES—I WAS HIT ON THE HEAD BY A THUG AND—PSSS-ST! PHIL—THERE GOES THAT NEW NURSE I WAS TELLING YOU ABOUT!
BOY-O-BOY—SHE'S A HONEY! I CAN GET A GOOD LOOK AT HER!
CRASH!

MR. AND MRS — Another Illusion Gone — BY ARTHUR FOLWELL and ELLISON HOOVER

OH, JOE! WERE INVITED TO A COCKTAIL PARTY. HERE'S THE TELEGRAM!
WE ARE? SWELL!
ISN'T IT WONDERFUL! WE'LL HAVE A CHANCE TO SEE A LOT OF CELEBRITIES!
IT SURE IS. COUNT ME IN (THE COCKTAIL PARTY)
OH, JOE! LET'S GO HOME!
COME ON. I LIKE 'EM BETTER WHEN I JUST READ ABOUT 'EM.

DIXIE DUGAN — Not a Joke — BY J. P. McEVOY and H J. STRIEBEL

EH? WHAT'S THIS?! WHAT'S THIS??
A PICK!
AND A SHOVEL—AND A RAKE—AND WHY—THAT'S ALL!
(GASP) A MISERABLE JOKE!
I'M AFRAID IT'S NOT A JOKE! READ!
YOU WANTED A FORTUNE? WELL TAKE THESE TOOLS AND GO OUT AND DIG FOR YOURSELVES! THAT'S WHAT I HAD TO DO!

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Exit — BY FRANK MARTINEK

OOPS! THOSE JAPS ARE GETTING THE RANGE! START THE MOTORS QUICK!
OUTWARD BOUND! AND HERE'S A PERIOD TO END THIS CHAPTER! THOSE DEVILS WILL REMEMBER TOLUGA!

BIG CHIEF WAHOO — BY SAUNDERS AND WOGGON

YOU SAY YOU HAVE A JOB FOR US? ONE THAT'S IMPORTANT AND DANGEROUS?
EXACTLY! WE STILL REMEMBER THE WAY YOU OUTWITTED MR. WATSIKI, AND BROUGHT THE SECRET EXPLOSIVE TO WASHINGTON!
WATSIKI WAS A BAD HOMBRE! I'M GLAD HE WAS ON THE HOUSE-BOAT WHEN IT BLEW UP!
YES--BUT, UNFORTUNATELY, WE STILL HAVE THOUSANDS LIKE HIM TO COPE WITH!
--AND SOME OF THEM ARE IN SMALL SUBMARINES, PREYING ON THE SHIPPING, OFF OUR WEST COAST! THAT'S WHERE YOU TWO COME IN!!
YOU WANT US TO RIDE IN TIN FISHES?
NO, WE WANT YOU TO HELP US LOCATE THE SECRET BASE FROM WHICH THOSE SHARKS ARE OPERATING! WE HAVE REASON TO BELIEVE IT'S RIGHT HERE!

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED

—WHEN ED CAME HOME AND FOUND HIS WIFE DEAD, HE THOUGHT SHED OPENED THE BARN DOOR AND WAS KILLED BY THE DEATH TRAP, BUT SOMEONE HAD MURDERED HER!
AND THAT SOMEONE LATER CAME TO THE BARN AND RELOADED THE TRAP. THAT WAS WHEN ED WAS KILLED! I FOLLOWED THE MURDERER'S SNOWSHOE TRACK OUT TO THE ROAD. MR. GRIMES, CAN YOU SNOWSHOE?
MERCY, NO! NOT WITH THIS GOUT!
